/ One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President
Ceres was bold!

When she was a child, she climbed a tree to dig out a hornet's nest and caught a python on the mountain. But on such a thrilling night, it was also her first time. In addition to being afraid of death, she was also scared of something else! She was a girl who had just passed her 21st birthday.

Crying echoed in the whole living room, John's heart suddenly softened. He turned his wheelchair and came to Ceres, looking at her feet covered with blood.

It was the first time he saw Ceres crying. He thought she was a girl who wouldn't cry.

"Don't cry, and be obedient."

With Adam's help, John held Ceres in his arms while he was sitting in a wheelchair, he pushed the button to hold Ceres back to the bedroom, and then released Ceres.

Ceres was still crying as if she was venting her emotions.

John didn't like women crying the most, which made him more upset. "Stop Crying!"

Ceres glared at John bitterly. "I will cry, and it's none of your business!"

John listened to Ceres's words uncomfortably. "You are my woman. I have to take care of you!"

"I am not!" Ceres growled.

"Come again?"

"I am not! I am not!" She exclaimed.

Ceres screamed and denied it three times in a row. "I'm not your woman. We never got a license, we never had a wedding, and I never even met the groom. I was married to the rooster! No certificate, no facts. Why do you insist that I'm your woman?"

Ceres was short of breath. She could escape, but why didn't she run? It was probably the most wrong decision she had ever made. John stopped yelling. He understood Ceres. Maybe he also understood why Ceres was unhappy after so many days.

He was thoughtless. He didn't get a license for their marriage, nor did he hold a wedding. How could he insist that she was his woman? Ceres lowered her head and accidentally spoke out her heart.

She hated John's attitude. Since he only thought about her use, and he wasn't nice to her. That's why.

John didn't say anything but turned his wheelchair and went to the bathroom. After a while, he came out of the bathroom. "I've prepared hot water for you. You should go and take a bath."

His voice was much softer this time. Ceres entered the bathroom, leaving a trail of blood behind her.

Originally, John wanted to help her wash, but when he thought about what Ceres said, she would disagree, so he didn't mention it.

Ceres soaked herself in hot water, and her mood gradually stabilized. She soaked for a while. When she came out of the bathroom, she saw John sitting in a wheelchair next to a medicine cabinet.

John said, "Come and take this medicine."

Ceres was in pain when she took a bath. She took her time walking and sat by the bed. "I'll do it myself."

John ignored her and put her foot on his lap. The sole of her foot was covered with wounds. As soon as the alcohol cotton was on her foot, Ceres cried out in pain.

John looked up at Ceres. "It serves you right!"

Ceres skimmed the pie mouth. She deserved it. Who told her to provoke Henry in the first place? Henry wouldn't have targeted her otherwise.

"We must disinfect it well. You have to endure." John wiped Ceres's wounds lightly, and his movements were much lighter.

Ceres gradually adapted to the pain, so she felt nothing. She looked at John's gentle expression, and her heart began to soften.

He seems worried about her. Was he just pretending? If he was only using her, why was he so good to her? Ceres was a bit lost in her thoughts.

"Why didn't you escape?" When John saw Ceres, he realized Ceres would escape because this was her only chance to escape from here.

But she didn't escape and came back.

Ceres was also amazed at John's unexpected things. "Do you want to hear the truth or not?"

John looked up at Ceres and continued to bow his head and apply for medicine. "What's the truth?"

"The truth is, I don't know where to escape. I don't have a home. Where do I go? If Henry catches me one day, he will end me without any scruples. It is better to come back. At least you can protect me."

Ceres was honest with John, and she didn't lie. She didn't say anything about John.

John felt a bit cold in his heart, but he could also sense that Ceres was not lying. She was so intelligent that she must know what to say. If she were reluctant to leave, it would make her heart happy, but she just wouldn't tell him.

Adam came over and knocked on the door. "Would you like me to prepare something for the two of you to eat?"

Ceres heard the voice and replied directly, "Mr. Smith, don't bother. I made a hamburger this morning. Just ask them to make some hamburgers."

John didn't speak.

"Sure." Adam headed out.

John gave Ceres medicine, and he said, "You hurt your foot, and now you can't get out of bed."

"Why should I stay in bed all the time? I can't do that. How boring would it be? These are minor injuries, and it will be all right in a couple of days."

