

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2171

Chapter 2171

The officers and soldiers asked her to show her papers.

Francesca said straight away, "My papers have been taken away by Lord Silas, who said that His Highness has been experiencing conching pains in his lower back, which is now causing a recurring high fever, and His Majesty is worried that something has happened to His Highness, so he asked me to hurry over to check on him first, and Lord Silas will be here later."

"Yes, yes, His Highness is now suffering from these symptoms." The senior officer said in a hurry.

When the guards heard Francesca's name and said the right symptoms, they did not stop her and let her in directly.

Francesca then carried the medical box and followed that senior officer in.

On the way, the senior officer couldn't help but sigh, "Alas, a prince in all his glory has ended up in such a miserable state!"

"When I last examined His Highness, he was still able to sit and his back was fine, how did he get like this now?" Francesca asked in a soft voice.

"Who knows." The senior officer shook his head and sighed, "The hidden truth of this is probably only known to them."

"You are Lord Silas's subordinate, right?"

Francesca saw that the senior officer's words were full of sympathy for William, so he must not be one of those cousins' men.

"Yes." The senior officer nodded, "Lord Silas sent me here to look after His Highness, but His Highness' condition has become increasingly serious since the onset of his illness, and now he is paralysed in bed, and the doctors at the hospital are at their wits' end.

The doctors at the hospital are at their wits' end. His Highness is now refusing to eat or drink water, and seems to have lost faith in life. I suppose that His Majesty is just making a show of it."

That last sentence, the senior officer's muttered in a low voice, afraid that outsiders would hear it, but Francesca still heard it clearly.

No wonder, even an old servant was full of pity for William, his fate nowadays was indeed saddening.

Thinking about it, the old king actually understood how William got into this state, but he didn't protect him or even pursue him, he just sent someone to send him to the hospital to hang on to his life.

It seemed that he still cared about him, but in fact, it just gave him a good reputation of kindness.

In fact, he didn't care about William's life.

William probably also knew these inside stories and had despaired of life, so he had given up his desire to live.

If she had come a few days later, She's afraid she really wouldn't have been able to see him.

Thinking about this, Francesca couldn't help but feel guilty.

The two of them walked through a wooded path and soon arrived at a small building.

The place was guarded by soldiers everywhere and looked heavily guarded, as if they were protecting William, but in fact it was all about surveillance.

Francesca followed the senior officer outside the ward and was about to enter when there was a banging sound, followed by William's breathless bellow: "Get out!"

He didn't want to see anyone, he didn't want to eat, he didn't want to live.

He had given up on himself completely.

The maids didn't try to persuade him, they just packed up their things and came out, leaving in silence.

The senior officer sighed, pushed the door open and went in, advising, "Your Highness, you can't do this to your old age, you are still young."

"Get out, all of you." William was about to lose his temper, but, the moment he saw Francesca he was stunned.

"Your highness, this is the doctor that his majesty has hired for you, he heard that your condition is treated well with medicine, his majesty specially asked someone to hire her, you must cooperate well with the treatment."

The senior officer advised in a serious tone.

“Alright, all of you go out, I want to stick needles on His Highness.”

Francesca came forward with the medical kit, the gentleman examined William and then began to stick needles into him.

William looked at her deeply, very emotional, at this moment, Francesca was the hope of his life.

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2172

Chapter 2172

The senior officer was surprised to see that William did not resist the treatment this time, and even cooperated. He hurriedly dismissed the other nurses and stood by to watch Francesca stick the needles into William.

After about half an hour, Francesca finished sticking the needles, turned back to the senior officer and said, “I need His Highness’s case and some medicine, please prepare it.”

“You can write the prescription and I’ll have them prepared right away.” The senior officer was very happy, “It seems that you little girl still has some skills, I will definitely report this to Mr. Silas later and let him reward you properly.”

“Thank you.” Francesca casually wrote a list and handed it to the senior officer, “Please!”

The senior officer took it to the door and left it to his subordinates, not meaning to leave himself.

Francesca exchanged a glance with William.

William spoke slowly, “I’m hungry.”

“Huh?” The senior officer first froze for a moment, then couldn’t help but be overjoyed, “Your Highness is finally willing to eat? That’s great, I’ll have someone prepare it right away.”

