

MY FGB 491

Chapter 491

Violet and Talia were both furious. The price was obviously too much!

Kayson thought about it and agreed. "Okay."

Luca narrowed his eyes. "I wasn't finished. It's $15,000,000 per month!"

"You might as well rob someone!" Violet cried out in a fury, unable to take it.

Luca scoffed. "Too expensive for you? Don't rent it then!"

"Luca!" Alan admonished him in disgruntlement. "Uncle Alan, don't yell at me. You don't scare me." Luca was disdainful. Alan looked embarrassed. It was kind of awkward that he was Luca's elder but the latter treated him this way. Kayson frowned and asked, "Who taught you?" Luca was alarmed but he masked it well. "Taught me what? I call the shots when it comes to the land I own!" "That's my plot of land!" Alan, who was furious, told Kayson through gritted teeth, "I'll sell it to you for $15,000!" Luca pulled a retractable stick from his back and pointed it at Alan instantly. "Try selling it, Uncle Alan. Try me!"

People who had lived their whole lives in town cared about their pride and honor the most. No one wanted to become a laughing stock for other people to gossip about. Alan, who felt embarrassed, was burning with rage. "Try hitting me if you dare!"

"F*ck you, you think I won't do it?"

Luca looked threatening and was about to hit Alan when a Volkswagen sedan came to a stop before them.

It was Thomas, and the man shouted the moment he saw what was happening, "Stop it!"

Luca turned to see Thomas, shuddering when he noted the latter's scowl, and greeted him obsequiously. "C-Captain Beverly..." Slap!

11

Thomas clapped a hand on Luca's head. "You want to go back inside? Is that so?" "No, Captain Beverly..." Luca replied sheepishly. "Disiniss your men and get lost!" Luca refused hastily. "No way, Captain Beverly. These people are trying to con my Uncle Alan!" "You think I'm a good-for-nothing? Who would dare deceive your uncle wilen I'm here?" Thoinas fumed.

"He would!" Luca pointed it Kayson.

Thomas snorted and patted Luca's face. "Luca, do you know what Jairo calls him?"

Luca widened his eyes. Jairo-Don Jairo! "Jairo has to bow down and be good before Mr. Yarde. Think Jairo will come for you personally tomorrow if he finds out how you've treated Mr. Yarde?" Luca was fearful. "Captain Beveriy, it's n-not funny..." "Do I look like I'm joking?" Thomas asked flatly. He ignored Luca and went over to Kayson, greeting him formally. "Mr. Yarde, sorry to keep you waiting!"

Kayson gave him a faint nod. "Nonsense. I want to rent a plot of agricultural land here, but Luca here's been stopping me. I think there's some unspoken secret involved." "Huh? Luca, you don't have a dead body buried in there, do you?" Thomas asked in alarm. Luca widened his eyes. "No way! Captain Beverly, don't make things up!" "Then why have you been stopping him?" Thomas demanded. "I..." Luca quivered and said, "Someone's asked me to keep an eye on that piece of land! I don't know what is up with it either!"

"Who is it?" Kayson asked. Luca dared not hide a thing. "He said that he's, uh, the secretary of Breezy Group's chairman and he paid me $1,500,000 to keep an eye out..."

Chapter 492

Thomas was bummed. Breezy Group? Why was the top company in Greenspring involved in this... This exceeded the scope of his authority! Violet and Talia were shocked as well. That vacant plot of land was actually related to Breezy Group? Kayson was not making it up then? This plot of land was actually unique and valuable? Alan was similarly taken aback but he was enraged when he heard that Luca had accepted $ 1,500,000 from someone. "$1,500,000? Luca Quirk, you rascal! I was wondering why you've been breathing down my neck, and it's because you've taken money from someone else!" Although everyone in town was living comfortably thanks to Violet's father, $1,500,000 was still a huge sum to them. Kayson was deep in thought. Breezy Group... Did Hansel know about the energy-charged land? If he had known about the value of the treasure plot, though, he could have just bought it from Alan directly. Why would he have paid someone to keep an eye on it? Kayson smiled. "I'll pay you $3,000,000 for the plot of land, Alan." Alan was overjoyed but he waved his hand quickly upon glancing at Violet on the side. "Not that much!"

