

My Villainous Wife

Chapter 112 - His Words are Absolute

Yan Xiaoran raised her eyebrows and said, "If you're busy, you don't have to come too soon." She said while her tone contained her disappointment.

"Why? Is there anyone joining us tonight?" Alexander asked her.

"No, but I'll be cooking for you and I doubt I can finish my work in time today." Hatefully tapped her finger on the stack of papers on top of her desk and to her right.

She really wanted to spend a lot of time with Alexander since they had just married each other not too long ago. If only she could transfer her duty as the president of Femperial Corporation, she would have done it in a heartbeat just to be with him.

However, with her responsibilities and duties as the Leader in the company, she can't possibly let her employees down.

In addition, Alexander must have some other things that he needs to do in his end.

They talked for over twenty minutes and Yan Xiaoran finally decided to end the call or else, they'll be talking to each for hours.

"Alright, I'll hang up now." She said to him and was about to press the end call button when she heard him speak.

"En, I love you."

Pausing her finger, Yan Xiaoran brought the phone towards her ear again and replied, "I love you too."

After their conversation, Alexander gave his phone to Yellow Owl who stood next to him.

Yellow Owl stared at the phone with a straight face and took out a handkerchief to wipe the phone from the blood that smeared it. It took him a minute before he was done and honestly, he wished he could waste his time wiping just about anything for as long as he could get out of this stuffy room filled with men.

"Now, that isn't too difficult, isn't it?" Alexander talked to the person sitting on the floor with his face all bloodied.

One could see that Alexander's hand was preventing him from producing any noise as the sound that Yan Xiaoran heard earlier when she first picked up was from him.

The man shivered upon seeing Alexander smiling down at him. No one knew how could Alexander call someone while beating someone to death.

Alexander's men, who were also inside the room had no answer to that question. They had just heard from Yellow Owl and the others that their boss finally got married to someone. But hearing is quite different from seeing.

Thus, Alexander's men couldn't believe that their boss married someone.

But with Alexander calling someone and saying 'I Love You' to that person, they wished they could flee from the room and wash their ears with sulfuric acid.

No! This isn't the Devil Boss we knew!

He would never say that three abominable words in this lifetime!

Surely, they heard him wrong and what he said was 'I'll Kill You', right?

The three other men, excluding Yellow Owl, inwardly convinced themselves.

Not knowing what his men were thinking, Alexander focused his attention on the man before him.

"Why don't we continue, Mr. Pei." Alexander pulled another nail from Mr. Pei who screamed loudly with Alexander's hand that was covering his mouth gone.

Mr. Pei didn't know what he did to offend Alexander. The last thing he could before closing his eyes, he was just lying on the bed next to his two beautiful mistresses in China after rolling in the bed for an hour.

However, he didn't know how he ended up inside an unknown room with Alexander torturing him.

"Master Alexander... Please tell me what did I do wrong? There must be a misunderstanding between us." Mr. Pei told him and cried his eyes out. His bald head glistened against the only light in the room like a bulb as sweat continuously coming out from it.

Alexander sighed. His hand reached for the clean towel that one of his men took out from who knows where and brought it to him. "It's because you're not behaving the way I expected you to."

"Wh-what do you mean by that?" Mr. Pei was surprised at him.

Alexander only stared at him and wiped his hand with the clean towel that one of his men brought to him. He then waved his hand once and Yellow Owl suddenly took out a few papers inside the briefcase in his hand.

Throwing the papers to the face of Mr. Pei, Alexander waited for the man to read a few words written in the papers and understand what was going on.

"Half of the crime organization in China that is lead by your Pei family thought that the recent kidnappings and selling of organs that are currently going on in Japan will leave my notice. Well, you thought wrong." Alexander said.

Walking to the basin of water on top of a table, Alexander started to wash the remaining bloodstains that the towel didn't clean off his hands.

The tension in the room increased as Alexander hit homerun and made things go on longer than needed as if he was enjoying every minute of the fear that lay on the air like the stench of death.

He then started to speak once a few minutes passed. "I already told you, my Territory is off-limits. If you want to wreak havoc, do it in your own cities. Unfortunately, you disobeyed my orders and ignored my words."

"Are the words that left my mouth so easy to forget? He raised an eyebrow to Yellow Owl who shook his head.

"No, Boss. Your words are absolute and unforgettable."

"Of course, your words are absolute and no one can say otherwise." Mr. Pei nodded his head in agreement and wanted to say a few words of forgiveness and ask for mercy. He wanted to ask for a chance to correct his wrongs.

"Say that to your daughter once you meet her in the afterlife." Alexander's enigmatic words hang in the air for a bit longer before a loud single bang sounded throughout the room before a deafening silence landed.

Twisting the gun in his hand, Alexander put on a wicked smile was on his lips as he thought of what kind of wine he should bring to gift to his wife's victorious actions.

Meanwhile, Mr. Pei was lying limp on the ground without getting to ask for a second chance.

Unfortunately, the second chance he was asking will never come to this life as his daughter already sealed his fate last night.
