

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 989

Heather turned around and went back into the room.

Then she picked up her phone and sent a message to Ralph, "Come to my room at nine tonight. I have something to tell you."

Ralph was drinking alone in boredom. He thought he had misread the message when he received it.

After rubbing his eyes to ensure he had read it right, Ralph almost jumped up excitedly.

"I knew it! Women don't always mean what they say. She said not to get close to her or enter her room earlier, but she changed her mind! Still, why did she mention the time? Is it something she can't say now and must wait till it's nighttime? It must also be something she can't discuss downstairs and insists I go to her room tonight"

Ralph felt it was an invitation. How could he not understand this after being a playboy? He was excited and almost sprinted upstairs.

However, he still had some sanity in him.
