

Mr Ford 1271

Chapter 1271

Weston's face turned grim. He picked up the protective gear and headed out without saying anything.

The captain hurriedly stopped him. "Mr. Ford, what are you doing?"

"I'm finding her."

"No. You're not an expert. With all this snow, you could get lost."

"Are we just going to sit here and do nothing?"

"We've already sent a search team..."

Should they encounter difficulties, two might be lost or just captain knew that the woman Weston cared about was in the group. Saying nothing more, he rushed to followed them, intending to join the search for captain, however, hesitated a little. "Mr. Ford, it may get dangerous. We can't guarantee your safety if you insist on following us. You should the protective gear, then looked at the whistling snow ahead with a cold face. He told the Weston's back. For the first time, he saw that Weston saw with his own eyes. In his opinion, the mountains. Stella observed the worsening blizzard and looked around. As the people on

"Are we lost?"

mentioned the word. The rest of the group had little to say previously, but they were finally willing time before someone

Chapter 1272

"But if we stay here, we're doomed to die..."

No one responded to Stella's words. The rest of the group had no energy to move forward anymore. Perhaps it was due to the big mental blow because of their lapse in judgment. None of them were confident to rescue themselves.

Stella could only save herself. "We don't know where we are. No one else knows either. If you're going to stay here, give me the compass. I want to get out."

Rather than staying here and waiting for death, she could increase her chance of survival by searching outside. However, the rest of the group was down in the dumps and had no energy to refute her words.

Stella pursed her lips. She left one compass for them and took the other one, and got ready to leave.

At the same time, at the foot of the mountain...

soon as he came down, to him in anger and demanded Stella's whereabouts. From the reaction, he knew Roger in with her is the most experienced in the area. They'll be four hours. Are you telling me that she's fine?!" Roger was a little snowing heavily in the mountains. The signal here is bad, let alone the gathered several search teams to go in. Weston's men and looked him straight in the eyes. "Weston is here?"

flash of hostility in his eyes. Even so, he knew it was not the time to be jealous.

was about to go into the mountains to search. Roger did not think twice about following them.

an expert. If you

I don't know if she's dead or alive. Are you expecting something happens if you follow them recklessly? You'll be a distraction. The rescue team will have to rescue you instead! That'll make Stella's situation even more dangerous!"

Chapter 1273

Though the cave was warmer than the frozen wasteland outside, she was still shivering with cold.

Stella found some dry branches and tried to start a fire, but she was running low on resources.

Stella took a look at the snowstorm outside and let off a flare. She had set off a few along the way, but no one had found her.

Stella observed the surroundings and calculated that she could still last another night.

After some time, however, she suddenly felt something moving outside and was immediately alerted.

Stella heard about the possibility of encountering wild animals in the mountains at night. Could it be a wolf or something?

Stella's heart pounded anxiously at that thought. She grabbed the wooden stick, wanting to explore outside.

the cave suddenly collapses. The rocks and soil were falling worse. Seeing that the cave entrance was about to be blocked, she had no choice but to force herself to crawl out.

she suddenly met a pair of green eyes that shocked her to the core. She was about to scream, but she quickly covered her mouth. After a long silence, she finally put down her trembling hands. Then, she her breath. She looked back to see wearing the same professional ski clothes as Stella, was fully covered walked straight to her, then grabbed her by her arms and lifted her out of the help, she could finally get out to safety.

“It’s me... Stella...”

the snow on her body and was a little nervous about her condition. He embraced her in his arms after he made sure she

The hot breath that she exhaled turned into a white mist that lingered in the air. The two just hugged away and looked her in the eyes. “How many times have I told you? Don’t go to dangerous places like this!

frowned a little in times like these. He could only suppress his anger and said, “I’ll take you out first.”

Chapter 1274

Stella saw nothing but blinding white. She also seemed not to hear a single word that Weston said.

As her vision blurred, her senses of the surrounding deteriorated.

Weston moved the snow away and found where she had fallen. When he pulled her up, he realized something was wrong with her. “What’s wrong with your eyes?”

Stella’s eyes were blank. She was looking ahead with an unfocused gaze. After a short silence, she shook her head again.

“I’m fine. Let’s keep going.”

Weston frowned at her. When he was about to say something, he heard a sharp voice from the other side.