"Just accept the offer, Alan," Violet said. It was only then that Alan stopped refusing, realizing that he would not have to plant tea anymore in his life with that amount of money. Luca asked anxiously, "Uh... Mr. Yarde, do you really know Don Jairo?" Kayson nodded. "Should I call him in front of you?" Luca was terrified. Everyone knew about Jairo's reputation in Greenspring. Who would dare provoke him?

Kayson mulled over the matter and said, "Don't disclose what happened today yet and there'll be no need to inform the people of Breezy Group. "If word gets out accidentally... I'll ask Jairo to treat you nicely."

Luca reassured him in a haste. "Nothing will leave my lips! Don't tell Don Jairo anything!" Kayson and the girls went through some details with Alan before they returned to the Quirks' place.

Elise called for Kayson once they stepped through the door, as he had healed her from the pain. Her eyes brimmed with fondness as she pulled Kayson to sit down and asked, "Kayson, IKIM! you gotten a girlfriend yet?"

"Not yet." Kayson answered, feeling, slightly surprised.

Elise grew more gleeful. "Look at my granddaughter. What do you think of her? She's a good girl. Sensible and nice since she was little. You'll like her for sure."

Violet panicked and interrupted Elise. "Grandma! What are you talking about! I just met Kayson two days ago!" "So what?" Elise asked. "Don't you young people have this thing called... flash marriage?"

Violet, who was flustered, pulled Elise into the nearest room. Talia grunted, "Yarde, I forbid anything to happen between you and Violet. She's my best friend!"

"While I'm not interested, what would it have to do with you if I did want something to happen between her and me?" Kayson retorted indifferently. Talia widened her eyes. "The audacity! Violet wouldn't like you!"

Kayson did not want to argue with her, and Jaden and Luna came out at that moment. Jaden told him servilely, "Mr. Yarde, I've been watching the medicine. There's been no mistake on my part."

Kayson went in and turned off the stove. "Alright, pour it down and have Madam Snyder drink it after it cools down a bit." "Sure thing!" Jaden got to work, and Violet came back to sit with Elise in the living room. Elise stopped playing matchmaker, but Violet still felt embarrassed about it, so she did not quite dare meet Kayson's eyes. When it was about time, Elise and Violet went to prepare a meal while Thomas went over to Kayson.

Chapter 493

Thomas was a little fidgety. "Mr. Yarde..." "What's up with Jay Lynch? Just tell me what happened," Kayson said. Thomas sighed and recounted the matter honestly.

Beyond Construction was a subsidiary of Breezy Group. Given what had happened to Jay, his father, Zion, naturally went to Breezy Group for help.

Thomas' superior, Cameron Oberden, received a call from Hansel and asked Thomas to release the man soon afterward.

Kayson scrunched his brows upon hearing that. What Thomas said after that made him feel quite impressed with Cameron.

Cameron was a strong-willed person. He knew that Breezy Group had powerful support and was influential but he was not scared. Since he had just been promoted to his position, he had even dared fight back any calls to release a subject. He was truly fearless and unaffected by his wife and child's safety. Once, there had been a hit and run caused by a drunken rich heir. Cameron had gotten the surveillance records and captured the man. Even though Hansel had asked him to release the rich heir, he had not agreed to it.

The next day, his five-year-old son had a broken leg. Cameron was wrathful and he had just taken it when his wife had lashed out at him. After that, his wife had been abducted and assaulted by over ten men in headgear. That was the last straw for him before he had given in.

From then on, it seemed as if the brave hero had been thoroughly defeated, as he had never gotten back up.

Kayson was impressed but asked in confusion, "Didn't you mention that Admiralporium is watching?"

"I did, but Captain Oberden said that it's useless. The Admiralporium captain won't be able to overpower them."

Admiralporium would be of no use? Chadwick had not mentioned this.

Was it because the tenth division had intervened and failed and Cameron had given up struggling entirely?

Thomas gritted his teeth. "Mr. Yarde, I talked to Captain Cloude, and he said that they won't be able to do much. It's all depending on you now."

"You mean you want me to step up for you guys?" Kayson asked.

Thomas gave a vehement nod from Thomas. "Yes! Mr. Yarde, I've worked with Captain Oberden for years. He's someone I admire and respect a lot. "I don't want to see him lose his will and spirit just like that!"

