

MY FGB 301

Chapter 301

After Kayson and the others came out of the company, they drove toward the mountain. They were able to use the car at first, but as soon as they reached the mountain, they had to walk.

Luckily, the four of them were fighters, so their speed was not affected. Besides, Kayson also knew the name and the identity of the girl with the big eyes and the baby face. She was Willow Stewart, a level-one member on Campian's team. In the Admiralporium, other than the captain and lieutenant, the members were ranked from one, which was the highest level, to six, which was the lowest. Campian made a call to Shien, but no one picked up, which made him frown slightly. 'What the hell is he doing? I'm going to share the credit with him, but why didn't he answer the phone?'

He sent a text message to his team members and asked them to make contact with the members of squad five to inform Shien. However, he knew he wouldn't get a response right away. Suddenly, Kayson said, "We're getting closer to Jesse." Campian's expression changed. "So fast?" Willow mumbled, "What should we do, captain? It seems like you're no match for Jesse."

Willow was a late-stage energy fighter.

Campian was a late-stage master-level fighter, Ren was an intermediate-stage master-level fighter, while Jesse was a peak-stage master-level fighter. Campian frowned and said, "If I work with Mr. Shorrocks, we might be able to hold Jesse back. But if we want to capture him alive, it will be impossible." Suddenly, a loud explosion came from the depths of the mountain as smoke and dust rose into the air.

Kayson said, "Someone is fighting Jesse." Campian's expression changed slightly. "Shien didn't pick up my call just now. Could it be them?»

Willow asked in confusion, "But how did they get to Jesse before me?" Campian replied gloomily, "How would I know? This is great. They're going to claim all the credit now."

Kayson expanded his mind to try to sense the things around him. However, he wasn't particularly good at this. He couldn't cover too much ground yet, so they had to continue moving forward.

He did not know why they were still heading over there. After all, Shien was surely able to take Jesse down.

Kayson said, "We should go and check it out, Captain Wolke. I have a feeling that they might need our help." "What?"

Campian was stunned. He did not know how Kayson would come to such a conclusion. Suddenly, he noticed the details that he had overlooked and told Willow, "Did you notice? Mr. Yarde can keep up with our speed..." "Huh?" Willow's eyes bulged, and she exclaimed, "You're right! Could he be a genius fighter as well? Is he a late-stage energy fighter too?" "Most likely, and I think he might be even stronger than that!" Willow did not believe it, so she chuckled. "Please don't make me laugh, Cap. He needs to be a master-level fighter to be stronger than us. That's something even I can't achieve yet!" After Campian heard what Willow said, he let out a chuckle. He felt that Willow was right. He was just imagining things.

After all, a young master-level fighter could only be found in Metropolis. All of them picked up their pace, and very soon, Campian saw that the forest in front of them was burning. It was indeed Jesse, the Flamethrower. "Shien!?"

Campian saw a man running around with a man on his back. He squinted his eyes, and when he saw that the man being carried was Shien, he shouted, "Shien!?"

"Captain Wolke!?" The team member carrying Shien was the early-stage energy fighter who had disrespected Kayson in the Hamiltons' manor.

A hint of surprise crossed his face when he saw Campian. However, this surprise was soon replaced by fear. "Captain Wolk, please take Captain Cooke and run! Jesse had a breakthrough, and he's in the pre-celestial stage now! He seriously injured my captain with just a hit!"

Chapter 302 Campian's pupils constricted, and his expression changed. He then shouted, "Hand Shien me!"

The team member threw Shien to Campian. Campian turned his head around and shouted, "Mr. Yarde! Let's run!" "Hahaha! Admiralpodium! You guys are the most despicable beings in this world!" At that moment, a fierce-looking old man leapt, landing in front of Kayson and the others.

The clothes he was wearing were all crimson. His eyes seemed to be spewing fire, and when he appeared, the temperature around him rose a bit.

"Shien Cooke from the fifth division and Campian Wolke from the eighth division! Today must be my lucky day!" Jesse tossed his head back and let out a boisterous laugh. "The prospect of killing two captains from Admiralpodium makes me so excited!"

