

Spoiled by Mr. Russell by Luminous Night Chapter 541

Since her assistant did not respond, Lisa was puzzled and asked again, "Isn't it nice?"

The assistant rubbed her nose and said innocently, "I have a cold. I can't smell anything!" "Oh!" Lisa understood, then shook her wrist proudly. "Then it's a pity since you can't smell this lovely fragrance."

The assistant followed Lisa from Westwood, and Wesley ordered her to take care of his daughter. Lisa disagreed with the arrangement because her father still treated her like a little girl.

With such an excellent perfumer as Wesley, no other perfumer could be worthy of Lisa's joy, and what was left was just Lisa's curiosity about new fragrances.

However, neither Lily nor Lisa expected the whole city to discuss an article titled "Seeking a Fragrance Expert" the following day.

Under the female reporter's vivid description, every perfume enthusiast became highly curious about the magical fragrance that could combine the innocence of a girl and the temptation of a mature woman.

The female reporter was excellent at writing and was also a perfume enthusiast. She only described the scent in words, but those who read her article could imagine what it smelled like through her words. Her article also included "The Mysterious Hyderland Perfumer," in bold font, which added substance.

Although some of Hyderland's perfumes were doing well, only a handful made it to international-level fame. Significant beauty and perfume brands had tried to make breakthroughs, but it was too difficult.

Many wanted to be a part of the perfume business, but only a few were sincere. After learning the business or skill set, the more sincere ones would stay while the rest would leave. That was because only a handful would obtain a professional perfumer license.

If others recognized their name, it meant that they were talented. Therefore, everyone's guess was only among a few people, and no one guessed Lily.

It was no wonder at all. Ultimately, Lily's reputation remained limited. Although she had just won an award internationally, it was just a sampling competition to appreciate others' perfumes and not create her own, so she was not quite there yet.

Besides, if she were that talented, why did she not stay in Westwood but instead return home? After all, most top perfumers from Hyderland would typically move abroad to further their careers.

In addition to the gossipers' speculations, the more curious ones had already called Lisa to ask who the perfumer was.

Lisa's assistant was shocked. The previous shows did not cause such a big splash—instead, a small bottle of perfume did. The attention the perfume had attracted far exceeded her imagination.

“Daisy, why didn't you let me say that Lily gave me the perfume?” Lisa said with dissatisfaction when Daisy intercepted her phone call just now.

“Lisa, I'm doing this for your good. I maintain continuous enthusiasm with this!” Daisy said bitterly, “Think about it. Have you ever been in the spotlight this long? It's rare to have so much media paying attention to you. You must take advantage of this opportunity!”

“I don't need this much attention!” Lisa said unhappily.

Although she liked the perfume Lily sent, the media should pay more attention to her business. ability. Why did the wind suddenly deviate?

As for the female reporter, who said the perfume was so unique, she only briefly smelled it. How could she suddenly feel so fascinated and mystified?

“Okay, even if you don't need it, are you sure your friend wants to be at the center of all this. attention?” Daisy tried to persuade Lisa from a different angle, continuing, “Lisa, don't forget, your friend is from Hyderland. Who's going to believe it? What excellent perfumes can Hylanders make? Others will question her because of this. Wouldn't it be troublesome for her?”

“Still, she made this!” Lisa said, unconvinced.

Daisy gestured truce and said, “Okay, I won't argue with you, but you have to trust me. Don't expose her name yet. Wait two more days.”

‘Wait two more days? An announcement might already occur by then. Either way, it's always good to attract more attention.’

Lily was also surprised by the perfume's sudden popularity, as she did not expect it to happen so quickly. The announcement came faster, and Olivia was the first to notice. After all, she watched from the sidelines and learned while Lily developed the perfume.

When the news spread, Olivia immediately knew that it was Lisa who spread it and which fragrance the female reporter wrote about. "Lily, have you checked the news? The custom perfume you made for Lisa is at the top of the charts," She asked.

Lily nodded, "I know. I can't say it's popular, but others say it's magical."

She also read the news and thought the female reporter had exaggerated her words.

"I don't understand why Lisa didn't directly say your name but instead put 'Mysterious Hyderland Perfumer' instead. Now everyone is hunting this person down, and no one will discover that you were the one who made the perfume!"

Olivia was indignant. It was an excellent opportunity to gain popularity, but Lisa did not give Lily a heads-up. It was all thanks to Lily, as she was the one who spent many days developing the perfume specifically for Lisa. As a result, Lisa only seemed to show appreciation in a light hearted sentence.

'Why did she say Mysterious Hyderland Perfumer? Lisa could have easily told the truth but instead wanted to use hints as bait to garner more attention.'