“I want to eat something from outside.” William’s voice was weak and hoarse, with a hint of sadness, “This hospital food, it’s not for humans.”

The old officer sighed, “I am sorry for you, Your Highness, I will have it bought.”

“Go yourself, lest those guards find out and make another stir.” William said with a hint of pleading, “Please, if I survive, I will be grateful in the future!”

"Your Highness, don't say that." The old officer looked at him with pity, "As a prince, you should have been enjoying the best of everything."

Halfway through the words, he sighed deeply and changed his tone, "I will go and prepare for you now."

With that, he hurriedly left, only to walk out of the room, still cautiously urging the people outside, "Watch carefully, nothing must happen."

"Yes!"

The door of the room closed, leaving William and Francesca alone in the room.

Francesca hurriedly locked the door behind him and asked William in a low voice, "William, how did you get like this?"

"They poisoned it." William ate it back and hurriedly pursued, "Francesca, are you alone, or did you come with Mr. Lindberg?"

"I came with Monica." Francesca was a little ashamed, "I couldn't get through to Danrique, he wouldn't come."

"I expected that." William smiled bitterly, then said eagerly, "Since he's not coming, you shouldn't get involved in this matter anymore, hurry up and leave, it's dangerous here."

"No, I have to get you out." Francesca helped William up.

"Don't be silly." William hurriedly stopped, "You can't save me, there are guards everywhere outside, it's impossible to leave, besides, even if we manage to escape from the hospital, we won't be able to escape from Danontand."

"Then what should we do?" Francesca was anxious, "We can't just wait here to die, can we?"

"The king won't let me die for a while." William sneered, "Danontand is financially strapped and my group's assets could help him a great deal, so isn't he trying to save me?"

Francesca responded then, "The king is really saving you?"

"Of course it's true." William laughed to himself, "Why else would he have sent me to the hospital? He didn't want me to get completely well, but he didn't want me to die, and just being half dead was the best."

"So what now?" Francesca couldn't figure out the complexities of this and asked directly, "Go save Robin and the others first?"

“What happened to Robin and the others?” William hurriedly pursued the question.

“You still don’t know?” Francesca was stunned for a moment, then sighed, “That’s right, you’ve been locked up here, you lost contact with the outside world a long time ago, it’s normal that you don’t know.”

“What’s going on?” William asked anxiously.

“William’s castle has been sealed off, no one is allowed in or out, no food or water has been delivered in, and their water and electricity communications have been cut off, now, those eighty or so people in your castle are in a very dangerous situation.”

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2173

Chapter 2173

Hearing these words, William was shocked and dumbfounded, “What do you mean? How could this happen??”

“Probably the castle was sealed up in the name of investigation.” Francesca whispered, “I don’t know the details, it was Monica who got the information.”

“It seems His Majesty has given the investigation to those brutes.” William was very agitated, “He knew they wanted to put me to death and he let them investigate.”

“Now is not the time to talk about that, you hurry up and make a decision now, should I get you out?” Francesca looked at his watch, “It’s been over forty minutes since I came in, if I delay any longer, I’m afraid I’ll be found out.”

“I can’t go out.” William quickly calmed down, “If I do, they’ll be in even more danger.”

“So what now?” Francesca glanced out the window. There were a few guards hurrying this way, they should have spotted something, she hurriedly urged, “Hurry up, they’re coming.”

“Francesca, you go with Monica to Robin, he knows what to do.” William immediately said, “If it’s one or the other, save them first!!!”

“Good.” Without any nonsense, Francesca immediately carried the medical kit and flipped out of the window.

No sooner had she left than several guards kicked open the door to William’s room, pointing their guns inside, and seeing that the room was empty, they immediately started searching in.

William lay numbly on the bed, not saying a word.

Several guards did not find anyone and went to the window to check again, but Francesca was already far away and they could not see any trace of him, so they had to leave in anger.

From the moment they came to go, they completely ignored William's presence.

It was as if he was a dead man.

At that moment, the senior officer also returned and was shocked to learn that the previous doctor was a fake. He panicked and pushed open the room to check, and was relieved to see that William was still lying intact on the bed.