Campian knew there was no way they could run away. He thus put Shien down and rushed to the front, his face stern. "I didn't expect you to break through to the pre-celestial stage." Campian sighed.

Jesse laughed and said sarcastically, "It's all thanks to you guys. Had you guys not pushed me into a corner, I wouldn't have thought it would work with just one try."

Campian shook his head dejectedly. He then pointed at Kayson and Ren and said, "These two aren't from Admiralpodium. Can you let them go?"

Jesse laughed wickedly and said, "Of course I can let them go. After all, I need someone to spread the great news of me killing two captains from Admiralporium!"

Willow's eyes were filled with tears as she said, "This is so frustrating! I haven't become a master-level fighter yet, and I have to die now!"

"Don't worry. None of you are going to die today."

Kayson took a step forward and offered them a smile. Campian was shocked. "Mr. Yarde, you..." Jesse chuckled. "Seems to me that you have a death wish. Very well, then. I shall grant your wish!"

As soon as he finished speaking, he lifted his palm and released a gush of energy. The energy slowly turned into a massive fireball midway as it charged toward Kayson at top speed. Kayson picked up a branch. Using the branch as a sword, he enveloped it with the sword aura and sliced the fireball into two.

In the meantime, the branch in Kayson's hand turned into ashes instantly.

Jesse's pupils constricted as all the color vanished from his face. "Sword aura? You're a master -level fighter!?"

Both Campian and Willow were petrified on the spot. This was the first time they had seen someone using a branch as a sword.

Kayson smiled and said, "Let me ask you a question. Do you think your fire is stronger than my lightning?" Jesse squinted his eyes and said coldly, "Hah, don't make me laugh. I'm a grandmaster-level fighter. There's no way you can beat me! "Fire Blast!" He launched a stronger attack against Kayson. This was the attack that he had used to seriously injure Shien, who was a peak-stage master level fighter.

Kayson gathered the gray and dark lightning energy on his palm. He then lifted his palm up and the lightning energy shot forward like an arrow released from its string. Jesse's attack was split into half by Kayson's lightning arrow. The raging lightning engulfed the fire and continued to travel forward at an even faster speed. Pfft!

Everyone could see nothing but a streak of lightning. Jesse lowered his head in shock. He then saw that there was a hole in his chest and blood was flowing out of it. "How... can this be?"

His legs gave way and he fell to the ground. "I'm... a pre-celestial fighter..." The notorious fighter was dead. Kayson's face was now pale. Although the attack was powerful, it had nearly emptied all of the lightning energy in his body. "He... He's dead?" Willow took a deep breath, and her eyes were filled with shock as she looked at Kayson. "Jeez... He killed a pre-celestial fighter with one hit?" 'Captain, where did you get such a powerful ally?' she thought silently.

Chapter 303

Kayson took a breath, and his complexion finally became better.

Jesse's fire energy was indeed powerful. If he had been alone, he was confident that he could have captured him alive.

However, Campian and the others were here with him right now, so he could only do his best to kill him.

Thus, he gathered nearly all of the lightning energy in his body so he could kill Jesse with one shot without giving him a chance to dodge.

Ren sighed. "I knew it... Mr. Yarde, you're so good at hiding your own strength that nobody has been able to notice it."

Kayson chuckled and said, "You noticed it, didn't you?"

Ren gave him a bitter smile. "I'm so ashamed of myself. I didn't expect you to be a pre celestial fighter at all, Mr. Yarde."

He was observant, so he had long noticed that Kayson was definitely a highly skilled fighter rather than a normal fighter.

On the way there, he had noticed that Kayson had been able to keep up with their pace.

Both he and Campian were master-level fighters, so he had thought there was a possibility that Kayson was a master-level fighter.

However, he was still wrong in the end. Campian chimed in by asking nervously, "Mr. Yarde, can you save Shien?"

The early-stage energy fighter who carried Shien on his back and had disrespected Kayson in the Hamiltons' manor walked up to Kayson and knelt in front of him.

He bowed at Kayson three times and said sincerely, his eyes pleading, "Sir, I apologize for my attitude and the things I said in the Hamiltons' manor. You can do whatever you want to me to vent your anger, but please, you've got to save my captain!" "Get up," Kayson said indifferently. "I'll save him since Captain Wolke asked."

