

Ms. Senior Interpreter, You're So Charming Chapter 15

Chapter 15

Thank you for reading this post, don't forget to visit Again!

"Okay!" Without showing the slightest resistance, Tommy cooperatively stood up from the sofa and took off his clothes. Just as Hannah was putting on a clean shirt for him, a soft growl suddenly came from his stomach. Chuckling embarrassedly, he quickly covered his chubby belly. Standing at the side, Ramon was surprised when he saw this scene. Tommy was a mature and independent child. From a very young age, he washed his hair, showered, and changed clothes on his own. Whenever he got changed, he would never allow any female to be around him other than Isabelle. Moreover, Ramon had never seen Tommy shy although he was only five years old. Therefore, Ramon was utterly astonished that not only did Tommy allow Hannah to change clothes for him but also smiled shyly at her. What an unprecedented sight! "What's wrong? Are you hungry?" Looking at Tommy, Hannah asked with a grin. "Yeah." Tommy nodded as his face grew redder. "I missed lunch because of you!" Hearing that, Hannah burst out laughing, and it was filled with warmth and gratitude. "Let's get you changed. Then, I'll discharge and bring you to have nice food." "Are you honestly fine now?" Staring at her, Tommy asked again, his big eyes full of concern. While nodding, she put on his clothes and replied, "Yes, honestly." "But my father doesn't allow me to eat any outside food recently. He said that if he finds out I disobey him, he'll have me run five kilometers every night." Tommy was elated to hear that he could have delicious food, but he became dispirited once recalling William's warning.

"I see..." Upon knowing that, Hannah was at a loss for what to do. After all, they must not take Mr. President's words lightly. "Black Glasses, can you cook?" Suddenly, Tommy's eyes lit up and asked. Confused, Hannah nodded at Tommy. "Why don't you take me home and cook for me?" Hannah hesitated. "Don't worry, my father won't find out about this because I'm recently staying at my grandparents' house." Seeing Hannah's hesitation, Tommy immediately responded eagerly. Looking at his excited face, Hannah couldn't bear to refuse him. Besides, she knew that the hospital was not far from Tiana's apartment judging from the view outside the window, and it would only be a drive of ten minutes or more. Most importantly, there shouldn't be any problem since Ramon was with them.

After hesitating for a moment, Hannah agreed under Tommy's expectant gaze, "Alright then. Hurry and sit down. I'll put on your socks." "Okay!"

In the President's Mansion, William had been having continuous meetings for four hours from 1 p.m. to 5p.m. He only rested for less than ten minutes throughout the meetings. As soon as he came out of the conference room, Annabel told him that Isabelle had called him twice. "Did she say anything?" William asked Annabel as he walked toward the office. Walking fast to keep up with him, Annabel replied respectfully, "No, Old Mrs. Scott just asked you to give her a call after the meeting." Upon hearing that, William nodded. When he got to the desk, he took the phone and called Isabelle. "William, are you done with your work?" As soon as the call got through, Isabelle's loving and cheerful voice rang. Sitting down in his executive chair, William grabbed a document and skimmed it. At the same time, he asked, "What's the matter?" Isabelle had been accustomed to her son's indifferent attitude, so she replied happily, "Tommy said that he'll come back for dinner with you at night. When are you coming back? I'll ask them to prepare dinner."

Reading the documents while listening to Isabelle's words, William couldn't help but frown. "Isn't Tommy at home?" "No. Didn't he go to your place at noon after his fencing class in the morning?" Isabelle was confused. Upon hearing that, William knitted his eyebrows again, knowing that Isabelle would not joke with him about Tommy's safety. Yet, he didn't say anything and just replied, "He must have arrived, but I have been busy the whole day, so I didn't realize that he's here. I will take him back before 7 o'clock in the evening." Although he didn't know where Tommy was at the moment, he didn't want Isabelle to worry. "As a father, how can you be so careless? Not only did you starve Tommy to the point of him getting gastritis, you even ignored him because of your work. Can't you be nicer to him you don't, your father and I will take care of him from now on." Grasping what William meant, Isabelle immediately scolded him. Furrowing his eyebrows, William rebutted, "In that case, I won't take Tommy back home tonight." "How dare you!" "I'll hang up then. I still have work to do."

As soon as William finished speaking, he hung up the phone. Then, he asked the secretary to call Rya in because he was the one who normally took care of Tommy whenever he was at the President's Mansion. "Sir, what can I do for you?" "Where is Tommy?" Soon, Rya arrived at William's office. While writing, William asked him in a low voice. "Tommy?" Seemingly confused, Rya asked William back, "Isn't he in Scott Manor?"

At once, William understood the situation and ordered, "Call Tommy now and go to Scott Manor to ask who went out with Tommy, but don't make a fuss." As a quick-witted man, Rya instantly knew that Tommy was not in the President's Mansion nor Scott Manor. Therefore, he quickly nodded and went out to do as told. After Rya left, William was still worried, so he took out his phone and dialed Tommy's number. "Sorry, the number you dialed is unavailable." When the gentle robotic female voice rang, William's eyebrows knitted again. The next second, he turned on the tracking software on his phone and searched for Tommy's current location. The software showed that Tommy was traveling on a road more than ten kilometers away from him at this moment. "Knock knock!" Suddenly, Rya entered the door and reported, "Sir, it was Ramon who sent Tommy to the fencing class as usual. However, his phone is turned off too, so it is impossible to contact him." As William listened to that, his deep black eyes grew even darker. Without delay, he showed Tommy's current position to Rya and instructed, "Tell the transportation bureau to locate Tommy now." "Yes, sir."