"I said no!" John shouted at her.

Ceres immediately became blunt, and she was no longer as powerful as she was earlier. After a while, the servant brought the hamburger, which filled the two large plates. Ceres saw it and said quickly, "Although I am famished, I can't eat so much!"

The servant smiled and said, "Mr. Johny didn't have dinner yet."

Ceres smiled awkwardly. John was worried about her, and he didn't even eat.

"Do you want them to do something else for you?"

She just thought that she only needed to eat, so she let them cook hamburgers without authorization.

"There's no need."

"Cool! These are the hamburgers I specially packed earlier, the three fresh stuffing, and the shrimp are all peeled with fresh shrimps. It can be fresh. You should try some."

They both ate hamburgers together, and the taste of the hamburgers was very fresh.

"It tastes good," John commented.

Ceres smiled happily.

Ceres was tired after running so far and soon fell asleep. John held her tiny body in his arms. Although the little woman was a bit crazy, he remembered all the words she said when she was angry.

She wanted a marriage certificate and a wedding, and he would definitely give it to her, but not for that moment, he would give more, and he wanted his family to accept her as his woman!

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President Chapter 71

Henry's people had been looking for her all night, but they did not find her, and they were so tired that they came back at dawn.

"Fuck, a bunch of fools, how can you not catch up to a woman!"

The subordinates were also very scared.

"Second young master, it is so dark that it is really hard to see and chase her."

"That woman was too cunning. It was hard to know where she hides."

"Trash!"

Henry can't help but be angry, but that woman was really cunning, and this woman was really not simple. Although she was ugly, she was really good at pretending.

However, the trip was not unjust. At the very least, knowing that woman's position in Johnny's mind could make Johnny lose his temper. That woman was definitely not ordinary in Johnny's heart.

"His taste is really heavy, I would not like such an ugly person!"

Henry could not help laughing. He always felt that his Johnny was invulnerable and had no weakness, now, he knew his weakness.

Henry immediately drove away then called Mary when he was on the road. When he arrived at the villa, Mary had already arrived.

Mary yawned and said, "Don't call me to come early in the morning, I am still sleepy."

Mary stuck to Henry like a candy. "Go to Evian Town, find your sister, and ask some information for me."

Mary looked at Henry inexplicably, and when she learned that he had found Johnny's important person was Ceres, she felt incredible.

"How could Johnny even like that ugly creature?"

"I know my Johnny. He will never allow himself to handle matters personally and he will find someone to do it for him instead. But he called me personally, he said that he was worried that I would do something to her. It could be seen that her position in his heart is not ordinary."

Mary was stunned, and she could not help but feel a chill in her heart. How bad was Johnny's taste that he had a crush on her ugly sister?

"So go and find her out for me and let me know the truth."

Mary nodded. Anyway, she was going to see how the ugly one in her home was doing. Mary did not delay even a minute and immediately took a bus to Evian Town.

Johnny had to go to the company because he took over the position of president. When Ceres woke up in the morning, he was gone.

The servants pushed Ceres into a wheelchair, saying that Johnny had prepared it for her.

Ceres laughed when she saw the wheelchair. This is too exaggerated, right? But Ceres got out of bed and found that it was not exaggerated at all!

All her injuries were on the soles of her feet. If she pushed hard, it would hurt!

She had to accept the wheelchair obediently.

This wheelchair was exactly the same as Johnny's. Ceres felt fresh when she was in a wheelchair for the first time. She did not expect this wheelchair to be inductive. When she twisted, she turned automatically, and the speed was adjusted. It was amazing and it could get faster.

All morning, she enjoyed playing with the wheelchair. After lunch, she was just about to take a nap when a servant reported that Ceres's sister was in the villa.

"My sister? I have no sister." Ceres thought of Mary as soon as she spoke. "Oh, let her in."

The servant took Mary into the villa. As she walked along, Mary looked at the villa and thought that people who lived there really came from a wealthy family. She knew something well.

The villa looked ordinary, but every brick and tile was very elaborate, and the small garden in the yard was very delicate.

It was a place for disabled people to live, and it was so delicate, which showed how much Jack cared about his son.

And she also knew from her father that just the other day, Jack announced the new president, it was not Henry, but Johny.

It seemed that the treatment for the eldest son and the second son was different.