If it were not for Lily, Olivia would have jumped before the media and shouted, "The person you are looking for is right here! Her name is Lily!" If Lily did not want to say it, would it be okay if Olivia said it? That would simply solve the issue.

"Lily, wait. If Lisa doesn't say anything, then I'll go. I'll call the media and tell them that the perfume is yours."

Before Olivia hung up the phone, Lily hurriedly said, "Stop!"

"What is it?"

"There's probably a reason why Lisa didn't expose me. I made that perfume for her only. I did what I wanted, and that's enough."

"I—I feel bad for you. You've helped Lisa greatly, but she didn't mention your name. I think she deliberately took the opportunity to attract popularity!" Olivia was heartbroken.

"Don't talk nonsense. Lisa is not that kind of person." Lily still knew Lisa was not that kind of person because they were friends.

As for not mentioning the perfumer's name, maybe she had an idea. The chain effect caused by this incident exceeded expectations and imagination. Lisa planted willows unintentionally, while some planted flowers intentionally.

In particular, some female stars in the entertainment industry discovered that perfume usage could also attract such attention and miraculous effects. Hence, they followed suit one after another.

Spoiled by Mr. Russell by Luminous Night Chapter 543

It was a good thing for the entire perfume industry. After all, it would drive overall sales.

Although not everyone could afford exclusive perfumes, the top perfumers would have no time to spare, even if one could. Moreover, no one knew the specifics of the perfume Lisa mentioned. Some even speculated that Lisa was simply making up stories.

Lisa speaking of a Hyderland perfumer was just pretense to most speculators. They even thought her father, Wesley Parker, was the one who made the perfume for Lisa. Most wondered why Lisa would look for a perfumer from Hyderland when she had such an influential father.

Even Hylanders had a deep-rooted prejudice against perfumers in their own country. They felt it was difficult for anyone from Hyderland to excel in the perfume industry. Even if there were a few, they would be incomparable to international experts.

Some had such an inferiority complex that they always thought imported products were better than local ones, so rumors started circulating. Since that was the case, a TV station invited Lisa for an exclusive interview.

Daisy was thrilled about it, as she had been making career plans for Lisa. Although Lisa's foundations were good, including her background and connections, she seemed unlucky. Her fame was not enough to break the charts. However, Lisa suddenly went viral and attracted much attention because of Lily's perfume. Daisy would undoubtedly make good use of this opportunity.

"Remember not to mention the perfumer's name. Just let the audience guess. If they ask you about it on the spot, you can say that your friend wants to keep it a secret," Daisy explained while helping Lisa organize her clothes and hair.

"Daisy, I don't like this idea," Lisa had been holding back for the past few days. Day after day, Daisy helped her block almost every call, not letting her say Lily's name. "It's time to go on TV!"

Lisa's face immediately sank when Daisy said that.

"I know you're unhappy, and I know you're loyal. Don't just think about your friend. You have to consider yourself and your father too!"

"My dad? What does he have to do with this?" Lisa said in puzzlement.

Daisy sighed and straightened up to look at her, "Lisa, didn't you think about it? What does your father do? You should know how well-known he is in the industry. What would everyone think if they discovered his own daughter doesn't use his perfume but someone else's?"

Lisa blinked as she still did not understand. "What does the perfume I use have anything to do with my father? Who made up a rule that I can't use other perfume brands because my father is a perfumer?"

"If that's the case, then a real estate agent's child can't buy other houses, the child of Louis Vuitton's CEO can't buy a Gucci bag, and the child of a surgeon can't allow others to operate on them! You don't make any sense!"

Daisy could not convince her. "Lisa, this is different!"

"I don't think it's different at all. Well, I'm running out of time!" It was not as significant as before, but Lisa started disliking Daisy for always babbling in her ear.

A TV station had invited Lisa for an interview, so she wore a tight dress to highlight her sexy hourglass figure and specifically used the perfume Lily made. She thought about the perfume for a while, then put it back in her bag.

She felt disappointed earlier when she received the perfume, so she did not bother to look closer. However, after taking a second look, she loved it the more she used it. It became one of her favorites.

In addition to the unique scent, the perfume bottle design was also fascinating. The lavender bottle was shaped like a cat sitting down with a ribbon around the neck. The cat's head was raised, looking arrogant yet cute.

Lisa carefully put it away, got in the car, and headed to the TV station.

Spoiled by Mr. Russell by Luminous Night Chapter 544

Lisa's name has recently been tied to perfume and mystery rather than her actual profession as a model, which is how she became viral online. After the shooting officially started, Daisy sat offstage as her assistant. Her eyes were glued to the stage, fearing that Lisa would say something wrong as she was young and straightforward.

