

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 627

Justin's doors remained open beyond Lily's expectations. It was as if he was waiting for her. Although Justin did not close the door, Lily glanced inside the room, raised her hand, and knocked on the door twice.

"Come in," Justin's voice sounded.

Lily noticed only one dimly lit lamp turned on in the room. Justin was sitting on a chair by the window with a cup of coffee in front of him. It smelled fragrant, but it seemed as if he did not even take a sip.

"Justin."

"Sit down," he said. His eyes remained calm as he glanced at Lily.

Although there was still no expression on his face, Lily thought his eyes looked much better than when they were in the mourning hall.

"You..." After hesitating, she wanted to ask Justin something but needed to figure out where to start.

back? You're still so stubborn," Justin started the conversation. Although

"Do you

back?" Lily smiled

moment, but his eyes fell in that direction.

door. Since it remained open, her line of sight was unobstructed, and she could see her words, obviously not letting her ask more questions. She guessed it was to Henry?"

he must still gain respect to be worthy of

respond but instead scene just to push you off your seat? In the continued asking questions, "I just don't understand. Why are you afraid

He shook his head and chuckled. Then he stretched and picked up