

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 1027

Hannah did not move.

Instead, she just stood there staring at him intensely, trying to decipher his thoughts.

With her like this, Ralph did not dare to move any closer and remained where he was. He was afraid that her mood would suddenly change, and she would try to make a move on him. He couldn't suffer another attack. He looked up and realized that her complexion seemed much better after putting on some makeup.

She wasn't as pale as before and seemed to have recovered a lot.

"Heather, are you okay? Are your injuries better?" He asked cautiously, showing his concern.

This should be the right move. It would not anger her, right? However, Ralph was wrong! Hannah's heart was restless as she continued to look at him. She had not seen him for days. She had lost the chance to meet him since her sister moved into the Russell Estate a few days ago.

Her heart yearned for him, and it grew stronger as days passed.

She had never experienced how it felt to miss someone like this. She had never missed her parents as much, not even when she had been far from them for a long time.

to do was run toward him and throw herself into his she quickly remembered who she was and held

Heather, she had to remain calm was without moving or reminded her that his concern was not sister was injured, he must have why he came over to the company to visit concern in his eyes was also for her sister and matter how excited she was and how much she missed him, Heather was the person on his not even know Hannah existed. Her eyes darkened, and she was speechless! He pursed his lips in with that he could not her and

Hannah, saw that she was not even looking at her, and were only two people left