“Sis!”

see anything but white. It was not that you?”

identity as Miguel. He grabbed Stella’s hand at once. “It’s me... Are

It was as if the cold war between them that had broken out for a few days never existed.

and looked at the two with cold eyes. He asked plainly, “How did you get looked at the man ahead. “She’s in trouble. Of course, I had to interrupt them. “Stop arguing in this situation. Let’s hand. "Do you remember the original way? It's safest if you return the same way you hand and would not let go. "I think we should wait for interrupted him, "With the situation now, staying here is the same as waiting for death. We'll lose heat rapidly. Besides, the snow hasn't stopped. If we stay in place, we'll had covered her immediately. Waiting in place would be will only consume our energy. When I came over, I saw the

Chapter 1275

They did not see clearly at first. "Boom!" A noise sounded as the place they were standing before collapsed, revealing sharp protruding stones underneath. If they had reacted a little slower, they would've been buried under the snow pile.

Stella was still in shock. When she saw Roger disappear from where he was standing, she asked, "Where's Roger?"

Stella was in a daze. Her vision was very blurry, so she was unable to see sometimes. She lost sight of Roger after all that happened in a flash.

Weston held her waist. "Don't go there yet. There's a good chance that he fell inside..."

"If we go there now, we'll fall with him."

Stella refused to listen. "But Roger is still there..."

blank eyes, he

her, but his priority was to get her waved it in front of her eyes, but she his question. Where's go out and find the rescuers now. Go down the mountain with them, and then send a team in to find him. We aren't professionals. We'll that case, then why don't you go?" Stella pushed his hand away. "I won't leave him behind again..."

separated from Roger three years ago. This time, she wasn't after knowing Roger's identity, but he could not bring Roger back. I'll Stella suddenly let go of him and said to Weston, "I know you're here to find me. I know you want to save me too. Just let the past go. We

Chapter 1276

Stella's eyes lit up for a moment. However, her vision was still blurry. "He's here! He's here!"

Hearing that, Weston came to her side. "Roger, are you in there? What's the situation?"

Roger calmed down at Weston's voice and said to him, I'm fine. I'm inside a cave. It won't collapse for a while, so I shouldn't freeze. Take my sister to safety first!"

He had to admit that Weston was right. Staying in place would only lead to death. Going outside was the only hope.

Weston's face sank at Roger's reply. He told Stella directly, "You heard him. I'll take you out first."

"No. I won't go. Stella said through her gritted teeth, "I would never leave him behind."

Weston's face turned grim. "He's stuck inside. We can't save him at all. He can stay safely inside, but it'll be hard for us to protect ourselves."

"I can go down there with him!" Stella insisted. "He said there's a cave inside. We can wait for help there..."

Roger interrupted her suddenly.

in here, so go ahead, came to his senses at that moment. The mountains were not safe at all. He dragged her away without the stones and sand rubbing her face. It hurt a little, but she after noticing Stella's silence and how she looked like she had lost really want to die with him?" Weston said to her and suddenly got a little angry. "Are you going to die with him before you know what will happen to them? Even if the Garcias would take them in, would they and stood up slowly. "You give up on him, okay? As long

Stella nodded.

and asked her abruptly, "You can't see, can you? Be honest with the cave, my vision went white. I could see clearly

Chapter 1277

Stella said, "At least you'll get out and hopefully come back to save us. I'll just slow you down."

"Never say that again." Weston hugged her and kissed her face. His lips were devoid of any warmth.

Stella only felt the friction from the kiss and heard the man's voice trembling slightly above her. "If you want to die, we'll go together. I'll never let go of you."

Stella couldn't tell what she was feeling. The mixed emotions were like a snowstorm that rumbled inside.

She took a deep breath and said to him, "Don't you know? It's too late..."

"It's too late..." What she said sounded incoherent, but Weston understood her anyway. He froze a little before he hugged her hard.

"I know. Even so, I still want to try..."

a sudden rumbling sound in the nervous and looked up

"What's going on?"

"It's probably the snowstorm."

stop and keep going. There will be a platform ahead.

"What about you?"

is too strong. Even if you look back, you won't words and missed the flash of meaningful expression on his face. She was unable to slowly, Weston's voice rang behind platform Weston mentioned. She set off a flare, but when she looked back,

"Okay."

