

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 696

"Mom, age must be catching up to you. Even if she uses dad's card, you'd need to accept the transaction!"

With a smile, Arianna reached out her hand.

"Mom, where's your phone?"

"What are you doing?"

Elliot looked at her suspiciously as she pulled out her phone.

Arianna took the phone and dialed a number.

Then she put the phone to her ear and said, "Hello, I'm Joseph Tanner's wife. Yes, it's me, Mrs. Tanner. Here's the thing, I accidentally lost a few credit cards. I'm worried someone else might use it, so could you temporarily freeze all the supplementary cards under my husband's name?"

Hearing this, Eloise looked at her daughter, wide-eyed and stunned. She must be getting slower! How had she not come up with this idea herself? She had been in countless soap operas, yet they were all in vain.

on how to deal with mistresses to

was no longer fuming as she continued to still happily picking things, completely unaware of what number. Yes, that's the correct phone hung up the phone

let's wait and watch the seat on the side and around them, blocking them from anyone's view from across choice and was about to settle the bill. She raised her hand casually with a card between her knew what would happen, she couldn't help but tighten her fists when she saw the store, the shopping assistant respectfully took the card and left to check out few minutes later and seemed to whisper something to Elizabeth. She took the card

Then...

happened next was just

of the cards would go

few more tries, onlookers could tell that the shop assistant was less