Kayson suddenly revealed his status as Admiralporium's special task force agent, status given to him by Chase. That was probably not just for him to investigate. It was about the missing Kilikiatic word source (has he hurried to know what had happened here in Gremispring with Wril

"Sure, come to me if there's any trouble."

Kayson agreed to the request and asked, "And you said that Captain Oberden's child's leg was broken, right?"

"I'm really impressed by him. Please be the mediator when you return. I'll treat his son."

Thomas perked up and exclaimed in joy, "For sure! Let me thank you on behalf of Captain Oberden first, Mr. Yarde!"

"It's not a big deal." Kayson smiled.

Shortly after that, the meal was prepared, and Talia asked both men to head over to the dining table.

Luna spoke up nervously while they were eating, "Mr. Yarde, I... Let me propose a toast to you. I was rude and arrogant earlier. Please forgive me!"

Luna had already found out about Kayson's intimidating feat in Northspring through Tanner and she currently wanted nothing more than to just run into a wall. Who would expect such an impressive person to be in a small town like this?

Chapter 494

Kayson told her, "Stop acting so spoiled and arrogant in the future, or it'll come back to bite you sooner or later."

Luna breathed in relief. She knew that Kayson meant to put this in the past, so she emptied the drink right away.

"Thank you, Mr. Yarde! I wouldn't dare behave like that anymore!"

After the grudge was resolved among the people present at the table, the meal went on happily. Luna was extremely nice to Elise and even called her grandma here and there. Elise did not treat her any differently either, as she had asked Tanner to come after all. Jaden looked at Kayson gratefully. He could obviously feel the difference in Luna's attitude toward him.

Luna came from a much better family compared to him and was usually acting like a spoiled heiress even around him.

Kayson went to the energy-charged land alone after the meal and meditated there. He was at the pre-celestial level right now and could find a chance to get to the Smasher level. However, since he had managed to find his dark soul now, he had a bigger ambition. He wanted to find his light soul and balance both the dark and light energy. Once he did that, he would ascend to the Smasher level! "The light soul energy isn't easy to seek..." Kayson was a little troubled. He had time, though, so he could look for it slowly. If that was really undoable, it was not like he could not go into the Smashed level with his dark soul.

After a moment of meditation, Kayson went back to the house, where Violet was preparing a foot soak for Elise.

"You went to the vacant plot?" Violet asked.

Kayson nodded. "Madam Snyder, do you feel better?" "Yes, absolutely. Kayson, you're really good. Who taught you that?"

"My mentor."

"Invite your mentor for a visit if there's a chance. He must be impressive to have trained a wonderful kid like you."

Violet feigned anger. "Grandma, here you go again!" Elise chuckled. "Could I not be impatient? I'm already so old. I just want to have a great grandchild soon"

"Madamu Snyder, you're still as healthy as a horse," Kayson said,

Allur Elise wrotupstairs to bed, Violet told him, "Old people are always like that Don't mind what stor sand."

Karysonnodded "Tran understand Thir wunnen jul our village drithe Sullie They're always oliering to find 118, wifr."

Violet was amused.

Both of them went to bed as it got later. They woke up early the next morning and went back to the city after bidding Elise farewell.

Violet kept her eyes on Kayson as she told him, "Kayson, let me buy you a meal sometime to thank you for healing my grandma."

"That was no trouble." Kayson smiled.

Jaden and Luna did not follow them, but Tanner was reluctant to leave. Shameless as he was, he went up to Kayson with a polite smile and asked, "Mr. Yarde, would you mind having an assistant?" The idea he had was simple. Kayson's medical techniques were miraculous. If he could learn even the slightest bit from him, he would definitely improve. Who would want to watch an opportunity like this slip by? "You don't think it's shameful for your status?" Kayson asked. Tanner answered seriously, "Teachers are always the best. Pride, status, and other things are secondary!" "It's up to you then, but I won't specifically teach you anything."

Kayson knew what Tanner was planning, but the latter had not done anything bad, so he did not mind it. It would be nice if they built a good relationship out of it.

"Go back first. I have something to take care of with Mr. Beverly." Talia pursed her lips. "As if everyone wants to go after you. See you!"