"Weston! Weston!"

her. Her cry was muted

Stella lying on the platform. The footprints behind her had been long covered by the snow and wind. It seemed like she had walked a

Chapter 1278

Stella barely had any strength left. She had to lean on one of the rescuers before she could even manage to speak.

"We can only rescue one person in the current situation. We may have to go to the other person a little later..."

"But then... Wouldn't the other person be left there to die?"

The rescuer fed Stella some water, but she coughed so hard that he accidentally let go of the water, spilling it all over the ground.

She looked at them anxiously. "Please save both of them!"

"Sorry. With our current manpower... We can only save one person."

Bradley walked to Stella, held her shoulders firmly, and made her look into his eyes. "Calm down. Try to remember their last location. We should be able to save one of them... But if you continue to hesitate, we may not be able to save any of them!"

"Yes,"

the worsening conditions and heavy snow. The snow hadn't stopped after half an hour but had instead said to Stella, "We have to hurry. If we waste more time, the rescuers may not be able to save one of the two. At this point, she finally realized while, she finally said slowly, "Roger is inside a cave. He should be able to hold on for a while inside. You must knew her answer, he still fell into a long silence when he heard her.

whistling mountain wind arrived, the so she closed her eyes. However, the image of Weston telling her to keep going and not look back kept appearing

Her eyes were red with tears but she couldn't cry. It was as if all her tears had frozen in the frigid, unforgiving and wind outside had finally stopped for a while. Stella the campfire and found Roger, but he was his life isn't in danger. He's in of relief

up and bowed to the messenger. "Thank you so to see Stella bowing in the wrong direction. She was not facing him. Then, he realized

Chapter 1279

Stella heard nothing.

When she woke up again, all she saw was a world of darkness. There was no hint of light for a long time.

It took her a long time to realize that she was blind.

When she opened her eyes, she heard some anxious voices around her.

"Stella, you're awake! You scared me..."

It was Yvonne's voice.

Stella paused a little before asking Yvonne with a hoarse voice, "Where am I?"

“You’re in the hospital. You were saved from the snowing mountains. Don’t worry. You’re fine now. Oh, right. Roger was in intensive care for two days, but he’s fine now. I guess he’ll be able to see you soon...”

Stella listened and interrupted her, “How long have I been asleep?”

were unconscious for almost three days. I was so anxious about you that I jumped when I saw the news. Fortunately, Angelina is there to help with Emma and of the past two days, but she did not hear not ask. She fumbled around and struggled to sit helped her up and to the ward. Then,

was on edge, a didn’t hurt your eyes and your man spoke, Stella immediately knew it was someone else. She was a little face fall instantly and asked her, “Is shook

saw what was on Stella’s mind and asked her,

No one spoke first. At last, Stella heard Lucas let out a laugh. His sneer consisted of many complex meanings. Stella could recognize the mockery, trembling voice, “How

It’s just that when they found him, said indifferently, “I heard about the rescue. When the rescue team said you pursed her lips understand. One is

Chapter 1280

The days passed by as if it was no different from before.

After Stella’s condition stabilized on the third day, Emma and Elias came to see her in the ward, accompanied by Angelina. As soon as they opened the door, they rushed into the room.

Emma and Elias went to Stella’s bed and kept calling out to her.

“Mommy, mommy.”

Stella’s eyes reddened as she looked at the children, overwhelmed by the turbulent mix of the joys and sorrows of human emotion.

Stella picked up Emma and let her lie in front of her. She kissed her cheek and squeezed Elias's hand. "Mommy missed you guys so much..."

"I've been so worried, Mommy!"

Emma lay on Stella's chest and was very talkative for once. Emma was usually a very timid and introverted girl. She was only outgoing with her family and very quiet. Although an intelligent girl, Emma was sometimes mistaken to be intellectually underdeveloped compared to Elias.

little calmer. He sat next to afraid that she

see the family of three hugging each other. She could not help but think before the sounds of sobbing settled

asked,

serious. Fortunately, he's not in a life-threatening

Elias nodded.

were always quite forgetful at a young age. In normal times, the two a big deal happened. Although was still small. There was only room for Stella and condition had considerably improved. None

Elias building blocks in the ward, Roger asked. His life isn't in danger," Roger said

She guessed that the rescue team might have found Weston very late, which was why he was not out of