The guards gave a few words of advice to the senior officer and then left.

William lay on his sickbed, his eyes grim, staring at the ceiling.

Now that even the guards didn't regard him, his dignity wasn't even worth mentioning.

The king knew that the men wanted to put him to death, and he let them use the investigation into the poisoning to close off his castle, completely ignoring those men.

And he, too, was only barely hanging on to his life for the sake of the king's face and reputation.

He had been too naive to think that the king still had a touch of affection for him, that if he became good enough and had enough leverage, he could bring down those people.

Only now did he realize that the king and the houses were one and the same, and that it would be a fantasy to ask the king to punish them for him, the outcast.

But even if he didn't punish them, he didn't have to push him to the brink, right?

Why did he have to be so cruel when they were also blood relatives?

William couldn't understand, really couldn't understand.

Francesca escaped successfully and rejoined Monica.

When Monica saw her alone, she hurriedly asked after her, "What's going on? Where is His Highness?"

"William won't go, he told us to go find Robin." Francesca said, "Get in first, the guards have found out and are still looking for me."

"Why isn't His Highness leaving? We are here to save him." Monica asked anxiously.

Francesca didn't say anything and pushed her into Dominic's car.

The car started up and drove out before Francesca spoke back, "If we save him now, the people in the castle will be finished. Besides, even if we were able to get him out of the hospital, it would be hard to leave Danontand."

"Then we can't just leave him in the hospital to die." Monica was anxious, "You should get him out first, we'll figure out the rest later."

"You didn't hear what I said clearly?" Francesca frowned, "If we get him out now, then Robin and those people in the castle will be finished!!! If those people die because of him, then will William still be able to live?"

Monica was speechless.

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2174

Chapter 2174

"I know you're worried about William, but now we must focus on the overall situation." Francesca's tone softened and she advised softly, "He told us to go to Robin, said that Robin knows what to do next."

"Now that the castle is closed off and there are soldiers stationed outside, it's not good to blend in." Dominic spoke slowly, "It'll take some time, I'll think of something."

"Dominic, it's all up to you." Monica said hurriedly, "You must find a way to get us in."

"I know." Dominic looked at Monica in the rear view mirror, "Let's go back now, you guys get some rest."

Dominic took the two home first, to a small villa in the suburbs.

Francesca changed Monica's medicine and treated her wounds, then went back to her room.

There were a few messages on her phone, from Anthony, bitterly advising her to leave William's affairs alone, saying that the aftermath of this matter was endless and more troublesome than Chrono.

She looked at the short messages, unsure how to respond.

She also now realised the seriousness of the matter.

Thinking back, when she first treated William's leg, her auntie Layla and the others were against it, they said that once they got involved, there would be a lot of trouble in the future.

But she didn't even think about it at the time, she just thought that William was her friend and she couldn't just see it through to the end.

Who would have thought that what was thought to be a simple treatment would now involve a battle of royalty and so many lives.

The responsibility on her shoulders was simply like a snowball that was rolling bigger and bigger.

She really felt like she was riding a tiger now, knowing that the road ahead was getting more and more dangerous, but she couldn't back down.

After all, this matter has become involved with her, not only William, but also the eighty or so people in the castle, all waiting for her to save their lives.

At this time, there was no way she was going to run away from the battle!

But, thinking that her auntie Layla and Uncle Lincoln were also in danger now, Francesca was worried. All these years, they had been watching over her, but now they were in danger and there was nothing she could do.

Moreover, before they left, they instructed her to keep an eye on the orphanage, but now, she had been running around outside, leaving all the orphanage matters to Anthony, and she had done nothing.

When the foundation was in trouble, Anthony had calculated that all her remaining money and the money transferred by Uncle Lincoln would only last two months combined.

Now that more than a month had passed, funding was also a big problem.

Thinking about this gave Francesca a splitting headache and she stayed up all night, taking some medicine to get some sleep.

She didn't know how long she slept, but Monica woke her up, "Ms.Felch, Ms.Felch!"

Francesca was sleeping heavily when she was woken up, she couldn't help but feel a little uncomfortable: "What's wrong?"

"Dominic has come up with a solution, we can act now." Monica said anxiously, "You should get up."

