

Marriage To The Mafia Boss -

Chapter 2 - Back From The Death

Emma opens her eyes after she hears the commotion on the outside window. She feels the warmth of the sun coming through her window room when grasping the fresh air within her lung's capacity. She tries to regularize her breathing when she hears the knock on her door.

'sister... your stylish team is coming to prepare you for your wedding... make sure you are ready...' Lin Yan is trying to make her voice as sweet as possible. She tries to hold her anger when her older sister married the most handsome man in the C continent while she has to marry into some Italian family today in the civil bureau today. It will be at the same time as her sister grand wedding. She stomps her feet in anger while she tries to hide into her smiling face.

Inside the room, Emma feels her wish to revenge all her painful thing and her unborn baby. It means today is her wedding day with Luo Han Zheng and tonight, he will force his way through their wedding night and torture her until she got pregnant because of Lin Yan provocation. She has to escape the same fate and revenge her adopted sister slowly bit and bit until the painful death comes into her life.

She is remembering the head family of Mancuso supposed to be waiting for Lin Yan as her bride in front of the civil bureau today. Lin Yan bails her own marriage and bring doom to the family and make her grandmother into shock. This is supposedly becoming her faith to get married to the Mancuso family as they help the Lin family to become a successful business household in the C continent. In return, her grandfather promises to marry their daughter, but they only give birth to a boy. So, they promise to marry their granddaughter to the Mancuso family. However, Emma falls in love with the only heir of the Luo Family who is becoming the most prominent businessman in the whole C country.

Lin Yan was adopted from the orphanage as teenager for fulfilling their promise to the Mancuso family. But last week, the rumour spread out that the head of the Mancuso family is such a devil and old guy. As the head of the powerful Mafia family in this world, his hand taint with all the blood in his hand. Lin Yan was shivered in her room for almost three days after hearing about her fate.

This time, Emma will make sure to marry the most powerful and ruthless person on this earth and use his power to destroy and avenge her grudge. She is walking out of her bed and going into her bathroom. She is wearing her short white dress from a famous Italian boutique with her sneaker as she needs to jump out from the window.

She is born to mixed nationality parents. Her mother is born on Java island and married to her father. Emma mixes appearance makes her different and stand out since she was a baby. She is almost debuting as a model two years ago when Lin Yan crashed her dream and replace her. At least, she is smart enough to study medicine and got honours as the youngest surgeon.

She puts light makeup on her face which makes her face outstanding. She makes her hazelnut short hair to be a little bit nice before stuffing all her important papers for registering marriage in her branded handbag. She will need to do a bit of explaining to the civil bureau for her appearance with the different groom as registered in the office.

She hears the step on the floor closer to her door when she is rushing to her balcony, walking outside from the back door to the garage, and driving her own Mazda car. She chooses this favourite brand as she does not want to be known as a rich spoiled girl in the hospital.

She arrives on time to see one man with his business suit stands up next to the phantom black Bentley sedan. He seems fluttered when Emma comes closer to him.

‘Mr Mancuso, my name is Emma Lin and I am your bride as our grandfather agreement. Let’s get married,’ Emma is holding his hand and drags him with her into the office when he yanked his hand after a few steps away from his original place.

‘Let’s go or else we are going to be late for our married time,’ Emma is pursuing her goal before they find her and drag her back to the house. She does not want to see Luo Han Zheng face and she wants to rub their marriage certificate into his face.

‘En.... Young miss...’ The guy with his business suit tries to speak the word when Emma keeps pulls him toward the office.

The car door is opening when Emma gets dragged inside the car. she is sitting in the car with a young aloof man in his business suit. He is wearing an Italian branded suit with his brown hair neatly on his head.

‘Excuse me, sir. I am going to get marry and I am going to be late if you hold me here,’ Emma is telling him.

‘Where is your family card?’ His cold voice comes out from his expressionless face.

‘Why do you need my household registration?’ She is turning her body and looking at him in his eye. Emma must admit that his face looks really handsome with the mix between the Chinese and Italian races.

‘Do you say that you want to get married? I am going to need your family registration for the marriage registration,’ Vito is telling her with the gesture of his hand opening for her family registration. Emma is opening her handbag and taking out the family registration before putting it inside his hand.

Vito is opening his window and handing the paperwork to his assistant outside the car. his assistant moves inside the building, and it won't take a long time before he is going back to the car and hand them two marriage certificate book and her family registration. He is giving back her family registration to Emma.

‘Why are you wanting to get married to me? It supposed to be your adopted sister,’ Vito is asking her.

‘I have my own reason. I hope during our marriage can benefit each other,’ Emma is telling him. she is going to open up the door before he stops her.

‘Where are you going? Don't you want to look at your marriage certificate book?’ Vito is holding his arm to stop her to exit her car.