

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 809

"How long do we need to put on this show?" Stephanie asked, unable to tolerate it anymore.

She felt terrible about her promise to perform an act with Derrick. She was not a good liar in the first place, but she had to deal with those who came to visit Derrick with ulterior motives from time to time.

She had to watch their fake concern and listen to all those exaggerated compliments when they were here.

She had never gone through this, but while Derrick was "ill and in the hospital," she saw many things she had never seen before.

Initially, they would test the waters with caution, which turned into indifference gradually.

Now, even her own niece was coming to seize power.

"Joseph came over yesterday, didn't he?" Derrick asked lightly, looking out the window.

At the time, he was sleeping, but he vaguely heard voices outside the door.

Stephanie probably stopped them at his door.

Stephanie nodded.

resting after getting a shot, and you'd be

each has their own plans!" he exclaimed emotionally, a faint smile hanging

Joseph really planning to hand over all the assets to that illegitimate son of Stephanie sighed.

helping him so much over the years. If he did that,

think that sister-in-law of mine

turned around to

was a cold smile on his

outside was shining on him, but the curtains covered half strategize and keep control of the instance, it had been some time since he could go

do that in the room, he would have had to hide behind the curtains to avoid getting caught by the paparazzi, who

say

big difference between people

was constantly overturning her understanding