

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 861

Arianna had settled her matters with Noah, but she still felt uneasy. She had not found the perfumer or Damian yet, and there was the issue involving Derrick.

She would have an even harder time if he had a will. Stephanie might look weak, but she was ambitious and would make a fuss about it.

Arianna squatted before Eloise and said earnestly, "You're the only one who can deal with this, Mom. Aunt Stephanie listens to you. You must ask her to hand over the power and shares Uncle Derrick has. Otherwise, it'll be difficult for me to gain a firm foothold in the company."

"You said your uncle wants to write a will?" Eloise asked after some thought.

"Yeah."

"He's keeping his guard up against US." Eloise paused and thought for a while before continuing, "How was your uncle's physical condition the last time you visited?"

managed to resuscitate him. I didn't expect him to survive." Now that Arianna die? I wouldn't have so think you've

"What do you mean?"

your uncle's physical condition is already in such a state, you should take better care of him and prevent irrelevant people from disturbing his recuperation. How can you let the two directors you let her work so hard? You should let her rest more instead of taking care of your uncle.

that her mother still had unfinished words and an accident. It's pointless to hide such news for a long time. You should inform everyone, including the company and the general public, and hold a decent funeral and repeatedly nodded, "You're right, Mom!

the news of Benedict's death. It would also be a deadly blow to pieces of advice, Arianna should have asked someone to take control at the hospital been