

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 1010

"Isn't this why you came to my house? What's wrong? You dared to visit my wife, but you don't dare open it?"

At this point, it was clear that he knew Heather had attacked Lily.

Even so, Heather did not intend to admit it. She let out a light chuckle and said, "I don't think I understand what you're talking about.

Why did I visit your wife? When did I go? Your house? Oh, you mean the Russell Estates? Your uncle and I are about to get married, so it makes sense to go to your house. You must refer to me as 'Aunt' while we're on the subject."

Watching her deny it, Alexander did not force her anymore.

His sight fell on the box.

"That needs to wait till you officially marry my uncle. You won't open my gift because you think I've messed with it or that you won't like it?"

Heather looked at him. It was the first time she had given this legendary man a serious look. She did not think of Alexander as an opponent.

For her, kickboxing was the most important thing.

She had been obsessed with learning kickboxing since she was a young girl.

She did not care much about the family business.