Chapter 495

Kayson smiled and asked Thomas to drive. He went to retrieve two tonic herbs before going to Cameron's place. Cameron, who had received a call from Thomas, did not go to work and waited at home. "Captain Oberden!" Thomas greeted him reverently the moment he entered. Kayson was greeted by a middle-aged man with a crew cut in a white short-sleeved t-shirt. He was more on the tanner side and he had a square face, giving off a virtuous and righteous vibe. Cameron's smile revealed his exhaustion as he greeted them. "Welcome, welcome! It's just a humble place. Don't mind it."

As the three of them took a seat, Thomas introduced them and got them acquainted.

"You're Admiralporium's special task force agent?"

Cameron studied Kayson in surprise. "Someone who was able to become a special task force agent must have more abilities than others. Thomas mentioned that you can treat my son's leg. Is it true, Mr. Yarde?"

"Do you know anything about tonic herbs, Cameron?" Kayson asked. Cameron widened his eyes and winced. "Of course I do. It's just that... How could I afford something like this?"

"I have some and I've brought them here," Kayson said with a smile as he opened the two wooden boxes beside him,

Cameron was alarmed. "Mr. Yarde, I can't accept this..." Kayson said seriously, "I have a lot of respect for you. Please don't turn me down!" "But..." Thomas spoke up. "Captain Oberden, you don't have to be so courteous with Mr. Yarde! This is to save the child!" Cameron's gaze was emotional as he looked at Kayson gratefully. "How should I repay you, Mr. Yarde?"

"Just find out the whereabouts of Skyspring's Killick father-and-son pair for me."

"Alright!"

An average looking woman who was dressed plainly carried a five-year-old child with large dor like eyes out of the bedroom. She looked impassive as she ignored everyone else in the HOUSE

("reron asked angrily, "Don't you see that we have guests?"

The womui turned around and scapped, "What does it have to do with us? Aren't you all ..

of luwls who want to becoin lueToes?"

anco 2.

5

m

, while Thonourrun Jarily. "It's Dolly like that, Mrs Oberden..."

"Mrs Mutilan, I'm serious h uld's law." Kayson said.

The woman's frown was locked in place. "My child's leg is already broken, and the hospital can't do a thing about it, yet you can heal it? Who are you trying to fool?"

She was about to leave with the child.

However, Kayson spoke up weakly. "I have tonic herbs that could let the child stand up again like a regular person." The woman paused and turned back to look at Kayson. "Don't lie to me, or I'll make Cameron capture you."

"I think Thomas here would kill me first if I dared to do that," Kayson offered with a smile. That made the woman's expression ease up, and she placed her child on the couch. When Kayson went over, the boy looked at him curiously. "Mister, are you a hero too?" "Me? I'm no hero," Kayson answered with a smile. The boy's eyes glowed as he claimed proudly, "Then my dad's better. My dad's a hero!" Cameron stilled on the side and felt his eyes getting wet. Kayson took out the tonic and said, "Your dad's a hero, so you should be a hero too. You can't cry when it hurts later, okay?"

"I won't!" the boy promised loudly even though his gaze was tinged with slight panic. As Kayson dripped the juice of the tonic on the boy's leg, he wailed almost at the same time,

Chapter 496

Cameron's son was crying throughout the whole ten minutes while Kayson was treating him. However, Kayson was able to complete the treatment in the end. After two days of rest, Cameron's son had returned to normal.

His wife was a little bit anxious as she asked, "Will he be fine now?" "Yeah, he'll be fine. He can walk for a few steps right now, but he still needs to rest for two days with herbs." The little boy had stopped crying while Kayson was speaking. He said, "Mommy, It doesn't hurt anymore, and I'm not crying."

The rest of the people couldn't help themselves but chuckle at his attempt to save his reputation with snot all over his face.

Cameron was filled with exhilaration as he said, "Nolly, try to stand up!"

Nolly was his son's nickname.

Nolly came down from the couch and stood straight. When both of them saw that their son could stand on his feet again, they broke into tears of joy.

"Thank you so much, Mr. Yarde!" Cameron's wife was so happy that there were tears in her eyes.

Kayson replied, "Don't mention it."

