

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 762

The buzz all over town was tremendous, and there was a pervasive aroma of "Victory" in the air. On TV, in the streets, and online were all forms of advertising. There was a lot of attention even before its official launch.

A pre-sale channel for this fragrance was opened on the Tanner Corporation's website, and it completely sold out in less than 24 hours.

Not only did Damian burst out laughing, but Joseph could not contain his joy either. He was very satisfied with the performance report.

"Dad, see? It's only been one day, so many have been sold, and the prospects are endless!" Damian said very proudly as he sat across from Joseph with his legs crossed, "Like I said before, it'll work!"

"Great!" Joseph's eyes narrowed after saying those words, "Is the production team able to keep up with the orders?"

anything, let the workers work in three shifts. We're factory, he thought of something. "Since we're talking about the factory, I have

I don't even know what to do with such a useless guy. So far

There'll be a management meeting the day after tomorrow. Report the overall progress of this project to those old in the company for so long, and it was the first time he could attend in such a serious position. After all, being Joseph's son

he was an make sure you keep an eye on it. Don't lose your momentum at this handling this big project. Those little stuff are nothing." After thinking about it, he raised his head again, paused with his hand on Damian's shoulder, and not the case, then why doesn't she seem to care about this project at all? You said she'd give me pointers, but she sent such a useless person to show that she was only paying me lip service. Dad, does Arianna