

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 943

Since she was on the way home from her workplace, Lily was surprised to see a car with a foreign number plate parked outside the entrance of her house. She could not help but glance at the car in curiosity. She was about to walk through the gates when a car door opened and a person stepped out.

To her pleasant surprise, it was Justin. She had just thought about him a while back at her office, and now he surprised her by coming over without even giving her a call.

Lily immediately instructed the driver to stop the car and got out, asking, "What are you doing here?"

Lily had never been particularly close to Justin, and it was as if there was an invisible wall between them.

However, after their grandfather passed away, their relationship improved as they were comrades 'battling' a common enemy.

"How could I not be here for your wedding? We're family, after all,"

Justin studied her carefully and concluded with a frown, "You've lost weight."

"No, I didn't. I think I've gotten fatter. I've been eating a lot lately!"

She touched her cheeks and smiled.

"I'm glad that you're happy and well. It looks like no one had given you any trouble!"

Justin commented nonchalantly.
