

Noble Husband At the Door Chapter 134

Gina waited the window, watching Samuel as he left. Samuel's last words kept resembling in her mind.

With the hidden tool in his body, he was waiting on a possibility to move!

This suggested endurance, however Gina really felt a strong feeling of self-confidence from him.

It appeared that as long as he desired, he might do it.

He really did not do it since he didn't want to.

Was this confidence, or was it insolence?

Also the Hannigan household had never ever had such an imposing manner, so how could he have such self-confidence?

Did he depend on his little techniques behind the Hannigan family members's back?

Gina faintly stated to herself, "You assume also simply. The Hannigan household still has an impossible gap in between mountains and rivers. How can you do it?"

" If I hadn't defended a possibility for you, you would certainly have gone to jail for him, do you understand? I wish you won't let me down, or Grandmother Hennigan will certainly let you replace him."

" Both of you are my boys, yet my fairness is unworthy pointing out before Grandmother Hennigan."

" Do not let me down, or I'll personally damage you."

In terms of look, the twin brothers of the Hannigan family were virtually the same. It was impossible to identify them from outsiders' eyesight.

Therefore, as quickly as Han Jun's crash took place, Granny HenniganGrandma Hennigan thought of a concept to allow Samuel go to jail on Han Jun's behalf. If Gina hadn't attempted her ideal to persuade her to provide Samuel an opportunity, Grandmother Hennigan would certainly have gone to Cloud City personally.

Han Jun's name was Jun. From the minute he was birthed, he was predestined to have a higher status in the Hannigan household than Samuel.

When Samuel got home, He Ting had already prepared the recipes. Surprisingly, Lydia's household of three sat at the dinner table without moving their chopsticks, which was almost difficult in the past.

Lydia didn't strategy to wait on Samuel, yet Yvonne was so stubborn that she really did not allow them to consume, so she needed to compromise.

Why did you come back so late? Lydia stated impatiently.

Yvonne walked up to Samuel and asked in a soft voice, "Are you alright?"

"I'm fine." Samuel smiled and took a seat at the table.

He didn't see He Ting, so he asked Yvonne, "Where's Auntie He? Why didn't she pertain to dinner?"

"Samuel, do not go as well much. Lydia stated discontentedly.

Samuel disregarded to Lydia's attitude and strolled towards He Ting's room.

He walked to the door and heard He Ting's telephone call. She stammered and also said that she would certainly think of a way immediately. It seemed that her daughter had called her.

After He Ting hung up the phone, Samuel knocked on the door and also claimed, "Auntie He, it's time to eat."

He Ting opened the door and stated to Samuel, "No, many thanks. You can consume. There's no reason for the servant to eat at table."

I can give you some cash in breakthrough, yet you have to eat. Samuel claimed with a smile.

"This ..." It was He Ting's very first day at the office, so she really did not anticipate to get the breakthrough repayment from Samuel in any way. She didn't expect that Samuel would bring up this issue.

"You simply need to treat this place as your very own home in the future. We don't have many strange rules in our family," Samuel stated.

Samuel laughed inwardly at the Sue family members's guidelines. Certainly, he would not utilize them in his own home.

He Ting didn't recognize exactly how to share her thankfulness.