Francesca rolled out of bed and prepared to change her clothes.

Monica took a set of clothes and gave them to her, "Put this on, no one can get in or out of the castle now, the only way to get in is to disguise yourself as a guard, I'll drive tonight and you can blend in with Dominic."

"Okay." Francesca changed into her clothes and followed Dominic Monica out.

On the way, Monica instructed Dominic, "First, find a way to find Robin and give him my special communicator for future contact."

"Don't worry, I know." Dominic nodded, and had some concerns, "Or else I'll blend in alone, Ms.Felch is so small, I'm afraid I'll be recognised."

"It's alright, I'm more familiar with the castle, we'll see what happens when the time comes." Francesca said, "I must see Robin to know the real situation they are in now."

"Ms.Felch, then you be safe." Monica handed her a gun, "In case anything happens, you can protect yourself."

"Thanks."

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2175

Chapter 2175

The three of them drove to the woods near William's Castle, and Dominic took Francesca out of the car and walked there, and the two of them blended in through the back door.

Two guards were also heard chatting idly, "Have a cigarette."

"How dare you smoke when you're on guard duty? If you get caught, you're finished."

"What are you afraid of? The people in this castle are just like dead people, they don't know how to resist at all, and no one comes in or out when they are told not to. Look, after being locked up for so many days, there is no movement at all, it's simply superfluous for us to guard here."

"That's right, these people have been so used to being suppressed that they are like birds in a cage, they no longer have any backbone, look at their master, that William, he is still at the mercy of others and now they don't even know whether to live or die."

"Yes, the master is like that, what else are they capable of?"

"How long do you think we'll have to hold here?"

“Not for long, the water is poisoned and there is no food, how long can they hold out?”

“It’s now the seventh day and I don’t know if the people inside are dead or alive.”

“There should be spare food in the castle, seven days isn’t enough for people to die, but it’s said they’ve all been poisoned, so I don’t think they’ll last much longer.”

“OK, just a few more days and then we’ll go back.”

“That’s right, come on, have a cigarette.”

“Thanks brother.”

Hearing these comments, Francesca felt a sense of sadness in her heart.

Indeed, the castle was full of pure and simple people who had been oppressed for so long over the years that they had become numb, and now they didn’t even have the courage to struggle against it, they just had to listen to God’s will

They just expect a heavenly god to come down and save them from the fire.

Just like that time, when Francesca came to this castle, everyone looked at her as if she was looking at a saviour.

She could never forget that scene.

“This way!”

Dominic pulled Francesca and slipped in through the kitchen.

Seeing the scene in front of them, both of them were stunned.

The formerly luxurious and glorious castle was now like a refugee camp.

There were no lights in the house, only some candle flames emitting a faint glow.

Everyone was gathered in the halls and hallways, as if they were surviving the end of the world together.

They were all dishevelled and breathless, as if they were very ill.

When they saw someone barge in at home, everyone did not react, they just looked over weakly.

Until one person recognised Francesca: “Ms.Felch?”

At this, everyone seemed to come back to life and all looked towards Francesca.

Once they were sure that the person who came was Francesca, at once, a new hope was sparked in their eyes.

“Ms.Felch, is it really you?”

“Ms.Felch has come back, she has come back to save us.”

“Ms.Felch...”

The room was full of people gathered around, looking at Francesca with excitement.

There were some maids hiding their faces and crying, but they didn't dare to make a sound.

Francesca's eyes turned red all of a sudden, looking at them sadly, with mixed feelings in her heart and a hundred different feelings.

“Ms.Felch, His Highness, he...” A maid was a little excited.

“Shhh~~” Dominic hurriedly made a hand gesture to remind everyone, “Keep your voice down, don't get caught.”

The maid hurriedly covered her mouth, not daring to speak.

“I've met His Highness today.” Francesca whispered, “He's fine now, don't worry guys.”

“Great, great!”

Everyone was happy to know that William was still alive, as if they had the motivation to live again.

“Where's Robin?”

Francesca glanced at the hall, but she didn't see Robin.

“Since you left, there has been no doctor to treat Mr.Robin, he ran out of the medicine you gave him, he has been weaned off it and has had a high fever repeatedly since yesterday, he is now lying in his room.”

