

Marriage To The Mafia Boss

Chapter 116 - The Explosion

Mimi is becoming a dog yesterday and today; she is changing into a cat. She is purring and playing with the ball including the feather stick. There is a long fur tail attached to her arse. she is acting like a cat today without any expression on her face.

"yes, and the doctor is checking into her condition. Do you want me to clean her and put her into your playroom?" Butler Jiang is asking him without any expression in his voice.

"No, she is going to be my legal wife. I do need an equal partner, so you have to treat her as the madame of the house," Sun An is commanding the butler for Lu Xi faith. He got her background check from his assistant and find out as the lost child of the Lu family. She was an outcast from the family because of her choice of career in entertainment.

Apparently, she was the obstacle of young master Lim who punish her so severely until she ends up in the porn production house.

Sun An is cleaning up all her trails and footprint as one of a rising porn star. He makes sure the production house goes bankrupt and seize all her porn video.

He is instructing his assistant to get them the marriage certificate from the marriage bureau.

"I will assign one of the maids to take care of all her needs. Do you want me to contact the department store to send us women outfits for young madame?" Butler Jiang is seeking approval for this man.

"You can do it. Make sure her standard of clothes will be up to of our family standard as the young master!" Sun An is taking Mimi to their playroom to check the video from his assistant.

In the playroom, he is turning on the television before settling into the sofa with Mimi on his knee.

In the Lin mansion.

Emma is enjoying her bliss time inside the arm of the most handsome man in history. He still sleeping in after their romantic night full of desire.

Emma is reaching out to her side table for the remote control and turn on the television. She is remembering the mudslide tragedy in her past life.

In the news, there is the news anchor reading the story of the Lin Yan wedding and there is the incident in the Man Corporation warehouse and the government warehouse regarding the blow-up just a few minutes ago.

'There is a piece of breaking news just into our news studio that the warehouse of the food storage under the Man corporation and Government get destroyed by a huge explosion. the police and fire department is determining the cause. Please follow our news station for the latest update of the situation," the news anchor is reading the news.

At the same time, Vito's phone starts to ring at the same time. He did not pick up the first time and reach the phone.

"Yeah," Vito is answering with his hoarse voice.

"are you not waking up? Your company is in the middle of a crisis and you still sleeping in," Grandfather Sun is screaming on top of his lung for his grandson.

"What do you mean? I have my executive to work on it. I paid them an enormous amount of money to work and deal with the company problem. If I have to deal with every nook and cranny then I will bleed out along the way," Vito is answering him with full confidence.

"You are still on the bed and as their chief of the vessel, get your arse out of bed and monitor your company," Grandfather Sun is screaming to his grandson until Emma can hear his yelling on the phone.

"I will move my lazy arse out of bed and go to the company," Vito is telling him for his intention to disconnect the connection.

However, Vito is not even moving his body out of the bed. He is hugging and spooning his wife on the bed.

"Are you really not going to work when there is chaos in your company?" Emma is asking him with amusement. It seems her husband brain really damaged from having too much company.

"I am not going. Stop nagging me and let me sleep. I am sleeping deprivation after your whole temptation and managing the company," Vito is whining on the bed.

"Babe, your company is burning down on the news. As their leader and owner, are you not feeling sad or angry with all the problems happening?" Emma is turning her body on the bed to face her sleeping husband.

"They can burn it to the ground. I do not care. Please let me sleep," Vito is putting his hand together and begging his wife to leave him alone.

"Fine! However, I will not accept a penny less for my allowance," Emma is leaving his husband alone.

"Good. I wake up now. why all of you want me to go to the factory? What should I do?" Vito is opening his eyes and looking sharply at his wife.

"You are the owner, and don't you think to offer support for your staff who injured or lose their job," Emma is asking him for the whole situation.

"No one is getting hurt and the insurance company is going to reimburse me to build the new warehouse. The accountant department is already written off those warehouses and is ready for destruction. What else do you want me to do? I do not think my presence will be needed in the demolition of my warehouse," Vito is turning his body and supporting his head with one of his arms.

"But in the news, your company get bombed and it is not just a normal demolition," Emma is complaining about her theory.

"Do you think your husband allow his company to get bombed or to be in the limelight of the headlines if it did not get my permission or approval? Look my phone is silent from my nagging assistant and right hand. They are sleeping on their bed, and I do not get to enjoy my day off," Vito is nagging his wife regarding the different treatment from his own wife.

"How about the government warehouse? There will be chaos on the supply of food when the warehouse got burned," Emma is looking at her husband regarding the other problem.

"It's really not my portion of the plate. My concern is my company and my family. Nothing else can interest me," Vito is putting his body on his back.

"This is going to relate to your family. How many people are going to lose their food on their table?" Emma is resting his body on her husband chest.

"This is really the president problem, my dear. If I take everything into my account and brain then I will not have time to sleep. It is enough Man corporation, Mancuso organization, and Sun corporation and family. My plate is full already," Vito is caressing his wife back.

"I know but I feel sad to think about the problem arising ahead. The city will not be safe when people do not have any food on their table," Emma is telling her husband about the problem arising.

In her previous life, there was only a mudslide without the explosion and the criminal had already arisen. If this continues then there will be a bigger problem arise not long after the whole incident.

They have to have a contingency plan in their hand to save this city from criminality. But Emma does not take the account of her husband as the lord of the underworld. He will not allow any criminal to arise if he does not approve of it.

Vito is leading his organization with a cold hand and perfect judgement to keep everyone in their track. No one can defy his authority and challenge him if they still want to live and enjoy the beauty of the world.

In reality, last night during their dinner, EXO and Jones are finding chatter regarding a big amount of explosives getting moved into the C city.

Vito is already instructing all his staff to work overtime to move all their merchandise from the warehouse. Meanwhile, the warehouse still got shell merchandise. They are making the culprit to believe that the whole food store is inside the warehouse.

They are stealing all the food supply in the government and storing it together with their own asset.

As the last truck takes out the supply then the people with full explosives come inside the warehouse and detonate it as soon after they park the truck in the warehouse entrance for truck loading the merchandise.

It is a single unit truck with three axles that is dispatched into five different warehouses and blown them up.

This is really serious a lot of explosive material. They must be the source and trail of the person purchasing it in the underworld.

No one dares to target the lord of the underworld and be able to walk out unshattered.. Jones is already following the crumb and EXO is looking at their financial source.