Mary followed the servant into the house, and with her eyes swept away, she could see that the several paintings on the wall were valuable.

Ceres was still playing with the wheelchair and did not take Mary seriously at all.

When she saw the erythema on Ceres's face, Mary's heart was a little steady, and she was still so ugly.

"I have not seen you for a long time. You are really in bad shape. You are even in a wheelchair."

Mary swaggered on the sofa, her legs cocked up as if she were the hostess of the house.

"It was all thanks to...Henry." Ceres was not hiding anything.

Mary certainly knew about the other day's kidnapping. "Yes, of course, it was thanks to him. If he had not been soft-hearted, you would have lost your life."

Ceres suddenly laughed, lifted her face. "With kid gloves? Ha-ha, I think he was a fool. If he was not stupid, I could not even escape, ha-ha!"

"You..." Mary certainly did not want to hear Ceres say anything about Henry, after all, it was the man she had a crush on.

Mary looked around. "You said you were the hostess, but you never acted like a hostess. Even when guests came, coffee was not even given!"

Ceres snorted. "Are you a guest?"

"How can I ..."

"I did not ask them to throw you out, but you want to drink coffee with me? Go ahead, what do you want me to do? Say it right now, I have to take a nap."

Ceres yawned as she spoke.

A servant hurriedly brought Ceres a blanket and covered her legs.

"Mrs. Winsor, it is getting colder and colder recently. Please cover up and do not catch a cold."

Another servant brought Ceres a plate of crystal grapes. "Mrs. Winsor, do not just eat meat, eat some fruits too, to relieve boredom."

Mary was very upset when she waited for Ceres to finish what she was doing one by one. She was just an ugly person. Why should she?

Adam also seemed to notice that Mary was getting impatient so he came over.

"Miss, our Mrs. Winsor hurt her foot yesterday and was frightened. It is really inconvenient to meet guests at this time, so please go and you can go back at a convenient time."

She came there by car and traveled for several hours, and she did not even stay for a minute, then she was going to be kicked out?

Mary's nose was going to tilt with anger. She stood up and said, "You do not curry favor with the wrong person! If it was not for me, would she be here today? Sometime in the future, you will regret it."

After that, she walked out angrily. Just halfway there, she heard a noise coming from the garden.

"Why am I getting bullied? Why do I have to take out the garbage every time? There is so much garbage, and it still stinks!"

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President Chapter 72

/ One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

"Who gave you permission to disrespect her? These jobs are yours! Cut the crap! Get to work!"

Mia has lost her temper, too. Since she was driven out of the villa, she had been doing menial work outside. That was not the most important part. The relevant part was that she got less salary, and she felt that her life was hopeless.

Everyone knew that she was driven out by Mr. Johny because she offended the wealthy family, so everyone was not afraid to step on her.

Mary hooked her lips and smiled then went out.

Mia struggled to carry the trash can, and her mouth kept swearing.

"You bad woman, slut, do not let me catch the opportunity. Let us see how I can clean you up!"

"Hello, are you a servant here?" Mary was waiting for Mia at the corner outside the door.

Mia looked up and saw a woman wearing a famous brand. This woman was born with a silver spoon in her mouth, and she should have a lot of money.

"Who are you?"

Mary fiddled with her hair. "My name is Mary, and I am the daughter of Morris's company owner."

"You said you were..." Mia looked at Mrs. Winsor in front of her in shock. Wasn't she told that the housewife in the family was called Mary? Why was this one claiming to be Mary? She thought.

What the hell was going on?

"The hostess in the family got married with my name. Does she look like a darling daughter to you?"

Mia was right when she thought about it. The wife did not look like a rich girl at all, but what she saw today was...

It turned out that she was a fake!

Mary took out a lipstick from her pocket, and Mia looked intently. That lipstick was a very expensive international brand. Her monthly salary was not enough to buy one.

"I want to ask you something, and this will be regarded as a meeting ceremony."

Mia took the lipstick and could not put it down.

"Ask away."

"I heard that the master here liked his wife very much, is that right?"

Mia's heart was blocked when she mentioned it.

"Is it not? It is not just like that, it is killing me. I was thrown to work outside because I said a few unpleasant words. The master threw a coffee cup directly at me. Look, the scar on this wound is still there! Two days ago, the wife was said to have been kidnapped, so the master kept losing his temper, and the whole house was afraid to even breathe."