An older maid choked, “I just went to give him water, and he is still calling His Highness's name in a confused way.”

Francesca: “Take me to him.”

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2176

Chapter 2176

“Yes.”

The maid held up the candlestick and led Francesca to Robin’s room.

The journey was bleak everywhere.

The castle was cut off from water, electricity and gas, so at night everyone had to use candlelight to keep warm and drink water and eat bread and biscuits during the day.

But there was now very little food and water left in the castle, so everyone had to remain basically starving to death.

That’s how they made it through the seven days, but the biggest problem was the wounded, who simply couldn’t make it through.

Robin, for example, had run out of his previous medicine and his wounds started to become inflamed.

Luckily Francesca was prepared and came in with his backpack.

Seeing the unconscious Robin on the hospital bed, Francesca immediately gave him medicine and treated his wounds.

Dominic also gave the food and water in his backpack to everyone and whispered, “Because of the fear of being discovered, we can only bring this much for now, you guys share it first and we’ll figure out what to do.”

“Thank you, thank you so much.”

Everyone was grateful, what they had brought was not only food and medicine, but also the hope to live.

Francesca had someone find a wet towel to put on Robin and give him a needle, then she distributed the medicine in her backpack to everyone, the medicine she carried now was limited and could only temporarily stabilise everyone’s toxicity, it couldn’t cure them completely, but it was good enough to stabilise them.

Everyone was very grateful and talked to her about the recent events.

After she had escaped, William was taken away and Robin thought then to go out and try to find a way, but the castle was soon closed.

Someone then came and announced that Charlie had taken over the investigation into the poisoning of the castle and because of suspected insider problems, the castle was now to be sealed off and no one was allowed in or out.

Everyone was stunned at the time.

That Charlie was the cousin who loved to bully William, and William had once suspected that he had poisoned the castle, but now he was asked to take over the investigation.

As expected, Charlie soon had the electricity, water and gas disconnected from the castle, and had someone stationed on the outskirts of the castle, not allowing anyone in or out, and not bringing them food or water, leaving them to fend for themselves.

Robin tried to call out for help, but found that the communication equipment had also been cut off, and he could not make any calls or contact the outside world.

Then later it became what it is now, and everyone kept expecting someone to come to their rescue, but day after day passed, and when Robin all fell ill, they also lost hope of life.

Hearing these words, Francesca was furious and unforgivable, those people were simply heartless and inhumane.

At that moment, Robin on the hospital bed responded. Francesca hurriedly went up to check on him, he had gradually woken up, Dominic had him fed with water again, and soon, he became conscious.

When he looked clearly at Francesca, his whole body became excited: "Ms.Felch, you have finally come back, we are saved, we are saved."

"Robin, don't get excited, take the medicine first."

Francesca fed him the medicine again and told him to drink more water.

Soon, Robin's spirits also improved and he turned his head to look at the side, seemingly searching for something in the crowd.

"What are you looking for?" Dominic asked him.

"You're...?"

"This is Monica's partner." Francesca introduced.

"Oh, it's Dominic, I almost didn't recognise him." Robin squeezed out a smile and eagerly asked Francesca, "Ms.Felch, didn't Mr.Lindberg's men escort you here?"

He thought that when Francesca returned to Danontand, she should have come with Danrique, and even if Danrique was too dignified to come here, his men would have come.

But he had just searched around and didn't see anyone from the Lindberg family.

"No, I went back to Danontand's alone with Monica." Francesca knew what he was thinking, she said, "Danrique refused to help me."

Hearing these words, Robin's eyes instantly turned bleak again, lowering his head and sighing deeply.

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2177

Chapter 2177

Knowing the heavy topic to be talked about next, Dominic dismissed the others and then silently stood guard outside the door.

Francesca reassured Robin, "It's okay, he's not coming, I'm coming. I will do my best to help you."

"Ms.Felch, I know you are affectionate, but this matter, it is not something you can resist." Robin said sadly –

"In the beginning, His Highness took such a big risk to send you away because he wanted you to go and ask for help, and by coming back alone, you not only sacrificed such a good opportunity for nothing, but also made you put yourself in danger again."

