

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1199

Chapter 1199 It was replaced with Melody's voice, which sounded slightly flustered.

"Hello, Ninian?"

"Mel, what's wrong?" Ninian curiously asked.

"No-Nothing. I just met some people who are extra friendly." Melody seemed to gently exhale and ask, "Grapie, is something wrong? Do you need my help with anything?"

When Ninian heard Melody's soft words, she felt her face turn red from embarrassment.

It seemed that she always caused trouble and came to her sister for help, so her sister's first reaction after getting a call from her was to ask what happened.

“Ahem, Mel, I just wanted to check in on you.” Ninian shamelessly asked, “Are you in Perthwick now?”

“How did you know?” Melody asked in surprise, sounding a little strange. “I’m... I’m staying in my junior’s house.”

“Your junior? Is it Brooklyn?” Ninian’s eyes instantly lit up. With a nosy gaze, she asked, “Are you in his house now? So, was that noise earlier from his family talking?”

“Yes,” Melody said. “Luckily you called in time, or else, I wouldn’t know how to excuse myself.”

As she spoke, she sounded slightly frightened as if she was not used to such situations.

Ninian could not help but giggle. Did she... just meet her in-laws?

Ninian had seen Brooklyn’s gaze when he looked at Melody. But Melody was innocent and obsessed with her career, so she never thought about it in depth. Now that she was in his house, it seemed that she would have some good news soon.

Ninian felt happy for her sister as she chuckled.

“Little girl, why are you snickering?” Melody raised her eyebrows.

Ninian immediately answered, “Nothing! Just help me greet my future... uh, Brooklyn.” “Future Brooklyn? What kind of weird description is that?” Melody found it strange, but she did not pursue it. She just said, “Tell me honestly, why are you calling me?”

“Haha! I really can’t hide anything from you,” Ninian said cheekily. “Some time ago, I asked you to help me look for a doctor, right? I was just wondering if you’ve received any news from when you investigated Everett at that time.”

She had no plans of looking into Everett’s privacy at first, but as she got to know him, she sensed Everett’s unstable emotions greatly.

He always tended to fall into extremes, deny himself, and have bad thoughts.

She wanted to help him change his mindset, so she planned to look into the root cause.

“I’m currently contacting the doctors, so it might take more time. Regarding Everett’s experience, Harold and I didn’t find anything in-depth. After all, the Craig family isn’t small. It’s very hard to dig out things that they want to cover up without George, Daddy, and Mommy on our side.”

“Ah, I see.” Ninian felt a little gloomy and hunched her shoulders.

“However, it seemed that a rather big conflict happened in the Craig family a few years ago. The former head of the Craig family passed away, and Rowan Craig was also chased out of the family. I don’t know what happened exactly,” Melody said in a deep voice. “I also don’t know if this is related to Everett’s disease. Anyway, his family is very complicated. So, I still retain my stance. I don't agree with you being with him.”

“Mel, don't say that.” Ninian found it hard to blame Melody. Nevertheless, she pulled herself together and spoke coquettishly.

“Look, Hal has personally come to protect us. Don't worry, okay? I believe that Everett can handle everything in his family, including his own disease. Can you trust my judgment too?”

Listening to Ninian's heartfelt words, Melody could not be ruthless. She sighed before she said, “I won't stop you from taking the path that you want. But if you feel tired, you can turn back anytime. I'm always here, and our family will always be behind you.”

“Sure! Okay!” It was as if Ninian had been injected with a tonic. She became energetic again, and her tone was sweet and cheerful. “You're the best sister in the world! I love you!”

“Naughty girl.” Melody could not help but chuckle.

After Melody hung up, she turned back and saw Brooklyn rush over.