It seemed to them that they had their first child when they were about 40 years old. They were rather old when their son reached five years old, so he surmised that they adored Nolly a lot. "Thank you for your help, Mr. Yarde! I don't know how to repay you for your great kindness!" Cameron said with gratitude.

"You should've thanked Lieutenant Beverly instead. If he hadn't told me the things you did, I wouldn't have been touched by it and come to you. You don't have to pay me anything back in return."

"Those things were what I should do..." After that, Kayson told him the things he needed.

Cameron said sternly, "You want to get rid of the Breezy Group? Mr. Yarde, I'll be honest with you. It won't be easy, and many things will be affected. You might put you and your family in danger as well..."

Cameron's wife complained, "Are you serious? We've just gotten ourselves out of a frying pan, and how you want to jump into a fire again?" Cameron did not know what to do either. Kayson looked at his wife and said, "I can ask for help from the Adunaporium and have them protect you and your son's safety"

(Unrated the power, but he needed more than that if he wanted to command the Adiniralocorum

Cameron's wife was Julene London. She still listed Kayson with respect as she said, "I'm on line with anything. I just want my son to be safe." After that, she paused for a moment before saying, "I won't stop Cameron from doing what he wants to do. However, he has to promise that he can keep his son safe."

"I'll ask for captain-level members of the Admiralporium to protect you and your son." If he could get help from Cameron, it would be easier for him to investigate the Killicks' whereabouts in Greenspring. Julene was shocked. It went without saying that she knew what kind of people the captain level members of the Admiralporium were. "How is there any possibility that people like them will come and protect us..." Cameron said, "Mr. Yarde can command Admiralporium captains. His position is higher than most of the captains."

Julene was stunned again, and this time she did not have any questions anymore. Cameron's eyes were filled with excitement. It seemed as if he had gotten his vigor back. "Mr. Yarde, I suggest you contact Mr. Levit. He's the mayor of Greenspring, and he has been having a lot of problems with the Breezy Group as well." Kayson was stunned. He smiled, pulled his phone out, and called Holden in front of Cameron. Holden chuckled and said, "Hey, Kace! What's up?" Both Cameron and Thomas were stunned when they heard Holden's voice. Kayson asked, "Uncle Holden, do you think it's okay if I go ahead and investigate the Breezy Group?"

Holden fell silent for a moment before saying in a stern voice, "Kace, you mustn't act rashly. The Breezy Group is massive and" "I know. I have done the same thing before in Clouspring."

Chapter 497

This time, it was Holden who was taken aback. His voice was filled with surprise as he said, "Are you saying that... You're the one who helped Xander annex the Jospring Group?" Kayson did not deny it. This time, even Holden's voice was filled with exhilaration as he said, "Alright, then! Kace, if you can take down the Breezy Group without causing any big troubles, I'll help you with everything you need!" Kayson did not have anything to worry about anymore since Holden had assured him. "I'll talk to Captain Oberden then."

Holden was stunned. "Captain Oberden?" Cameron hastily chimed in and said something. Holden sighed and said, "It's great that you can stand back on your feet again, Cameron. At least Greenspring has gotten one of its heroes back. Alright, make sure you do everything Kayson says. I'll be looking forward to your performance!" After Kayson hung up the call, Cameron asked incredulously, "Mr. Yarde, you and Mr. Levit..." "I saved his wife," replied Kayson. Cameron took a sharp breath and admired Kayson even more. Julene intended to keep Kayson and the others for dinner as a sign of gratitude for their help, but then Tanner's phone rang out. Tanner pulled his phone out, and his expression changed slightly. He hesitated for a moment but answered the call in the end.

With an exasperated voice, he asked, "What is it, Edward?"

Edward was coughing heavily, and his voice was hoarse. "Tanner, my disciple is injured. Please help us..."

Tanner was furious when he heard what Edward said. Back then, when he and Zephyr had looked for Edward to get rid of Kayson, Edward thought they had set him up after failing their task.

As such, Edward had beat him up after Kayson left, and this was something that he would never forget.

"Hmph! How dare you come and ask for my help again, Edward? Have you forgotten how you beat me up and what you told me when we were at the Roselle Lodge that time?" Edward lowered himself and begged him. "This is all my fault, Tanner. You can do whatever you want to me as long as you can save my disciple."

