

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 646

When she realized that the person had stopped walking, Lily instinctively hid her face. She was afraid of being discovered.

“They won’t be able to see you from there with the distance and height.” Alexander, who had been sitting calmly, smiled and got up. He walked to her side and wrapped his arms around her shoulder.

Lily glared at him. “You knew that nothing could be seen from here clearly? You said that we’re here to watch a play. Are you testing my eyesight? I’m not a hawk!”

Alexander’s smile deepened, and he handed her something, “You are not a hawk, but you have better tools.”

When Lily peered down, she noticed high-magnification binoculars. It seemed that he was well prepared! She had grown intrigued by this play and did not want to chastise him about not taking it out sooner. She used the binoculars to look in the direction of the two cars. Under the binoculars, everything was crystal clear.

Lily was shocked when she saw the person’s face.

man in the other car did not get out, and Lily wished they would do so to answer her doubts. They began to argue shortly after. The man finally emerged from the car,
