

Medical road

Chapter 68

In the Department of Cardiology, I will always hear such a sentence: one of my old patients will never come again. Those who hear it will not ask where they have gone. But silence, the most emotion to say: Yes.

A layman sounds weird. What's all this. Never come again is to go to another world where there may be no pain.

Although Ye Jing's initiative is a little poor. But it's still very good for patients. It's not urgent or impatient. He is always smiling and talkative. He likes to chat with patients. He has a short family. He is very popular with the elderly.

Many of her old patients live in the hospital bed she manages when they come. When their condition is better, they will come to her to chat. She is often surrounded by a lot of old men and women, gossiping.

Ren Li doesn't want such a scene. She doesn't want doctors and patients to have too many contacts unrelated to treatment, which will affect the relationship between diagnosis and treatment. She is No. 2 Ouyang. She is more serious. One is one. She won't smile like Ye Jing.

In Ye Jing's words, the driving force for me to continue is that there are a group of old men and women around me. If I'm deprived of this vanity, what's the meaning of doing this business. It was a cold day.

Sense of achievement, this is a sense of achievement.

The ward is full, and the aisle is full of beds. Patients and family members are everywhere. Morning rounds, crowded to walk.

At the morning meeting, Ren Li got angry“ So many family members of patients can't arrive in time in case of accidents. They also talk about first aid and how to carry out normal treatment work like this. Head nurse, starting today, nurses go to double posts and increase the number of nursing workers. All family members are cleared out of the ward, and only one family member can be left for critical patients. ”

There's no way. The city's hospital is a little stronger. Everyone runs for good experts and good treatment conditions. It's impossible to reject anyone. That's the only way.

Increasing the number of nursing workers means increasing the cost of treatment. This expense is not reimbursed by medical insurance. If the conditions at home are really limited, they may leave and go to other hospitals for treatment.

Ren Li is not cold. There is no way. If there are critically ill patients and people all over the corridor, how to rescue them. If the rescue is not timely, it will kill people every minute. So only money can talk.

Three beds, an old patient, not a grade, 50 years old, a long history, and hypertension, coronary heart disease, pulmonary heart disease, chronic bronchitis, diabetes, almost all chronic diseases.

He is an old patient of Ye Jing. It has been seven or eight years since he was hospitalized for the first time. He is also a chatterbox. He likes to chat with Ye Jing. Because of cor pulmonale, he is suffocating. Sometimes he has to breathe through a mask. But as long as he can breathe, he will talk.

At the beginning of spring this year, there was another heavy snow. The originally hot temperature suddenly dropped several degrees. His condition worsened after he caught a cold. He was directly admitted to the critical ward and had been notified of his critical illness.

The old man, who is always very cheerful, has little desire for survival and doesn't like to talk this time. His gray face is dead. His wife also looked sad.

They have three children, two sons and a girl. In recent years, the old man has been ill, and the family has spent 7788. The youngest son is in his thirties. He finally found an object to get married. The girl asked for a marriage house instead of living with the old man.

The child is old and often worries about marriage. The old couple are also worried. They can't sleep all night. Finally, there was a girl who was willing to marry her son, but when people wanted a house, they were worried and angry, and the old man's condition was even worse.

"Auntie, I have to lose some protein. It's too low. You see, the old man has begun to swell up these days. " Ye Jing looked at the biochemical list and said to the old lady.

Albumin is the main substance to maintain nutrition and osmotic pressure. Globulin is a kind of material with immune protection function. Albumin globulin (Ag) is of great significance in clinic.

The price is also expensive. One is more than 700. You need to use many in a course of treatment. It also depends on biochemical indicators. It depends on his recovery. According to the old man's condition, it will take at least five or six days.

The old lady trembled her lips and said, "I'll call the children."

"Hector! He! " The old man lying on the bed waved his hands with an air mask. It means no, and don't call the child. But he is seriously ill. He can't wait to die in the hospital bed.

