

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 802

"Dad, I really can't leave now! The reporters are out there, and people are watching me everywhere! Someone will follow me out of here as soon as I do!" Damian said, trembling.

Joseph was enraged, but he agreed with Damian's logic.

At first, this incident alone was enough to get media attention, but he even made a scene at the hospital.

Now, all the reporters and paparazzi were probably watching Damian's every move, waiting to catch his faults.

"Okay then. Just stay at your mom's place for the time being. I'll head over there right now. Remember not to leave the house or show up in public. Don't answer anyone's phone calls, either. You know nothing about this matter and must wait for the company to settle this issue. Do you understand me?" Joseph asked sternly.

Damian was trembling in fear and had no plans whatsoever now. He just nodded his head fervently.

"I got it. I got it."

After hanging up, Joseph picked up his blazer and was about to leave the house. His action made Eloise scoff.

"You're heading to that woman's place?"

to face her. He frowned and was not in all that jealousy to yourself! I'm telling you that it's a serious problem this time around! It's

he was correct that,

a group that liked to stir report anything if their article could grab the public's of sunglasses. He dared not drive knocking on the door for some time, he

"Who is it?"

open the door

opened, revealing a

the door behind him swiftly. He finally sighed in relief after closing the door and noticed

"Dad..."

called out in

piece of

hand, about to hit Damian, said, "We're in trouble! What's the