After saying that, he walked up to Shien and checked on his condition. Then, he frowned and said, "Jesse destroyed most of his veins, and most of his bones are fractured."

Shien had not expected him to be so seriously injured, "Can you save him?" he asked.

Kayson stuck a few needles into his body to stabilize his condition and said, "Let's rush him to the hospital. Don't worry, he won't die as long as I'm here." The member of Squad 5 who had disrespected him burst into tears of joy and said gratefully, "Thank you, sir! Thank you for saving him!" Kayson did not say anything in return. Campian asked his men to clean up the scene, and then they all took Shien to Northspring General Hospital.

Shien was suffering from both external and internal injuries, not to mention that there was a large burned area on the surface of his body. If he were not a peak-stage master-level fighter and had not protected himself with an energy barrier, Jesse's attack would've obliterated him.

Kayson activated the cells in Shien's body through a new needling technique before applying a large amount of herbs that he had asked Campian to prepare on him. Then, he began to deal with his internal and bone injuries. Time flitted by rapidly, and by the time he emerged from the ward, it had already been three to four hours. Campian, who had been waiting outside the ward, jerked up when he saw Kayson. Kayson said, "Rest assured. He'll wake up in two hours."

After hearing what he said, Campian replied, "I really don't know how we should thank you, – Mr. Yarde.

"In any case, on behalf of Admiralporium of Skyriv, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to you!" Kayson chuckled. "It was fate that we got to know each other, and this is what I should do as a friend, Captain Wolke."

Cocking her head, Willow studied Kayson from head to toe with her large eyes. In the end, she couldn't hold herself back anymore and asked, "Are you really a pre-celestial fighter?"

Kayson looked at her and nodded. "Oh gosh!"

Willow's eyes were filled with admiration, and she exclaimed, "How did you train? You aren't older than me, right?"

"Since you killed Jesse with one hit, it means you can kill my captain with one hit as well. But you're so young... Could you have come from Metropolis?"

Chapter 304

Campian darted a warning look at Willow. Although this was the truth, he felt uncomfortable,

"I'm not from Metropolis. I'm just a nobody," Kayson replied.

"Willow, hurry up and report on Jesse. We still need to hand the report to our superior, remember? Now isn't the right time to be idling around and chit-chatting."

Willow smacked her lips and replied, "Alright, alright."

She looked at Kayson reluctantly before heading to do Campian's bidding

Very soon, all the members of the fifth division in Northspring arrived at the hospital. They bowed at Kayson to express their gratitude to him, causing a ruckus in the hospital

Kayson and Campian then returned to Shaun's company.

Since Ren had come back earlier than them, Shaun already knew roughly what had happened.

Campian told Shaun, "Mr. Cash, I'm sure no one will set fire to the mountain again. After all, burning a mountain or a forest is a big deal.

"I'll send my team members to guard the mountains and forests. Even if some outlaws want to cause trouble, they'll retreat when they see the people from Admiralporium."

Shaun was beyond delighted when he heard what Campian had said.

"Thank you so much, Captain Wolke!"

It went without saying that he would not reject Campian's offer. After all, he was the only one in Skyriv, where the mountains and forests were protected by Admiralporium.

Of course, he also understood that Campian was doing this because of Kayson. If it weren't for Rayson, he would've gone away after getting rid of Jesse. However, this was not the first time he had come across Kayson, so they did not need to be so polite to each other.

After he spent a while with Shaun, Kayson returned to the Todds.

Campian had to submit the report, so he left first. When Rowena saw Kayson, her eyes started brimming with joy. "Have you finished your job?"

Kayson nodded, "How do you feel now, Hendery?"

Hendery replied, "I'm feeling better now."

However, Kayson could see the hint of disappointment in his eyes.

His veins were damaged, and he was not an influential figure, nor was he rich. He was just a normal person, so it would be very difficult for him to fix his veins. Rowena knew that her brother was sad right now, but she would be fine as long as he was alive. Kayson grabbed a chair and sat down. He then asked, "Hendery, do you wish to regain your inner energy?" Hendery's eyes glowed as his breathing became faster. "Of course!" "I have a way to repair your veins," Kayson said. "You do?" Hendery exclaimed. Kayson nodded and pulled out a few vials of Chalcedony Juice. Chalcedony Juice was very good at fixing one's veins. When Skye had gotten his veins destroyed, he had also used this juice to fix them.

