

Then came time to get ready for the party.

Three knocks came on the door and I opened it, letting Wanda and Natasha slip into my room. We had decided to meet in my room since it was the largest, being the only one of the three on the south side of the tower.

Immediately, they threw on their dresses and I did the same, excited to wear the new two-piece dress they had helped me pick out.

While Natasha started on Wanda's hair, I checked my phone, which was blowing up with notifications. Over the last few days, a few of us had decided to make Tony's party just a little harder for him. Simple pranks were set all in the rooms people would be in, such as googly eyes on the products in the refrigerators, nail polish covered soap, loose glitter on the fan blades, and drawn in bugs on the lampshades and toilet paper. Super harmless but very funny. Loki was currently finishing up the last few bugs, and Clint and Shuri had taken over the kitchen to finish the eyes. I had already done my part with the glitter, using my bat form to easily get up and into the fans. ^a

Cracking up at the annoying little pranks people were about to come across, I put down the phone and went over to the mirror to touch up my makeup and do my hair.

Wanda looked over at me, "holy shit (y/n)! You're gorgeous!"

Natasha finished her eyeliner and turned to me, and her eyes widened, "damn girl!"

"Bucky's gonna-" Wanda clapped her hand over her mouth and Natasha looked to her, then to me. ^a

"Bucky's going to what?!" Nat screeched, "are you not telling me something (y/n)!?"

I rolled my eyes, "Nice going Wanda."

She covered her face with her hands, "sorry"

Natasha ran over to me, "are you guys-"

I cut her o, "yeah we're together, we're announcing it tonight at the party."

She screeched again, "first of all, it's about time. We've all been waiting for one of you to make a move. And secondly, Wanda's right, he's going to be stunned (y/n)!"

I blushed, "thank you girls, but have you seen yourselves?"

Continue reading next part