The old lady tucked him in and said, "OK, don't worry. I won't call. We'll go home in a few days. Don't get angry at all. You are in a hurry. Lie down and I'll see Dr. Ye off. "

Out of the ward, the old lady looked at Ye Jing and didn't say what she wanted to say. Ye Jing also knew that the old lady's situation was bad, but there was no other good way.

The old lady hesitated for a long time. She turned back and looked at her old man from the glass on the door. She still took out the phone: "girl, the doctor said your father was going to lose protein, and his face began to swell. Tell the boss if you can't lose for a few days. It's hard for me to see him uncomfortable. " He cried and cried silently.

In the afternoon, her daughter brought more than 5000, "lose, we'll find a way to solve it. Let Xiao San replace you in the evening. You also go home and have a rest. Don't let my father lie down. You're tired and ill. "

"I'm fine. Xiao San has found a part-time job these days. He's very tired."

Five thousand is the cost of treatment for two days at most. Two days later? The old lady is also tired these days, guarding by her bed day and night. The old man lost his protein and slept more steadily, otherwise he would wake up when he just fell asleep.

In the evening, the old lady fell asleep by the bed and snored when she was tired. The old man suddenly opened his eyes, gently touched the old lady's hair and stared for a long time. The woman who had lived with her all her life didn't enjoy any happiness, so she took care of him. She was good to eat and drink, just close to him, like her thin firewood stick.

"You can't drag them down any more. Neither she nor the children are easy. " He thought. Gently got out of bed and laboriously covered his wife with a dress. This is the last thing he can do for her. A long sigh of relief. I hope you can marry a capable man in your next life. If there is another life, I will not drag you down again.

Looking back at his wife lying by the bed, he said softly, "Mom, I'll go first." Calm and determined. Step on the stool and open the window. It's windy on the 20th floor. Really! The wind was strong and he threw himself down.

Bang! A dull sound. be gone! He's gone.

"I just got down and slept for a while. Why is he so worried. How can I live? You are so cruel. My heart! " The old lady cried to death.

The family supported the old lady. She had fainted several times. After several days of hard work and a great blow, she collapsed. He has been walking in the wind and rain for a lifetime. As a result, he ran away and left her loneliness and endless sadness.

Hospital dead people are normal, very normal things. But I have never committed suicide by jumping from a building in the municipal hospital. The police, the medical department, the administrative department, the logistics department and the security department all came.

The family members did not make trouble, nor did they pull banners, nor did they open a mourning hall in the Department of Cardiology. Just left quietly. She went home quietly with the relics of her husband and their father. No resentment was left to the hospital.

But the hospital can't just forget it. Why did he jump from a building. All the doctors, nurses and doctors in charge Ye Jing on duty on that day were suspended for internal inspection. The police first asked Ye Jing and the doctors and nurses on duty to understand the situation. Then the director talked with Ye Jing about what he said these days and whether he had any extreme behavior. The medical records are directly sealed and taken to the leaders of the hospital for examination.

Then the director of the medical department asked Ye Jing, "did you imply anything. Have you said anything that makes the patient commit suicide? "

Finally, Ouyang, the Dean, started with Ye Jing's performance in the Department. She was good for nothing.

Keep writing, write the course, write the course of these days. The tearful Ye Jing wrote while crying. All the doctors in the Department have a feeling of rabbit death and fox sorrow. I can only sympathize with Ye Jing and can't help at all.

How to solve this matter, whose fault, who should be punished. At a glance, Ye Jing is the lightest to record a major demerit. No matter how serious it is, she will have to revoke her doctor's practice certificate.

The director of the medical office also asked Zhang Fan about the treatment in recent days, whether Dr. Ye had, what he said or did. This has little to do with Zhang Fan. Ye Jing is a teacher. She has to carry everything. Good and bad are her business.

In the dormitory at night, lying in bed, Zhang Fan looked at the bright lights outside and endless fatigue swept through. What is this for.