Speaking of that, Mia sighed. "I do not know if that ugly woman has the blessings of several lives and even let the master spoil her so much."

This made Mary feel very uncomfortable. She did not expect Ceres to be so favored, and she did not know what tricks she made with her face.

Mary thought Mia was an available person and took out a box of foundation from her bag.

"This is for you, too."

Mia's eyes suddenly enlarged, and she took it and flipped through it in her hand.

"Would you like to be my eyes here? Keep an eye on what was happening here. Remember to report to me if there is anything wrong. Do not worry, I will not mistreat you. "

"I am willing to. So willing. I have a long hatred for that woman!"

Just then, the two suddenly heard the sound of a car engine. They looked at the source of the sound and a Rolls Royce stopped at the door.

"It is the master who is back."

Mary hadn't met Johnny yet, and she was thinking of seeing what Johnny really looked like.

A wheelchair got out of the car, and Johnny was in a wheelchair with a cold face.

Mary felt as if she had been shocked at that moment.

There was such a man in the world, even in a wheelchair, he could make you feel like a king's landing.

He was born with pride, and his carved face was handsome and sexy in the sunshine. Just looking at it from a distance, Mary suddenly felt like a fawn bumping around.

She thought Henry was the most handsome man she had ever seen, but Johny suddenly made Henry simply too ordinary.

The temperament of the two people was simply different.

Soon Johny went in, Mia glanced at Mary, and she knew that no matter which woman met Johny, she would be attracted to him.

“Does our master look very handsome?” Mia touched Mary with her elbow.

Mary immediately put away her spooony eyes.

“I will go back first. We will contact you later.”

The two left contact information with each other, and Mary left immediately.

Mia was extremely happy with the lipstick and foundation she just got. She knew very well that the ugly one was only loved for a while, and the real Mary would definitely kick her away. She should try to curry favor with the real Mary, and then she would be popular and favored again.

Johny entered the door and saw Ceres still hovering in the wheelchair. He wanted to come back for lunch with her, but he came back late because of a traffic jam.

“Hmm?” Why did you come back so early?”

Ceres was surprised to see Johny came back.

“The president wanted to come back to eat with you, but there was there was a traffic jam,” Adam answered first.

Johny stared at him immediately, and Adam immediately shut his mouth.

“Oh, but I have finished eating.” Ceres looked helpless.

“It does not matter.”

Adam immediately ordered the servants to prepare lunch for Johny.

“Then I will accompany you to dinner.”

When Johny was eating, Ceres was watching him. It was so far away from the company that he came back so far just to accompany her for lunch.

In fact, he knew that she was frightened the other day, so he just wanted to spend more time with her, and quickly came back after handling the company's affairs clearly.

Ceres looked at Johnny quietly on the dining table. He ate like those noble aristocrats in England. Ceres sipped her lips slightly. She had to admit that Johnny was really perfect, but he was too cold and did not like to talk.

Johnny's heart was a little nervous when he was stared at for the first time. He coughed, and Ceres immediately looked back. He seemed a little too spoony.

"Does your foot still hurt?"

"Fortunately, it did not hurt too much if I did not go down," Ceres answered honestly.

"The new house is almost decorated. When your feet are good, you can move there, and then you can go to school."

"Really?"

Ceres suddenly sat up straight and became excited.

Johnny kept a quiet voice, but only responded with a nod.

"That is great! I can go to school again!" Ceres cheered.

The next day Johnny called Mike to his office.

Mike received a phone call from Johnny's secretary, and he was too scared. He did not know what Johnny wanted to do with him. Now he was caught between Henry and Johnny, and it was difficult to be in that position.

"President, are you looking for me?"

"Go and get Ceres' household registration book."

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President Chapter 73

/ One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President
When Mike heard the name "Ceres," he had a cold sweat.

He knew that Johnny had told Henry about his substitute marriage, and he had been trembling for the past few days, especially after Johnny had become the president. He had always felt that Johnny would take revenge on him.

"Mr. Johnny..."

Johnny looked up at Mike. "Do I have to repeat it? You are unwilling to marry your own daughter, cheating on me with other people's daughters!"

