

My Wife Is A Secret Assassin

Chapter 32: Name Tag

Samantha didn't like what this woman did as there was lot of empty space between her and David's chairs and yet this woman made her and Chance to shift far away from each other and placed her chair between them, it was evident she wanted to sit with Chance.

Samantha then thought she is overthinking and decided to not mind silly things like these and rather focus on the main mission she was here for.

Right now, her plan is to kill her target between 5 to 6 PM and make that death look natural, the reason she was here with Chance and David is so that she could ensure they won't hinder with her plan.

Now, she needs to ensure they leave and go back to their rooms after Chance is done with his company's presentation.

"Hi" a pleasant voice greeted Samantha bringing her back from her thoughts.

Samantha looked to her right to see the woman who just approached them, smiling brightly at her.

'Why is she showing her teeth?' Samantha got upset seeing this beautiful woman but she was not the one to show her real feelings to someone, so she too lightly smiled and greeted her back.

"How do you know Chance and David?" The woman asked her.

"Around two months back we met in Hawaii"

"What?" The woman suddenly shouted and looked at Chance who glared at her in anger and signaled her to keep quiet.

Samantha saw the exchange between the two people and she didn't like it as she could see this girl and Chance were very close.

"Why are you this surprised?" Samantha questioned her as that girl still kept staring at her.

"Umm, actually... umm" This girl was not sure what to say now as Chance warned her to keep quiet.

"Actually, she is upset with us as we all didn't invite her to that trip to Hawaii, so she reacted like that" Chance came up with some silly excuse and Samantha knew he was lying but right now she was not interested in getting into all this stuff so she acted like she believed it.

"Oh" Samantha just nodded her head and continued eating her lunch.

"By the way, I am Carol, I work with Chance" The woman introduced herself.

Samantha smiled at her and politely nodded her head.

The woman then glanced at the name tag that was attached to the strap she wore around her neck.

"Wait, didn't you say her name is Samantha, but here it says Sarah." Carol pointed at Samantha's name tag and asked Chance.

It was now obvious for Samantha that Chance already mentioned her to Carol as she still didn't introduce herself.

Chance and David surprisingly looked at the name tag which was hanging around Samantha's neck and Carol was indeed right; the name Sarah was written on it instead of Samantha.

The two men looked at Samantha curiously, their gaze questioning her.