

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 907

"Derrick, even if I'm in the wrong, you should help me take care of Damian... and...Ari,' Joseph cautiously said after a moment of hesitation.

At this point, he had no one else to turn to except Derrick. The two were brothers at the end of the day. Joseph could only hope that blood was thicker than water and that Derrick would be willing to help.

"Well talk about it once they're out. They're children of the Tanner family anyway. However, anything that has to do with the company will be under Benny's care in the future. I won't interfere in any of the company's personnel changes. Besides Benny, people from the HR department will handle those. Regardless, I can assure you your children won't suffer."

That was the best Derrick could do. If he allowed nepotism to continue in the company, Tanner Corporation would fall sooner or later. Joseph lowered his gaze, a little disappointed. He initially thought his children would have a chance to re-enter the company. Even if they could not hold a position as high as they did before, they would still at least be managers.

was in Benedict's hands, coupled with what Derrick had said, it seemed like there was if that's the case, there's nothing much I can say," Joseph sighed, "By the way, how did you think of such a sophisticated plan? After all, before you think I have no idea what happens behind closed doors? Do you think I know ignorance. Ultimately, Joseph bought into it.

you to rest. I'll-" Suddenly, the door opened as Derrick was see him. A look of embarrassment flashed across her Derrick nodded. He noticed her embarrassment and continued,' Since you're here, I'll leave you two hospital bed