

My Wife Is A Secret Assassin

Chapter 191: Break Up

Two years later

Chance and Bill were in MIT to attend Samantha's commencement ceremony.

"I can't believe two years passed away so quickly" Bill exclaimed while roaming around the beautiful campus.

"Yeah, for you. After you met those bunch of intellectual friends, you have been busy almost every day. For me, these two years were a complete torture" Chance complained.

"Stop sulking, the two years of separation is over now."

"Yeah, I am so glad" Chance sighed in relief.

Bill and Chance took seats and later saw all the graduates arrive there wearing black robe and graduation hats.

They couldn't find Samantha as everyone looked the same and waited for her to go on stage to collect her degree.

After a while, Samantha Allen's name was announced and she came up on stage to receive her degree.

Chance and Bill got excited and clicked her pictures. It was a proud moment for them.

After the ceremony was over, Samantha was busy clicking pictures with her new friends and they were emotionally hugging and bidding adieu to one another.

Chance and Bill patiently waited for Samantha as they were planning to leave for New York right after this ceremony. Her stuff was all packed.

So, they let her be and stayed on the side.

Later, a handsome guy stepped towards Samantha and when Chance saw him, he got annoyed.

"Calm down, she already told you, no one can replace you in her life. Stop being jealous, her studies are over" Bill calmly reminded Chance as he already predicted how pissed he is going to be seeing Samantha and that boy together.

Samantha and that guy hugged each other and clicked a few pictures together, angering Chance even more.

"Control, Chance, control" Bill kept pacifying him.

"Yeah, I am trying" Chance gritted his teeth in frustration.

That guy and Samantha talked for a while then he took her with him to introduce her to his parents.

"What the fuck! Why is she meeting his parents?" Chance got pissed of seeing this scene.

"Chance, it is just a casual meeting" Bill helplessly shook his head.

"No, I can't take this anymore" Chance was about to step towards them but Bill held his arm, stopping him.

"Remember, last time because of your jealousy you kissed Samantha in front of everyone and then she scolded you about it later. You want that to repeat?" Bill reminded of an event when Chance kissed her in front of her friends to show them she is his.

Samantha hates public display of affection and got upset at his behaviour.

He had to apologize and promise to her that he won't pull such stunts again, only then she forgave him.

"Yeah, I don't mind she getting upset again" Chance was about to go but Samantha and her guy friend approached them instead.

Her two other friends too accompanied her.

"I guess they are all meeting one another's family casually, please act cool" Bill warned his future son-in-law.

"I missed you so much" Samantha hugged her dad tightly.

"I missed you too, dear. We are so proud of you" Bill happily hugged her back.

Samantha just smiled at Chance and introduced her friends to them.

"And guys as you all already know that's my dad and that's my boyfriend"

"Fiancé" Chance corrected her.

"Oh, right, fiancé" Samantha awkwardly smiled.

Bill and Chance got confused at her behaviour but they controlled themselves from saying anything. Instead, they nicely interacted with her friends.

"I'll be back soon." Samantha apologetically looked at the two men before leaving with her friends.

"She is definitely breaking up with me" Chance exclaimed sulking sadly.

"Chance, stop being an idiot."

"Dad, did you not hear? she called me her boyfriend. I am her fiancé and she forgot that" Chance looked like he was wronged.

"Chance, it must be a casual mistake, chill. Let's go and have lunch" Bill tried to cheer the guy but Chance looked worried.

"Dad, what if she breaks up with me?" Chance asked Bill after they sat down with their lunch at a table.

"Chance, why will she break up with you?"

"What if she fell for that loser geek?" Chance reminded of that guy, he felt insecure of earlier.

"Last time when he asked her out, she rejected him, remember?" Bill asked him.

"Yeah, but it was few months ago. What if she changed her decision now?" Chance was not convinced.

"When was the last time you spoke to her?"

"Three weeks ago. She was busy so we only chatted through messages"

"Oh" Now Bill too was thinking deeply.

"So, now you agree with me? She is going to end our relationship?" Chance started freaking out as the man who had been assuring him until now, started having the same doubts.

"Uhhh, I think we should wait and see what Sam would do next" Bill said as a matter-of-fact.

Chance's mood turned sour.

After a few hours, Samantha finally got free and joined the two men, who had been waiting for her in her dormitory room.

"I am so sorry to keep you two waiting" Samantha immediately apologized.

"We are leaving today, right?" Bill asked her for confirmation as she seemed very busy with her friends.

Samantha laughed and assured him, "Yes dad, we are"

"Okay, I'll bring the car, you guys move the luggage" Bill took car keys from Chance and left from there.

"Hey" Samantha awkwardly greeted Chance after Bill left.

"Sam, why are you being all awkward and weird around me? It's not like we are meeting after a year, we just met last month ago." Chance couldn't keep calm and questioned her.

"Chance... I... you first need to sit down" Samantha made him sit on her bed and looked a bit guilty.

"Actually, a few things happened in the last month, and..." She was not sure how to say it.

"Sam, you are scaring me" Chance could clearly see how uncomfortable she was.

"I am sorry, Chance. I am so sorry" Samantha covered her face in guilt and sat next to him.

"Why are you sorry, Sam?" Chance looked scared.

Samantha looked at Chance and she had drops of tears near her eyes, "Last month, we were all partying, I was drunk and so was he. After party, we two came to my room to hang out. One thing led to another.... I am so sorry, Chance"

...