Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1192

Chapter 1192 She was selected as the most beautiful girl in the school abroad every year, and she also had her own fan base, but all of these were because of her appearance.

She was truly excellent in academics . She was also very gifted in design, and she had won a lot of major awards before.

But these achievements were suppressed by her siblings' glory, so she never once felt that she had achieved anything substantial, nor did she have a strong ambition.

Joining the entertainment industry had been an unintentional move, but she did not expect that her hard work would attract fans one day.

A group of people actually silently supported her at the back, without her knowledge.

Ninian's heart became warm, and something warm and substantial flew across her limbs along the blood.

Her small and delicate face also turned red. Her eyes shone slightly, and she looked at Everett with admiration.

“So, is this why you asked me to wait?”

He knew that she was feeling lost, so he took her to see through the mist and look at the problems that she usually did not notice. He let her gradually understand what her heart thought and slowly develop her own direction.

“Yes.” Everett tussled her head, and he said with a gentle gaze , “This is just one of the small choices. Your life is broad, and you have countless other choices. You can have many dreams, and I'll realize them one by one with you.

“So, don't feel lost at all. Just follow your heart. No matter when it is, you'll always be supported.”

Ninian smiled, and her watery eyes shone brightly.

The members of the Winters family always let her live without worries, but nobody ever noticed that they needed to show her the way and tell her how she should proceed in the future.

Everett was really the lighthouse in her life.

She held his arm, raised her head, and stared at him with her watery eyes. She softly said, “Well said , Mr. Craig.”

Everett’s gaze instantly froze, and his body also became stiff.

Almost everyone in the entertainment industry addressed each other respectfully, and he had also heard countless people calling him “Mr. Craig“.

But nobody ever called him in such a melodious and alluring way as she did.

The excitement and lust almost burst out from the edge of his moral ground and took control of his body.

He breathed slowly and said with a hoarse voice, “Let’s eat.”

The cheerful girl did not know how her words had affected the young man. She obediently said, “Oh, okay.” She sat back in her seat. She happily ate the prawn while her eyes crinkled in amusement.

Meanwhile , it was only after Everett nearly used all his forbearance that he suppressed his discomfort.

When he saw the girl looking so careless, he massaged his forehead.

How long did he still need to wait until she grew up?

After dinner, they went to a remote and quiet riverside and walked side by side.

Under the dim light, Ninian turned around, letting the light shine on her shoulders tenderly.

Her eyes crinkled, and she said, “Everett, I’ve thought a lot. I believe acting makes me feel relaxed and happy. Especially after I finish playing a new role and experiencing a different life in the film, I feel fulfilled and satisfied.

“At the same time, we are luckier than most people. Our hard work and achievement in the industry will be enlarged and seen by everyone. Countless people will support us. They will give us strength, and they will also absorb positivity from us.

“I think this kind of life is great, and I like it. When I first joined, my target to act and become an actress had not been very clear.

But I thought about it now. I want to develop my career and walk until the end. I want to obtain the highest honors and achievements like you.”