Skye had been able to recover despite his heavy injuries, so it went without saying that Hendery could recover as well. Hendery's eyes bulged as he asked, "What is this?"

"It doesn't matter what this is. You just need to swallow it. Then, with the assistance of my special needling technique, I assure you that you'll recover in no time." Hendery sucked in some air through his teeth. An item that could repair veins was an invaluable item!

The price of one drop would be astronomical, and he felt that it was a little bit of a waste for Kayson to use it on him.

Rowena knew her brother better, so she knew what he was thinking with a single glance. She took the Chalcedony Juice from Kayson and handed it to Hendery. Then, she said, "Brother, since Kayson gave it to you, you should just use it. "I'll pay him back everything that we owe him."

Chapter 305

Hendery took the Chalcedony Juice. After Kayson performed the needling technique on him, he felt like his body was burning.

In less than two hours, his veins became even tougher than they used to be, and he had a feeling that he had become a late stage energy fighter.

Before this, he had been just an intermediate-stage energy fighter. He had not expected that he would gain something from this accident and become stronger.

His veins recovered, and he could amass inner energy again. As for the rest of the wounds, Kayson told him that they would heal by themselves since he had already attended to them.

Hendery bowed before Kayson and said seriously, "Kayson, I don't have anything to repay you, so I'll give my sister to you!"

Rowena's cheeks flushed red when she heard what her brother had said. She smacked him and said in embarrassment, "Stop it, brother!!"

Kayson felt embarrassed as well. He offered him an apologetic smile and said, "You don't have to do that, Hendery. I just hope you can help me take care of Wolfenden Corp. in Clouspring when you have the time."

Hendery, who was stunned, asked, "Are you talking about the real estate company in Clouspring that has recently become famous?”

“Yeah.”

Hendery nodded. “No problem. I’ll keep an eye on it.”

Rowena suggested, “Brother, let’s buy Kayson a meal.”

Something flitted across Hendery’s eyes as he smiled. “You can go eat with Kayson. I need to go report this to my captain.

“You don’t mind, right, Kayson?”

Kayson replied, “No, I don’t mind. Your job is more important.”

After saying that, Kayson seemed to remember something and said, “Hendery, if nothing goes wrong, you’ll get a promotion and you’ll have more say in the organization.

“I heard that the Hamiltons and Admiralporium are not on good terms. If possible, I hope you can help me look into it.”

Hendery was stunned. “The Hamiltons in Northspring? Well, I’ve heard of this before... Alright, I’ll help you look into the database if I have the power.”

After Hendery left, Kayson and Rowena walked out of the hospital as well.

They only took two steps forward before Kayson received a call from Yuri,

When Kayson answered the call, Yuri’s voice rang out. “Kace, why didn’t you tell me that you’re in Northspring?”

Kayson chuckled and said, “I’m busy, so I didn’t have the time to inform you.”

Yuri was not angry at him at all. He giggled and said, “Where are you now? I’ll come and pick you up. Since you’re already here, I have to buy you a meal.”

Kayson asked Rowena for her opinion and replied, “Sure. You can come and pick me up from Northspring General Hospital.”

“Sure!”

In less than an hour, a Porsche Cayenne stopped in front of them.

Yuri got out of the car and greeted him. “Kace!”

When he saw a pretty woman standing beside Kayson, he lamented inwardly. Seems like I have a lot to learn from Kace when it comes to women.’

After all, there were all sorts of women around Kayson. Christine from Roselle Lodge, Zachary’s granddaughter, Lindsay, and he had heard that the CEO of Wolfenden Corp. was connected to Kayson as well,

As for the woman in front of him, although she was an ordinary person, she could easily be a school belle given her outstanding appearance

Are you Kace's girlfriend? Pleasure to meet you. I'm Yuri Cash!"

Rowena's face turned red from embarrassment, but she did not deny the claim

"Nice to meet you. I'm Rowena Todd."

Kayson shook his head helplessly and got into Yuri's Cayenne.

