

On The Run 78

Chapter 78

Alpha On The Hunt Chapter 2

My father snarls and swings back at him, Axton moves quicker though, seeing it coming before hitting him again, his hands grab my father's shirt, ripping him toward him and headbutting him. The resounding crack of their heads clashing makes my teeth ache as my father goes down like a sack of potatoes. Cane erupts with laughter, making me look at him. He lifts his glass and nods.

"Well, I guess your mate doesn't hate you as much as I thought." he chuckles. Osiris groans and looks over at Axton, then shakes his head and lifts his hand waving his guards over.

"Get him out," he orders and they grab my father.

"Really Axton, this better not be in the fucking papers tomorrow!" Osiris snaps.

"If it is, I'm sure your rep will still stand Osiris, you're good at putting the blame onto others. Don't make out you didn't tell him where she was. Derrick knows better than to step into your establishments without permission." Axton snarls.

"No idea what you are talking about," Osiris says, yet the way his lips tug in the corners and his eyes flicker dangerously, I could see the snake he is beneath the facade. Some intuitive sense that I have just been set up, filters through my thoughts.

"I was just being friendly." Osiris replies, his eyes moving to "And now you know her answer." Axton growls, lifting my hand slightly and I step closer to him.

"Silly girl, you won't last in the council if you aren't playing on the right side of it. Being a woman you're at even more of a disadvantage. I was willing to help you."

"This was a power play!" Lexa snarls angrily that we didn't pick up on it. My father's pack is the second largest and because I was so focused on Axton I walked into a trap, one that could have seen me challenged for a title I am yet to claim within the city.

And I will hold the second largest pack in this city, therefore you will be at a disadvantage. But you him, that's the only reason he wants you now, to take your pack, I would have let you be Luna, he'll showed his true colors, I guess I'll come with you lot then! I thought he liked me now, I'm wondering if in such a short time. I reach out and grab his arm when Axton him. "This politics shit is hard, I should have stuck with mechanics, but no dad and Pete had to just go and croak on me, making me alpha!" Cane tried to warn

Alpha

instantly rushes over, grabbing Cane's other

he was planning on making me his bitch. I think he slipped something into my drink. Thank the Goddess you're here, wander off with the likes of him, and you. Don't think I didn't catch you checking harmless, you know that." Axton tells him before glancing around

make sure he gets home, and organize his patrols

on the lookout."

for what, you think he likes my ass

many so many questions yet the man of the hour, Axton seems to have the answers which I don't really feel like getting into another argument with him, so I

my father's warriors to patrol Cane's borders. "No, Eli will handle it, think Osiris did something to his stepped into a role he was hoping would be here," he mutters, wrapping

"Alpha Cane?" I ask.