"There's no way, I can't convince him." Francesca was also helpless, "Let's discuss what to do first, I saw William today."

"You met His Highness?" Robin was very excited, "How is His Highness now?"

"He's in a very poor state of health, but I gave him medicine and needles today, so he'll be able to take a few days off for now." Francesca said, "I was going to rescue him, but he refused to go and asked me to come to you, saying that you knew what to do next."

Hearing these words, instead of the expected relief, Robin became heavier, and after a long time he said with a sigh, "Is it true that there is no way out now?"

"Or what?" Francesca asked rhetorically.

"Alas" Robin asked deeply, "it seems there is only one desperate option!"

....

The following day, all the internationally renowned media were exposing a shocking news –

Danontand's William's Castle was sealed off, water, electricity and gas were cut off, a total of eighty-four people inside were not allowed in or out, nor were they given any food, and the people in the castle were now on the verge of death!

The news, accompanied by photos of the miserable state of the castle, soon became a global sensation!!!

Francesca lay on the sofa at Monica's house, looking at the newspaper and then at the news buzz on her phone, and sighed –

"Monica, you are quite resourceful, finding so much media exposure all at once, this time, apart from the Danontand's media, almost every famous media outlet in the world is exposing the story, a lot of public pressure has been created now, the old king should let the people in the castle go, right?"

"I'm not that optimistic." Monica said with a frown, "I'm rather worried that they'll turn on these people."

"There's the next move." Dominic had just finished his phone call and came over with his phone, "I just sent a group photo of the eighty-four people in the castle to the media, they'll be releasing it soon."

"A group photo?" Monica froze for a moment and quickly responded, "Yes, yes, it's going to be a group photo, and when one of the people in the group photo is missing, it's that Charlie's pot."

"I have a lot more information here, put a bit in one day." Dominic said, "Robin is really good at coming up with such awesome tricks."

"It's not Robin who's great, it's William." Francesca raised an eyebrow and said, "This is probably a backstep he had thought of a long time ago, handing over to Robin to follow this plan if he was desperate."

"Right." Monica nodded, "This would have been planned by His Highness long ago, I did advise him when he asked me to take you away, he said he had left a back way out, that no matter what happened he had a plan to deal with it."

"William is indeed a man of far-sightedness." Dominic said this with some meaning, "However, what we have to think about now is probably moving."

"Moving?" Monica was wondering.

Francesca suddenly felt a murderous aura approaching, and she immediately rushed into the room to get her backpack

“Bang Bang Bang!”

Gunshots rang out from outside the door, and the door of the room was instantly turned into a hornet’s nest by the bullets.

Francesca jumped down from the window with her backpack on her back, and Dominic jumped down with Monica.

The three of them landed safely and quickly fled.

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2178

Chapter 2178

Next, the three of them were on the run...

That night, Monica was given a stern warning by her superiors not to interfere with the Danontand royal family’s affairs, and she was suspended and cut off from contact with the media.

Luckily, Dominic had not been found out yet, and his boss only warned him not to follow Monica’s nonsense, which he excused by saying he was working on a case.

For now, the information given by Robin was on Dominic’s side, and Dominic was still able to contact the media in his own name.

And those media, although they were given a stern warning by the FBI and the Danontand royal family, could not stop their ambition to get big news, and while they promised well on the surface, they actually continued to break the story.

So the plan could still go ahead.

It’s just that Francesca, Monica and Dominic, the three of them, have been living a life on the run ever since.

Because they had to think about finding a chance to save William and the people in the castle, the three didn’t dare to leave the Danontand, and in this way they were always within range of the chase.

Every day they were in fear and danger, constantly on the run.

Seven days passed in this way.

The news about the Danontand royal family grew stronger and stronger and now caused a very big stir around the world, with people even flying drones to William's Castle to find out what was going on.

This was soon confirmed.

So, public opinion continued to fester.

Now public opinion had evolved to digging up the old king's scandal and the truth about the strange and tragic death of William's parents in the first place, plus the fact that William was crippled by a fall from a horse.

The public opinion kept escalating and the fire had reached the old king.

The old king had to stop the closure of William's castle, turn on the electricity in the castle, connect the castle to a new water supply and send supplies himself.

