

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 870

"Where is he? Where is everyone?" Arianna's mind went blank as she stumbled backward. Looking at the empty ward rooms, she had a bad feeling about this.

Coincidentally, a nurse walked by. Arianna grabbed her by the collar and questioned fiercely, 'Where are they?! Where did the patient and his caregiver go?!'

The nurse was frightened as she stuttered, 'T-They I-left!'

"Since when? When were they discharged? How could he leave the hospital when he was so sick?! Besides, why didn't you inform his family? Who allowed him to leave?!"

Arianna was hysterical as she tightened her grip on the nurse's uniform collar.

was almost choking, "I-I

Eloise was shocked when she saw what her daughter regained her freedom, she held her neck and pointed toward the room and said, "Mom, Uncle Derrick is gone. How can the doctor possibly discharge him? He was already about to die! Even if he got out, it would only be to the need to calm down. There's something wrong here! Where are the people you've sent to keep an eye on Derrick and Stephanie?" Eloise was just as shocked. However, due information from them. Maybe they've betrayed me?" Arianna's eyes had lost their sparkle, as she had never felt this lost in her hospital, and she had lost whatever leverage she had against him. It could only mean Derrick was most likely the one behind everything, including drafting his will before Arianna's eyes and instructing Damian to surrender to orchestrated everything to trick me! Uncle Derrick isn't dying to make a took her phone stiffly and made the call. After it rang for a while, no one on the other side out of the ordinary, we must consider a countermeasure. Let's call your father and see if he knows anything about this," Eloise suggested