When Kayson realized that Yuri was taking him to the Sirens Hotel, he could barely hold back his laughter.

"As expected, he's taking me to the most famous hotel in Northspring. Everyone who wants to buy me a meal brings me here."

Yuri then said proudly, "Kace, the Sirens Hotel is the most famous hotel in Northspring.

"All the chefs here are the best of the best, and their cooking is famous nationwide. Besides, the food of the Sirens Hotel could be considered the best in the entire city of Skyriv."

Chapter 306

Kayson nodded in approval. "That's great."

Rowena, who was a little amused, pulled out her phone to text Kayson: (Why are you such a meanie?)

Kayson smiled and replied: (What's the issue?)

Rowena texted back: [You're tooting your own horn. Mr. Cash Jr. will cringe so hard when he finds out you're the hotel's chairman!

Kayson replied: [It's no big deal.]

Yuri led the two of them to Room Therde 3.

There were four classes of rooms in the Sirens Hotel: Primera, Segunda, Therde, and Quattor. There was only one Room Primera, while there were two Room Segundas, five Room Therdes and eight Room Quattors.

Upon sitting down, Yuri asked, "Kayson, can I ask several friends to join us?"

Kayson nodded, "You're hosting. You call the shots."

Yuri chuckled. "There aren't many of them. They're all my best friends, Real friends."

After sending the text, he sighed. "Before my tendons were cut, I was slightly more well-known, and a lot of people were pandering to me.

"After my tendon injury, most of them stayed away from me, and only a handful stayed in contact with me.

"It's true what people say. You'll only see who your fake friends are when you're in trouble."

Kayson comforted him. "It's all in the past now. You're already fully healed, so you'll get back to the peak."

Yuri was grateful. "I have you to thank for. Speaking of which, need to thank the Roselle Lodge's owner too! If he hadn't pulled those strings, I might've already..."

While they chatted, Yuri's friends came. They were three people around his age, and after a brief introduction, Kayson got to know them as well.

There was Diesel Chisholm, whose family ran a wholesale porcelain business, Buddie Gooding, whose family was in the fashion industry and had a decently-sized fashion retail company locally, and last but not least was Jim Milner, who was a practitioner who had yet to possess inner energy.

After a short exchange, Kayson realized that they were all genuine people

Jim said as they talked, "Yuri, Tamayo's hosting a thing here tonight too."

Anicy flicker flashed across Yuri's eyes.

Kayson asked, "Jim, who's Tamayo?"

Jim answered, "Looks like Yuri didn't tell you in detail. His tendons were broken by Aquilo Stone.

"Tamayo is Aquilo's younger brother."

Yuri huffed. "Forget it, don't bring him up. Let's just ignore him!"

Jim looked helpless. "Tamayo has a bunch of lackeys around him. A few of them used to hang out with us."

Buddie seemed disdainful as he grunted, "What a bunch of snakes. Nothing to be sorry about!"

"Tamayo's all puffed up now that Aquilo's the vice-captain of Admiralporium," Diesel said.

Kayson's interest was piqued. "The vice-captain of Admiralporium?"

Diesel replied, "Looks like you know about Admiralporium too, Kayson. The vice-captain holds a lot of power.

"If Aquilo came back, Northspring's leader would be willing to welcome him himself."

Kayson smiled. "He's just a vice-captain, yet Tamayo is this brazen?"

"You have no idea, Kayson. Admiralporium isn't an ordinary organization. Forget about the vice-captain. Regular people can hardly come across a low-level member," Diesel said.

"I'm not exaggerating, but if one became a second-level or third level member of Admiralporium, they'd be superior to others wherever they are." "And you say you're not exaggerating?" Kayson chuckled.

Chapter 307

Yuri knocked on the table. "Diesel, quit talking to Kayson about that and dampening the mood.

"Have a drink! Eat! Bring up less upsetting sh*t like this!"

Diesel snapped out of it and raised his glass. "My bad, my bad. I'll down three glasses for that!"

And he did what he said.

Kayson looked indifferent while Rowena shuffled closer and told him, "My brother's the lowest-level member, I think."

Kayson nodded. "Mn, but I don't think he'll be for long. Hendery's going two levels up, at least."