Tanner said exasperatingly, "Sure. Get $7,500,000 ready, and I'll save your disciple!"

Edward agreed without any hesitation. "Okay. Please hurry. I'll prepare the ticket for you..."

"That's not necessary. I'm in Greenspring right now. I'll be at the Garland Gym very soon." After listening to their conversation, Kayson asked, "Is hie that Master Garland you and Zephyr hired to get rid of me that time?" Tanner felt a little bit embarrassed as he said, "Yeah. It's him." Kayson nodded. He had long forgiven them, so he said, "I'll go with you." Tanner was overjoyed. It went without saying that he welcomed Kayson's help! "Uncle Cameron, I'll be going first. I'll come and pay you a visit another day." "Sure! You're always welcome to come to my house," said Cameron. They were going to save someone's life, so he was not going to keep them here. Thomas stayed behind while Tanner brought Kayson to the Garland Gym in his car. While they were on their way there, Kayson received a call from Cody. Cody sounded nervous as he said, "Kayson, where are you? I need your help! This is urgent!" Kayson said, "Yeah? Tell me where you are now, and I'll head there right away." Cody hastily said, "My brother Parker was injured by someone, and the people over there said his tendons are all severed. All the doctors said there's nothing they could do, and since Talia said you're very good in medicine, I figure that you may be able to help."

IC

Kayson frowned

'His tendons are all severed? Unless there is a deep grudge between them, fighters nowadays will rarely do something like that to their opponent.' Kayson asked, "Where is your brother?" Cody replied, "He's at the Garland Gym. He practices fighting skills there!"

Kayson was momentarily stunned before saying, "I'm heading toward the Garland Gym right now Don't worry, I'll try my best to save your brother." Corly the tears of joy as he said, "Thank you very much, Kayson. I'll leave my brother in your hands I'm now heading there too."

Kity's smiled lamely "Don't mention it. I'll meet you at the Garland Gym."

Chapter 498

It was a mess in the Garland Gym.

Everyone was injured, including Edward.

However, there was one person who was seriously injured. The injuries he sustained were even more severe than Edward's, and Edward was now protecting him. The most seriously injured person was Parker, Cody's younger brother. Edward said calmly, "I have never had any conflict with Cloudia Paragon before, so why are you doing this to us today?"

A man in his mid-20s wearing a beige uniform was standing in front of Edward. He was a disciple of Cloudia Paragon. His name was Sam McConell. He had been a disciple of Cloudia Paragon for a very long time, and he had learned from many masters there. Cloudia Paragon was an ancient place in Skyriv. They had a long history, and there were a lot of legends about them. Even today, the true strength of Cloudia Paragon remained a mystery.

Someone said that the master of Cloudia Paragon was a powerful being who could crush a grandmaster with ease.

Some of them also said that there was a group of fighters in Cloudia Paragon known as the Elite Eight, and each of them was as strong as a grandmaster.

Sam was one of the most powerful fighters Edward had ever seen, but he had never heard of him before.

Sam said faintly, "I have been practicing fighting skills in Cloudia Paragon for a very long time. I heard that the Garland Gym is the strongest gym in Greenspring, so I came here hoping to have a sparring match with you. It's just that I didn't expect all of you to be nothing but a bunch of useless pieces of trash who cannot even put up a decent fight. This is such a disappointment "You bunch of people are a disgrace to the fighters in Greenspring. I suggest you all cease operating at once. If not, I'll come and crush you all every time I see your door is open!" Edward was seriously injured as well and nearly spat a mouthful of blood when he heard what Sam said. "How dare you belittle us!?" Sam raised his head and said in a haughty manner. "Strong people like me only talk with their fists. While weak people like you can only bark like a dog!" Edward was heartbroken. Parker was his favorite disciple. He was young, but he was already an accomplished outer energy fighter. He could amass inner energy at any time and became an inner energy fighter. But now, none of that would happen anymore since Sam had severed all of his tendons. Even though he had asked for help from Tanner, he knew the chance of saving Parker was slim.

He did not expect that Sam would be so ruthless and do something to Parker as well.

Sam looked at them condescendingly before turning around to leave. He had severed Parker's tendons. No one could save him now.