Mike was startled and nearly fell to his knees. "Gentleman, I am helpless. You were a vegetarian from the beginning, but I have only one daughter. That's related to my daughter's happiness. I am a father ..."

Johny did not want to talk nonsense with him either, but he's also grateful to him for letting him marry Ceres, otherwise, he would not know Ceres.

Let us leave it at that.

"Cut the crap. Bring the household registration permit. I want to register the marriage with Ceres."

Johny said nothing but slowly began to plan everything. The first thing he had to do was register his marriage with Ceres to be his legal wife.

When he had moved over, Ceres' household entry was right there in Morris' household book, or there would not have been so much trouble.

When he said he wanted to marry Ceres, Mike was scared too, and he did not know how Johny had fallen for that ugly thing.

"Shall I repeat it?"

"No! It's just that this household book is at home. I have to go get it."

"Go quickly!"

Mike left the group. He could not understand why Johny wanted to marry Ceres, but that's what he meant, so he had to do it!

Morris family.

Mary sat in front of the dresser and put on some good makeup. She looked at the delicate and perfect lips in the mirror and slowly closed her eyes.

Johny's face suddenly appeared in the mirror.

Her face turned red again. Last night she had a sex dream in which she dreamed of making out with Henry. As a result, the face slowly turned into Johny.

When she thought about it, her face was still red and hot.

She was the daughter of the Morris family. She should be the wife of Johny, the female ruler of the Winsor family. How can she leave it all to Ceres!

Suddenly she had a bold idea!

At that moment, Papa's voice sounded downstairs, and she immediately opened the door secretly. It turned out that Mike had returned.

Mike seemed to be in a hurry. Sally hurriedly poured him a glass of water. "What are you doing, you looked so worried?"

"You get the housekeeping book at home. Johny wants to get married to Ceres and asks me to send the registration book right away."

Sally was speechless when she heard this!

Mary upstairs heard this and was shocked, speechless. No, there was no way Johny and Ceres register the marriage.

So, Mary sneaked into the bedroom of Mike and Sally. She knew where the household book was and took it right away.

Mike took a sip of water and sighed. "That Johny's got the wrong nerve, and he wants to get married the ugly girl! I cannot understand it!"

Sally was quite pleased. After all, Ceres was her daughter. It was good that Johny would be her son-in-law in the future!

"What's wrong with it? I'll bring it to you in a minute."

But Sally returned to the bedroom but did not find the household book and came down from the stairs. "Why has the housekeeping book disappeared?"

Mary came down from upstairs as if nothing had happened. "Papa, mama, what are you doing?"

"Mary, have you seen the housekeeping book at home? Your father needs it badly."

"We need the book for school. I dropped it off at school. The school needs it to deliver application forms to go abroad. That may take some time."

Mary played the piano well and often entered competitions abroad, which was not surprising.

"Why now?" Mike looked up at Mary. "Go to school and get your home economics book back!"

"Oh, Dad, you do not know the procedure when you go to competition abroad. How complicated this procedure is? If you take it back, can I still go to competition abroad?" Mary pursed her mouth and reprimanded him.

"She's right. You cannot break Mary's future. Go and tell Johny you'll give it back as soon as school application procedure finishes."

Sally was more worried about Mary.

Mike sighed, but that did not mean he would not give it back. A few days, Will Johny lose his temper?

Mary sat next to Mike like an innocent girl leaning on her father. "Dad, do you think Johny can still stand up?"

Mike looked dignified. "Since Jack made Johny president, I can be almost sure Johny can stand up. Otherwise, Morris would never make a disabled person as the president. Johny thinks he can stand up after a while."

When Mary heard this, she was more excited but did not show it.

"Dad, what do you think will happen when Ceres and I change back?"

Mary tried cautiously.

Hearing Mary's words, Mike and Sally looked at their daughter in shock, and suddenly Mike immediately stood up.

"What are you trying to do! I am telling you to be cautious! You are already with Henry, do not think about Johny!"

Mike yelled. His daughter had met Henry without his permission, which embarrassed him. He did not want her to cause trouble.

Mary looked irritated, "What's wrong with that? Johny was the heir of Winsor's family, and the person who married to him was originally me."

"Do you think Johny is a fool? When he was a vegetable, you did not marry, you let Ceres substitute, now he wakes up, and you make a fuss about switching back! Do you think he will comply!!!