If he did not get promoted even after saving Campian's life, the latter would be tactless.

Suddenly, Kayson frowned as he glanced at the door out of the corner of his eye.

There was a bang, as though someone had kicked the door open, and in poured a group of people.

"Oh, isn't this Mr. Yuri Cash of Northspring ? He's really here!" The man with the large nose who came in first mocked him sarcastically Yuri and his friends' faces fell.

Jim was the first to stand up, and he asked in a low tone, "Tamayo, what are you doing here?"

The man with the big nose was Tamayo Stone.

Tamayo answered cynically, "Jim Milner, you dumb*ss, you're still with Yuri? What do you get out of it?"

Jim felt like he was being humiliated and snarled back, "Who do you think I am? I make friends based on their personality and character. Don't compare me to those pieces of trash!"

"F*ck you! Who are you f*cking calling trash, Jim?"

One of the men around Tamayo was triggered . It was one of those people who had hung out with Yuri and had later gone on to pander to Tamayo.

Jim scoffed. "When you throw a stone at a pack of dogs, only the one hit will bark!"

The person who answered was furious and acted as if he was about to start a fight.

Tamayo put up a hand to stop him and looked at Yuri with a smirk. "Yuri Cash, I heard that you've gotten better?"

"So what?" There was a subtle change in Yuri's expression.

Tamayo chuckled. "Nothing. Just reminding you that my brother's a vice-captain of Admiralporium and you, as a practitioner, better not do anything wrong.

"If you do, you'll end up feeling pathetic if my brother catches you personally."

Yuri's expression hardened. "Your worry is unnecessary!"

Tamayo squinted, but his eyes glowed when he saw Rowena, who was sitting next to Kayson. He went straight to her and grinned. "Miss, we seem to have met somewhere before. May I have the honor of buying you a meal?"

"No, thank you." Rowena rejected him.

Anyone could see what Tamayo was thinking.

A wide grin was still plastered on his face. “Miss, my brother’s the vice-captain of Admiralporium, and I’m an inner energy fighter. Why don’t you say yes?”

Yuri was angry. “Tamayo Stone, are you f*cking blind? Can’t you see she’s with my bro?”

Tamayo glanced at Kayson threateningly. “Are you going to scram or not?”

“Even Campian Wolke isn’t as brazen as you are,” Kayson commented with a smile.

“Campian Wolke?” Tamayo scoffed. “Haven’t heard of him. What kind of insignificant small fry are you talking about?”

Kayson was amused. The idiot actually did not know who Campian was.

Yuri was furious. “Kayson, take your girl and stand aside. I’ll take care of him.”

Tamayo could not help laughing when he looked at Yuri in surprise.

“Yuri Cash, your tendons just recovered. Do you want them broken again?” “You can try to break them!” Yuri replied coldly.

Chapter 308

Tamayo had been fretting over not having an excuse to beat Yuri up, but here was his chance.

“Haha, you’re asking for this!” Tamayo laughed and swung his fist at Yuri.

Yuri had a grim look on his face. He felt resentful, so there was no way he would back down now.

Their fists collided with a bam, and Yuri kept retreating as he felt Tamayo’s level – he was a mature energy fighter! Tamayo took a slight step back as well, widening his eyes at Yuri’s inner energy strength.

In terms of level, Yuri was only a beginner at the energy stage. Back then, he had been called a prodigy and had hoped to turn into a master-level practitioner at the age of 30. Big names in Metrocity had paid attention to him as well.

It seemed that the rumor was true. That was why Aquilo had broken his tendons! With that thought in mind, Tamayo’s eyes turned menacing. He was going to break Yuri’s tendons again today and make sure there was no possibility of him recovering.

Yuri shook his fist and yelled, “Late stage of inner energy? That’s all you are! Come on!”

Tamayo snarled, “Watch your words!”

Both of them attacked each other again, fists colliding loudly with fluttering momentum.

Jim looked grim. “Yuri might not be able to fight him. Tamayo’s at the late stage of inner energy after all.”

Buddie and Diesel looked worried as well.

Kayson commented faintly, "Don't worry. Yuri won't lose."

"How do you know?" Jim asked in surprise.