Of course, to be on the safe side, he did not leave instantly. Instead, he hid in a dark corner and watched if Edward had any tricks up his sleeves. When Kayson and Tanner arrived at the Garland Gym, they saw all of the disciples lying haphazardly on the floor, writhing in pain.

Kayson was shocked. It seemed to him that a great fight had just happened there not long ago. When Edward saw Tanner, his eyes glowed up. However, when Kayson appeared in his vision, he was stunned.

"Master Yarde!" Edward looked at Kayson in disbelief. Kayson nodded. "We've met again, Master Garland." Edward wanted to offer Kayson a bow, but he fell back to the floor as soon as he stood up. "Just stay put, Master Garland." Kayson shook his head. He walked a step forward and asked, "Who is Parker?" Edward hurriedly pulled out the unconscious Parker. "Master Yarde, he's Parker!"

Edward then said heartbrokenly, "Parker is a promising young man. He's my favorite fighter, but that d*mned Sam severed all his tendons!" "What!?" Tanner was shocked. "There's nothing I can do about it if his tendons are severed." Edward's heart sank. However, he refused to give up hope as he pleaded, "Please, Tanner. You've got to help him. I can pay you as much money as you want." Tanner shook his head. "It's not about money. I can't do anything at all, but Mr. Yarde might know how to save him."

Edward was taken aback and hastily said, "You're versed in medicine too, Master Yarde?" Kayson walked toward to check on Parker's condition and said, "Tanner, I'll tell you some herbs. You go to the drugstore and get them for me." "Okay!" Tanner noted down the herbs that Kayson needed and headed to the drugstore.

Chapter 499

"Master Garland, can you get me a big bathtub? Remember to fill half of it with water." Edward hurriedly went to do Kayson's bidding. In the meantime, Kayson went around and treated the other disciples. Even though all of them were seriously injured, their conditions were not as severe as Parker's. The person who came to crush them had given Parker a "special service." He had left a powerful strand of energy inside Parker that damaged all of his organs. Roughly ten minutes later, Cody arrived, and his eyes turned bloodshot when he saw Parker. "Kayson, how is my brother doing?" Cody asked worriedly. His eyes were turning red around the rims.

"Don't worry. I can heal him. Right now, I need your help. Get all of the disciples and lay them in a supine position in a row."

"Okay!"

Both of them went around the gym, and they soon treated all of the disciple's injuries.

Tanner returned, so Kayson began preparing the medicated bath. After that, he put Parker into the bathtub and used the Chalcedony Juice on him.

After about one hour, Parker finally came around to his senses. "Brother..." The first person that Parker saw was Cody. "Parky! You're finally awake!" Cody shouted out in joy and hurriedly went out to get Kayson. Kayson came in to check on Parker's condition. After that, he took the silver needles on his body away and smiled. "Alright. All done." Edward came into the room as well. He was very grateful to Kayson after saving his disciple.

He dropped to his knees and said, "Master Yarde, thank you for saving my disciple's life!" Parker was startled, and just when he was about to drop to his knees, Kayson stopped him. At the same time, he picked Edward up from the floor. Kayson said, "Parker's brother is my friend, so it's only right for me to save him." Cody giggled and said, "Parky, come and meet Kayson! Since I'm your brother, Kayson will be your eldest brother. You got me?" "Okay!" Parker replied seriously, "Pleasure to meet you, Kayson. I'm Parker Yount, Cody's youngest brother." Kayson was rendered speechless and smacked Cody's back. "Stop talking nonsense!"

The crisis of the gym was temporarily lifted, and the disciples in the hall started waking up one after another

Edward heaved a sigh of relief when he saw all of his disciples were fine. Kayson) ask, "Who is the one that injured Parker? He seemed to be targeting Parker on purpose." He wouldn't have fallen unconscious if his tendons were severed. However, if his organs were damaged and his energy was depleted, he might not be able to wake up anymore. Parker said, "That man called himself Sam McConell. He's from Cloudia Paragon, and although he's young, he's already a peak-stage energy fighter." "Cloudia Paragon?"

Kayson was stunned. Cloudia Paragon hadn't made any move after he killed Master Oclave. Cody asked in surprise, "Parky, did you offend someone from Cloudia Paragon?" Parker said with a pout, "How is it possible? The only place I've been to other than our house is the Garland Gym. I have never gotten into a conflict with anyone before."

