

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 730

"She's just a person born into an ordinary family and had never known the life of the rich. Look at the things she bought with your father's card. A total nouveau riche. I'm not sure she'll like this necklace. Then again, I suppose she'll like it no matter what I choose. She can't afford to covet my stuff, whether it's a necklace or a ring!"

Arianna thought about it and agreed with her words.

Every piece of her mother's jewelry was highly exquisite.

This sapphire necklace was nothing special among the others.

"As for your father taking her to the auction, I...really haven't thought about it."

Eloise tilted her head and used pruning shears to trim the branches.

She looked unbothered.

"I just donated something to the auction for charity. I've done a lot of charity over the years, but I never thought that one day, I'd be able to make use of it like this."

A mocking smile appeared on her lips as she continued, "Since she insists on going, fine, let her go. I deliberately revealed the news about the sapphire necklace to let her know. She's also aware that other wives and celebrities were fighting for it. How can a woman like her not seize the opportunity to fight for the limelight?"