Kayson answered, "Tamayo is a mature energy fighter, but his inner energy isn't strong. He's probably mediocre talent-wise.

"His inner energy is like a shell. The strength is barely there, and he lacks experience in actual fights.

"Yuri is different. His strength is solid, and he was fighting before he was injured.

"Since their strength doesn't differ too much, it will all depend on their experience and endurance."

"But it's been years since Yuri fought..." Jim said.

Kayson smiled. "But he's been frequently training with a master level fighter since he healed to recover his fighting senses."

Jim and the others were astonished. "For real?"

"Just watch." Kayson looked confident.

Jim, Buddie, and Diesel kept their eyes trained on the pair of men who were fighting.

There was actually one more thing that Kayson had not mentioned: The partial potency of the Chalcedony Juice within Yuri had yet to be digested. The last bit of the herb's potency would slowly dissolve within him following the fight that he was heatedly engaged in.

Pow!

The more Yuri fought, the fiercer he grew. It seemed as though he did not feel fatigue. When he found an opening, he punched his opponent's face directly.

"Argh!"

Tamayo flew backward, hitting the wall, and the cracking sound of bones breaking was heard.

Yuri panted and looked at his own fist in shock. Since when had he become so powerful?

As Tamayo got up, he growled menacingly, "Impossible ! How could a beginner at the energy stage like you defeat me? You must've played a dirty trick!"

Yuri spat, "Do I have to when you are my target? You're overestimating yourself! You lost. Now, piss off!"

Tamayo's gaze was vicious as he kept his eyes on Yuri. Suddenly, he flicked his palm and something black shot out toward Yuri.

Kayson narrowed his eyes and sent a silver needle to pierce the inky item.

Alarmed, Yuri looked at the black pill on the floor and asked angrily, "What is this?!"

Chapter 309

Kayson went over and picked the pill up with the needle to study it

"Dis Eras

Kayson looked at Tamaya, who paled and explained, "This is a poisonous pill that could dissolve a practitioner's inner energy and destroy their tendons."

Yuri, Lim, and the others were astounded. That was one vicious pill! "If you lose your prowess because of this, you'll hardly be able to gather inner energy again. Even if I reconnect your tendons for you using Chalcedony Juice Yuri felt chills running on his spine as Deliynd Lear struck him. He gritted his teeth and snarled furiously. "Tamayo, you're brutal!

Tamayo cried out, "Bullshit! How dare you accuse me! I pride myself in being upright and open, so how could I possibly give something like this?"

"Yuri, you're framing me and accusing me wrongfully! Just you wait, my brother will seek justice for me!"

Yuri was so angry that he huffed, letting out a laugh. "This f*cker was crying about being wronged?"

Tamayo looked at Kayson with dark eyes. "And you! How dare you use the name of a practitioner, right? My brother was the one to capture you for kidnapping me!"

Kayson frowned

Then, the man who had argued with him earlier suddenly lifted his phone before everyone. The Ruy, who was Trevis Linwood, spoke, "Nobody is calling Captain Stone!

Yuri looked appalled by the news, but the call was soon over.

"Hello!" The moment Tamayo heard his brother's voice, he shouted, "Aquila, save me! Yuri is trying to ruin me and frame me!" Aquila's steely voice came from the cell phone,

"Yuri, let my brother go, or I'll make sure the Cashes disappear from the face of this world!" Yuri was furious. "Aquila, you can't even tell who's right or wrong. Tamayo provoked me first, tried to fill me with some Dis Eras!"

Aquila replied coldly, "My brother would never resort to such an approach. Yuri, do you know what kind of crime it is to harm him?"

Yuri was about to erupt from anger. This had happened in public, so he could become the innocent person.

Yuri said lightly, "Admiral Pogum's vice captain Aquila Stone

Yuri said, "Who's this?" Aquila answered,

"Come to the Sirens Hotel's Room 303 within three hours or get ready to collect your brother's corpse," Kayson said. Aquila's tone was enraged and icy. "You wouldn't dare." "You can try me," Kayson replied breezily before hanging up directly. Trevis looked at Kayson in a stupor and gasped. How dare you provoke Admiralporium's vice captain? You're doomed! You're done for!"

