

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 1070

Ralph decided to try it. He gritted his teeth and recalled the password he saw in Alexander's office. He began to move the dial slowly out of fear that he might accidentally trigger the trap.

Just then, he heard a slight click sound, and he could feel that the safe had unlocked. He was overjoyed!

He stopped just as he was about to open the safe and decided to use the piece of wood.

When he opened the safe, a "whoosh" sound was heard, followed by a cool breeze, and two sharp arrows were currently stabbed into the ground in front of the opened safe. Ralph could not help the shiver down his spine that was such a close call!

was right to predict that Alexander still set other traps. It was exactly his style to do something like this. His gaze fell upon a book within the safe. Ralph was elated. He wanted to in Alexander's bedroom and guarded by layers of booby traps, it was definitely the would ignore his own son and pass it on could they do

to get a glimpse into this secret at all. He could not help but complain about his father while putting on gloves and carefully he was sure that this book was what he was looking for, as there were pictures understand the illustrations found in the book. There were