All these actions were recorded and publicised by the local Danontand media, and the reasons for the previous closure were explained to the public.

In this way, Robin and the eighty-three people in the castle finally regained their freedom.

William, on the other hand, was still in hospital for treatment because he was seriously ill, and the king kept him under control in the name of curing him.

Francesca was finally relieved that this torment had freed the people in the castle, and that the effort had not been in vain.

Those people now knew that Francesca and Monica were up to something, so they had sealed up the whole hospital and heavily guarded it, so it was hard to mix in.

Moreover, the gang was tracking them with increasing urgency, and now the three of them were on the run every day, sometimes not getting enough sleep for three hours a day, and Monica's wound had even split open while they were on the run.

The three were already exhausted.

This night, Dominic managed to find a room in a countryside hotel, and told Francesca and Monica to take a bath and rest while he refuelled the car and then stood guard outside.

Francesca treated Monica's wound and prepared to give her medicine, but found that the medicine in her bag was gone. She called Dominic to go and buy medicine, which he did immediately, urging them to be safe before he left.

Monica was really tired and with her injuries, she soon fell asleep.

Francesca was worried that the trackers would find her again and didn't dare to sleep at all, so she could only lie on the sofa while charging and checking her phone.

It had been eight days since she arrived at Danontand, and Danrique had not made a single phone call, nor had he even sent her a short message.

Only Gordon sent a message saying that their people had found her auntie Layla and placed her in a hospital in Zarain. They had also sent someone to protect her, so that Francesca could rest assured.

As for Uncle Lincoln, they were still negotiating with Riz Corporation's people, which was difficult and would take some time, but Riz Corporation's people knew that Uncle Lincoln was related to Danrique, so they should not touch him.

Francesca replied with a "thank you" and said nothing more.

She knew in her heart how difficult it was to snatch someone from Riz Corporation.

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2179

Chapter 2179

Although Danrique was now firmly established and also had a very high status and power, he was still surrounded by external and internal problems.

At this time, no sensible person would try to offend Riz Corporation.

But for her sake, he did it anyway.

No one mentioned these things to Francesca, but she knew them in her heart. But she didn't understand, she had been here for so long and Danrique hadn't even called, was he really not worried about her? Or was it that he had really died to her because of this incident and had decided to break up completely?

But if he really wanted to break up, then why did he still help her save her auntie Layla and Uncle Lincoln?

Just as she was thinking, Francesca's mobile phone vibrated and she answered the call, "Anthony!"

"Auntie contacted me, she's been saved." Anthony was very excited, "The people who saved her should be from the Lindberg family."

“Yes, I just saw the news from Gordon.” Francesca whispered, “He said that Auntie Layla has been placed in the hospital and that Uncle Lincoln’s affairs are being negotiated. This is probably the only good news lately, I’ll return this favour to Danrique later, I do have to thank him this time.”

“Yes, Danrique has always come to the rescue at critical moments, unlike that William who drags you down every time.” Anthony was indignant at the thought of this, “When I called your phone these past few days, it was either switched off or there was no signal, what the h-e-l-l are you doing? I’m really worried about you.”

“On the run!” Francesca smiled to herself, “Okay, nothing I’ll hang up first.”

“There’s one more thing.” Anthony hurriedly called out to her.

“Hm?” Francesca remembered, “Is there not enough money for the orphanage? I’ll think of something.”

“It’s already been solved.” Anthony said, “There’s a newly established foundation that donated a sum of money to us, and the orphanage is now able to run normally, and the other party also said that they will transfer money over on time every month from now on.”

“That good?” Francesca was overjoyed, “Which foundation is it? Is it the one Uncle Lincoln contacted before?”

“The name of this foundation is the C Nation Foundation, the same as the name of our orphanage. I checked, it was specially registered by Lindberg in S Nation ten days ago, and currently the entire foundation only has our orphanage’s outgoing accounts, other than that, there are no other account transactions.”

Hearing these words, Francesca was stunned.

She was completely unaware that Danrique had actually done so many things for her.

Ten days ago, when she was in Xendale, without saying anything or asking, he did not move and had someone register a foundation in S Nation to solve the financial problems of the orphanage for her, even the name was chosen for her.