"This is strange."

Cody found it strange. Honestly, he knew his younger brother very well. He wouldn't actively get into a conflict with anyone, and his temper was better than his.

Kayson expanded his senses and noticed Sam was hiding in the dark corner outside the gym.

"Parker, go out of the gym, look around, and then come back in."

Even though Parker did not know what Kayson was doing, he still did as he was told.

After a short while, a figure landed on the ground with a thud and appeared in front of the entrance.

Sam's gaze was cold as he growled, "Who the hell healed Parker? Come on out now and accept your death!"

Chapter 500

Edward's eyes were filled with hatred when he saw Sam. "How dare you show up here again!?"

He did not need to be afraid of him anymore since Kayson was here.

The other disciples of the gym stared at Sam angrily as well.

Sam smirked. "Why not? All of you are nothing but trash, and there isn't anyone here who can stop me."

However, he did not care about Edward and his disciples. The people he cared about were Kayson and his group, who came in after he left.

Sam raised his voice and shouted, "I'll repeat again! Who the hell saved Parker? Come on out now and accept your death!" Cody replied angrily, "So, you're the one who injured my brother? My brother hasn't done anything wrong to you, so how can you do something like that to him? If you don't give us an explanation, you're not walking out of the door today!" Sam glanced at him and scoffed. "You're his brother? Hmph! Very well, then! I'll send you to heaven together later!"

"Crippling your brother and making him unable to speak was mercy. But it now seems to me that it's safer to kill you all here."

Something flitted across Kayson's eyes. It seemed to him that Sam was really holding some kind of grudge against Parker. ; With a faint smile on his face, he held the angered Cody back and said, "I'm the one who saved him. What are you going to do to me?" Sam turned his head toward Kayson and squinted. An eerie smile broke across his face as he said, "Of course, I'm going to rip your head off your shoulders!"

As soon as he finished speaking, he dashed toward Kayson.

Edward could see nothing but his afterimages. However, he was slow in Kayson's eyes.

A hint of sarcasm appeared in Sam's eyes as Kayson stood firmly on the ground without making any move. It seemed to him that Kayson couldn't catch up to his speed at all.

'What a disappointment. Just when I thought he was someone who could bring me some fun.' Sam landed a powerful strike on Kayson, and an explosion sounded out. Everyone turned their heads toward them, and Edward, the strongest person here aside from Kayson, was stunned.

This was because Kayson did not budge at all. Sam was equally stunned. He said incredulously, "How is this possible!?"

This attack was able to kill a peak stage energy fighter. After all, this attack was known as the Bonne Cruslat's It was one of the strongest attacking moves in Cloudia Paragon.

However, it did not have any effect on the inau in front of him. It was like a stone that had fallen into a sea did not create a single ripple at all.

Kayson looked at him calmly and said, "This is a nice skill, and you'll be able to defeat most energy fighters with this skill alone."

Sam's expression changed as he felt a chill down his spine. 'This guy... He's strong!' Sam was about to get away from Kayson, but the latter's body trembled, and a wave of energy was transferred to Sam through the hand he had placed on Kayson's body. Sam felt a storm of energy spread through his arm to all parts of his body, and his whole body seemed to have been torn apart. "Pfft!"

As he spat out a mouthful of blood, he flew toward the back and rammed into the wall.

While he slowly slid down the wall, he said, his voice thick with fear, "You're a master?"

He fell unconscious after finishing his sentence.

All of the disciples in the gym looked at Kayson in shock. They couldn't believe that he was able to easily defeat the man who had crushed all of them just now. What's more, Kayson was about the same age as them, and they felt he was truly amazing. At that moment, all of the disciples looked at Kayson in admiration, and there was a manic glint in their eyes. Parker was also stunned as he said, "Brother, he... He's so strong! He's even stronger than my master!"

Cody was taken aback by Kayson's strength. He knew that Kayson was powerful from that night at Topsy Tonight. It was just that he did not expect him to be so powerful. However, he felt this was a good thing as well.

He wiped up a smug smile and said, "Of course. If not, why do you think I'd admire him so much?"

Kayson walked toward Sam and kicked him to wake him up.