

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 791

Damian's assistant nodded in response and went to work.

Damian continued standing outside the meeting room, afraid to enter.

When he had finally calmed down, he entered the space while maintaining a natural demeanor.

"Well, I have nothing more to say for today's meeting. Do you have any questions? Otherwise, let's adjourn."

The project was important to him, and he could not mess it up now.

Therefore, it was best to call off the meeting first.

Everyone in the room was taken aback as soon as he said that.

They were clearly at the peak of their discussion, yet the meeting was called off.

"Damian-

done with your discussion? Why don't you introduce the new perfume to us? The perfume sold out so fast that none

with today. Why don't

two perfume bottles and set

to grab it,

person who

you doing?!" Joseph frowned late today, but we take a break? I'm taking your suggestions into account. You're right

"It's fine."

hand raised his head

voice, everyone turned to look at person who spoke was Donovan Elm, the company's executive vice president. It was not an exaggeration to call him a veteran. He was Derrick's first and only right-hand man. He had been in this company for

when he was unpleasant, but Joseph

could do was cautiously ask,