“You don’t know about these things?” Anthony asked.

“I don’t know.” Francesca was a little ashamed, “He didn’t mention it to me.”

“There is one more thing.” Anthony said, “After you left, I was a bit overwhelmed managing the orphanage by myself, and a few days ago something happened at a few orphanages in other areas, and I was about to go over there to deal with it, but the local staff said it had been resolved.

I was about to go over there to deal with it, but the local staff said it had been sorted out. I was so relieved that I went over there to check on it and found out that someone had been secretly protecting our orphanage and if anything happened to it, a medical facility and the local police would immediately step in to deal with it. And this secretly protecting us are all branches of Lindberg's!

Our orphanages are all over the world, and their branches are all over the world. Wherever there is a Lindberg branch, our orphanages have a talisman.

For the past few days, I've been verifying this matter and thought of talking to you about it, but I haven't been able to contact you."

After a pause, Anthony said from the bottom of his heart, "I didn't like Danrique before because I heard some rumors about him and always felt that he was cold-blooded and heartless, but now it seems that he really has good intentions for you!"

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2180

Chapter 2180

Something happened, why was it so quiet recently?

It turned out that Danrique secretly sent someone to guard him.

He did a lot of things for her behind his back, but he didn't say a word.

And she, as if she had never done anything for him, always caused him trouble.

Even, this time, she broke his heart in order to save William.

Thinking of this, Francesca felt very ashamed.

"Say thank you to him." Anthony reminded softly, "I don't want to speak for him, the main reason is that he saved auntie Layla and solved the orphanage issue. Plus that Kelly nagging in my ear every day, I'm tired of hearing it."

"Hehe..." Francesca smiled, "I see, you take care of yourself."

Hang up the phone, Francesca Hesitating whether to call Danrique, after thinking about it, she still dialed his number...

Soon, the call was answered: "Hello?"

This familiar voice seemed to have a sense of urgency and worry.

"What are you doing?"

Francesca didn't know what to say, so he had an awkward beginning.

"In the car."

Danrique breathed a sigh of relief. He thought something happened to Francesca. Hearing her voice, he knew she was fine now, so his tone became cold, "What? Is it easier to run away?"

"How do you know I'm running away?" Francesca blurted out.

"Nonsense." Danrique sneered mockingly, "You have created so much public opinion and made the Danontand royal family into a mess, how could they let you go?"

"Then aren't you worried?" Francesca asked displeased, "You didn't come to save me either."

"I told you not to go, but you went anyway." Danrique said angrily, "You risk your life to save others, so brave, so determined, so infatuated, how could I stop you?"

"Danrique..."

"Since they are all gone, why are you calling me?" The more Danrique thought about it, the more angry he became, "What's the matter, go to your William!"

"You..." Francesca was about to speak, when suddenly a gunshot hit the window glass, she was startled. She immediately turned up and called Monica, "Monica, get up..."

"Francesca..." Danrique shouted hastily, "Where are you? Send me the address..."

Before he finished speaking, there was a sudden explosion, and then the phone was disconnected.

Danrique's face changed drastically, and he immediately ordered: "Find out where she is immediately, and send someone to rescue her, hurry!!!"

"Yes, sir."

Gordon went to do it immediately.

At the same time, Francesca pulled Monica and jumped off the stairs. Behind them, the entire motel exploded, countless fragments splashed on them, and Monica screamed in pain.

Francesca was also seriously injured, but she still struggled to get up and reached out to help Monica.

At this moment, more than a dozen military vehicles rushed towards her, and the blazing lights shone into her eyes. At the same time, countless guns were pointed at her head.

“Finally I found you, bitch, how dare you harm me?”

A cold voice came, said, and shot Francesca directly.

“boom!”

Francesca was shot in the calf, fell to the ground, and her backpack fell out.

“Francesca, right?” A tall man walked in front of her, with black leather shoes stepping on her hand, “I heard that you are a genius doctor? I want to see if you can keep yourself alive!”

As he said, The man aimed his gun directly at Francesca’s head...

“You can’t kill her.” Monica shouted excitedly, “She is Mr.Lindberg’s fiancée, if you kill her, Mr.Lindberg will not let you go!”