

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 1024

It was just moments ago Heather told Hannah to go home, but now, Heather wanted her to go to the company instead. It seemed Heather had quickly changed her mind.

"Good to know. Remember, I raised you. You must do whatever I tell you to. You're just my shadow. Do you understand?"

Heather emphasized for the thousandth time. She wanted to drill it into Hannah's head.

Hannah knew she should not forget her roots and not have any intention of overstepping.

"Yes, I understand! I am your shadow, and I exist only for you," she repeated mechanically.

Her meekness immediately calmed Heather down as she replied with satisfaction, "There are some documents to process back at the company. Chloe will guide you on where to sign. You don't have to talk much and ensure you come right back after signing them. It's not your first time there, so you should know not to talk too much. Understand?"

"Yes! "

After nodding, Heather waved, indicating Hannah to leave before she laid down again. She needed two days to recuperate while the spies she sent got to work.

By the time she healed, she would get the information she needed.

Alexander's kickboxing skills were so powerful.

would be better than

she would be revive the prestigious art of Hannah had just gotten into the car and was even the driver did not realize she was a a few people, no one knew Heather thought there was only

was not as pale as usual, as she had some

her look colder

Heather's

the other hand,

have her own style and would always have to go with whatever Heather had not as if she

that even their parents would listen to

could go against her when they were children as she sat in the time, she was still receiving would get a custom-made kickboxing uniform, while