"It's a pleasure to invite our international supermodel, Ms. Parker," The host started with opening remarks.

Lisa nodded with a smile. "Hello, everyone. I'm Lisa Parker!"

She waved her hand and greeted the audience warmly and generously.

"Recently, there's been a lot of waves about you. I heard that you're the daughter of Mr. Wesley Parker, the world's top perfumer. Being the daughter of a perfumer, why didn't you inherit your father's career? Instead, you embarked on the path of modeling."

The host did not ask directly about the perfume but started from her origin.

Daisy was sitting offstage worrying, fearing that Lisa would say something wrong and walk right into the trap set up by the host.

"My father's an excellent perfumer. I have been exposed to different types of perfumes and fragrances since young. However, it does not affect my passion for being a model. As a model, I do not see any contradiction between the two," she smiled and said, "Just like you being a host. Your parents aren't necessarily hosts as well, but you still do it. I believe it's because you have passion for it, right?"

The host was stunned for a moment as the question backfired. He laughed. "Yeah! Indeed, choosing the path you like isn't wrong. However, everyone has recently been interested in at customized perfume you use. Did your father also make this perfume?"

Here it was! The question everyone was waiting for came with malicious intentions and to put out a feeler.

Daisy was sitting offstage, winking desperately, wanting Lisa to answer the question vaguely and fool the host. Lisa, as if she did not see it, answered with certainty, "No."

"Oh? Isn't it? Does that mean the rumor on the Internet was true? The rumor was that a Hylander made the perfume. Then we're all curious, who's the perfumer that took your favor?"

Lisa did not answer directly. Instead, she asked, "Who do you think it will be?"

The host smiled. "Sorry, I have no clue, that's why I hope you could answer this question for everyone."

Lisa turned her head to look at the audience. "Do you guys want to know?"

The people below repeatedly nodded as all those sitting here were curious about it.

“Then who do you expect, a Hylander or a non–Hylander perfumer?” she asked again.
There came no answer.

“Wait a minute. Let me make a phone call first.” She took out her phone.

Spoiled by Mr. Russell by Luminous Night Chapter 545

Everyone looked at each other in blank dismay. No one understood what Lisa meant or who she was calling.

Daisy was even more confused and had a bad premonition about this.

After Lisa dialed the number, she put an index finger on her lips, motioning them to be quiet. It was because the speaker was on, and everyone was waiting for someone to pick up the phone call.

On the other end of the phone, Lily was studying the piece of wood that Benedict had given her. She was so focused that she did not notice her phone was ringing. When Lily realized it, it had been ringing for a long time.

She picked up the phone and realized it was Lisa calling, then she answered it. “Hello, Lisa?”

There was a commotion from the crowd. No one thought that woman would be on the other end of the phone, and from the sound of it, she should be a Hylander.

“Lilsy, I’m calling you to say thank you,” Lisa said calmly while looking ahead.

She felt so relieved as she could say thank you generously in front of the crowd. It was for what she owed Lily recently. Lisa owed Lily a thank you a long time ago. It was because of Lily’s perfume that Lisa went viral online, but she could not even say Lily’s name.

“Huh?” Lily did not even realize that the other end of the phone was a live scene, so she answered naturally, “Thank you, it’s great that you like it!”

“I love it. I love the perfume you made for me very much.” Lisa emphasized it again. After a pause, she said, “Then, can I tell everyone your name?”

Daisy said that maybe Lily did not want to stand in the spotlight, so today, she would ask Lily to decide for herself.

At this moment, Lily realized that something was wrong. "Everyone? What do you mean by everyone?"

The commotion at the scene had already told her something. She was startled. "Are you being interviewed?"

"Yes." Lisa replied affirmatively, "Lily, can I tell everyone who you are? They all want to know the name of the perfumer who made this perfume for me."

"I..." It was a surprise as Lily did not expect that Lisa would call her in a live interview.

However, before she could reply, there were already voices from the crowd. "Lily, it's Lily!"

"That's right. It's Lily! I heard her voice. It's her!"

The answer was crystal clear, and everyone guessed it without Lily answering.

The nickname Lisa gave and the fact that Lily won the grand prize in the perfume appraisal competition in France not long ago. It was not difficult to guess from all these clues. It was just that from the beginning, many people did not believe that an ordinary Hylander perfumer could make such an amazing perfume.

Now that she was connected live and someone could recognize her voice, it was official that Lily was the perfumer.

Both ends of the phone were silent. However, the crowds on the scene were excited and cheered as if they had finally solved this mystery.

After a few seconds of silence, Lily said, "That's right, I'm Lily."