Tamayo laughed as well. "Yuri Cash, is something wrong with your friend's head? My brother will definitely avenge me when he sees my state! "All of you can forget about escaping then!"

Yuri's heart was heavy as he told Diesel and the others, "Leave first. What happened tonight's got nothing to do with you guys." Diesel, Buddie, and Jim widened their eyes, and Jim snapped first. "Yuri, what the f*ck are you talking about? I'm refusing to believe that Aquilo would dare twist the truth!" Diesel said with just as much determination, "We're not leaving. We come and go together tonight! Let's see if the vice-captain of Admiralporium is so powerful!" Yuri was beyond moved as he nagged them with a chuckle. "Stop acting like silly kids!" "Kayson, I'm sorry..." Yuri apologized to Kayson, surprising the latter. "Why are you apologizing? You're not in the wrong here." "No, I'm apologizing for letting you get dragged into something so upsetting..." Kayson waved in dismissal. "We're friends. That's nothing worth mentioning." Rowena comforted him as well. "Don't worry, Yuri. With Kayson here, some vice-captain of Admiralporium is nothing."

Yuni, who heard her, could not help chuckling wryly. How would Rowena know what sort of authority the Admiralporium's vice-captain held? Meanwhile, in the director's office in Northspring General Hospital....

Chapter 310

Campian was using the place as a temporary office. He had asked Naomi to do a full-body checkon Hendery, and the result that came in shocked the pharmacist.

Hendery, who had been on the brink of death yesterday, had recovered 70-80% today!

It was a... miracle. How had he done it?

"What did he use on you?" Naomi asked.

Hendery scratched his head and answered anxiously, "I think it's called, uh_ Chalcedony Juice?"

Campian and Naomi both looked shocked as he crushed the glass in his hand "F*ck!" Even Campian could not help cursing. Treating Hendery with Chalcedony Juice_ would cast at least $15,000,000!

Naomi gasped "Chalcedony Juice. Are you aware of its value?"

"Its market price is on average $15,000,000 but most recently, someone spent $75,000,000 to get one drop of it!" Hendery was dumbstruck upon hearing that "1-1 didn't know it was so precious." Campian sighed. "Mr. Yarde's... really amazing!"

At that moment, Willow came in with some documents, grumbling, "Captain! The vice captain of the Tenth Division, Aquilo Stone, has come to Northspring out of the blue!"

Campian asked with a frown, "Why is he here? Isn't he on a mission in Greenspring?"

"Not sure. I think his brother got beaten up." Willow replied As they spoke, Campian's phone on the table rang. It was Shien calling "Shien, what's up?" Campian asked when he picked up Shien was heard answering, "Aquilo's here to settle the score with Mr Yarde" Campian, who was taken aback, asked what had happened, replying right away afterward. – What’s the meaning of this attitude?” Shien answered flatly. “Mr. Yarde saved my life. Forget about Aquilo I’ll even stop Dylan if he goes after him.”

“What?”

Dylan Cook was the captain of the tenth division Campian clicked his tongue. “So this is the day that you, Shien Cooke, will finally pander to others. huh?”

Shien ignored him

Finding it boring, Campian said, “I’ll go to the Sirens’ Hotel right now”

In Room Therde . Kayson felt nothing as he sat, eating quietly

Suddenly, he felt someone’s strong presence and smirked.

As expected, someone appeared at the door a while later. He had the same big nose, but his gaze was much colder II Was Tamayo’s big brother, Aquilo.

“Aquilo!”

Tamayo leared up at once as if he had been wronged.

Aquilo nodded and scanned the room, asking in a grunt, “Where is the fool who said that he wanted my brother’s life?”

“It’s me.” Kayson answered, dropping his cutlery. A hint of murderous intent tinged Aquilo’s eyes as he looked at Kayson. He asked impassively, “Have you thought of how you want to die?”

Kayson asked indifferently. “As the vice-captain of Admiralporium, Captain Stone will come for my life straight away without asking who’s right or wrong, or even what happened. Does This seem like you’re following the rules?”

Aquilo snorted. “What will you do if i insist on killing you?” Rules? He, Aquilo Stone, made the rules!