Even if Henry was not the heir of the Winsor family, he was the second young lord of the Winsor family, only just behind Johny. Besides, he still had so many shares in the Winsor Group in his hand that it will not harm you if you marry him! Do not even think about Johny! Bring back the household book and give it to me immediately! "

Mike said and immediately disappeared.

Mary's mouth twisted as if she had been wronged.

She was so beautiful and Morris's dearest daughter. If she was going to marry, she should marry the most powerful man. She would not be inferior to the others.

Especially not under Ceres!

/ One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Within two days, all the injuries on the soles of Ceres' feet had crusted over. Originally, Johnny wanted to wait until she had fully recovered, but he could not resist Ceres' coaxing and urging, so he agreed to the move.

They arrived at their new home. The mansion was located in Villa Amio, the center of the city. Land in this area was expensive, and anyone who can afford houses here was either rich or noble.

Ceres looked at the small, fresh interior and liked it a lot. She walked up and down the stairs. Each room was uniquely decorated, and there was even a lab set up just for her.

"I like this house!" Ceres jumped down the stairs.

"I put the house in your name," Johnny said slightly.

"What?"

Ceres looked at Johnny in shock. "You said the house was put in my name?"

Rich people gave others a house as if giving a cabbage. This was a house where every inch of land was worth a lot of money. Although Ceres did not know anything about the price, she happened to hear that the Morris family's house was worth tens of millions!

The acreage of this house was not as large as Morris's, but the location was better than Morris's.

So, she owned a house worth ten million?

Had she suddenly become a rich woman?

Johnny looked at Ceres' expressionless face. Johnny would give everything he had to her.

They wanted to celebrate, Bob and Bill came over that evening, and Bill even brought his fresh vegetables and seafood.

"What would the celebration be without little nightclub prince?" Bill gave the food and seafood he brought to the servant and then went straight to Ceres. "Little sister-in-law, can you make seafood? I brought some clams, shrimp, and fish that were caught very fresh from the sea today!"

Ceres was not used to Bill being so enthusiastic. "Then make spicy fried clams, braised shrimp, and grilled fish."

"BINGO! Great! We would eat the dinner cooked by you!"

Ceres looked at Johny and walked into the kitchen.

Johny was not happy. He did not want his wife cooking for anyone else, but today was a feast, so he could not drive the guests away, and though his face was grim, he said nothing.

"I brought two bottles of good wine. We have not had such a merry gathering in a long time. Have a good drink today."

They had always met secretly in the past, they could finally meet openly this time.

Four people sat at the table. Bill enjoyed the food and grinned. "It's delicious, delicious! Little sister-in-law, your craftsmanship is truly amazing! Come on, I'll make a toast to you!"

Bill raised the cup, and Ceres just took the cup in her hand, Johny then carried it away.

"A woman does not drink, I will drink it for her." Said Johny, gulping down the glass of wine.

Ceres stuck her tongue out with her head down. Since the last time she had said that to her bodyguard for drinking too much, she was a little afraid of drinking, fearing talking nonsense if she drank.

"Elder Johny, are you being partial? That is the first time I have seen you protect a woman!" Bill joked.

"Keep your mouth shut!" Johny cut a chicken leg and put it in Bill's dish.

"Thanks for the treat!" Bill held his throat and roared, then lowered his head and ate the chicken leg.

Ceres suppressed a smile. It turned out that Johny did have the imperial aura, but Bill thought the same thing.

Soon, the dishes on the dining table were clean, and Bill ate a hearty meal and drank a little too much.

Bob was still very much awake. He saw this and hurriedly said, "It's getting late. Let us go back first."

"Yes, Johny, you moved into a new house today. Don't forget to enjoy your bedtime with your little sister-in-law? Hey, hey, Bob and I will not be a third wheel! We will go first!"

When Ceres heard that, her face turned red, Johny and she had never done that before.

Bill stood up and almost fell, but Bob held him down, and they helped each other and walked out.

Ceres sent them to the door and turned to see Johny.

Johny's face was slightly flushed, and he seemed drunk.

"Johny, are you drunk too?"

"I am fine." Johny's eyes are a little red, and he drank a lot.

"Then I'll take you back to sleep."

Ceres pushed the wheelchair and rode the elevator up. Johny held his head with one hand and seemed uncomfortable. "Are you okay?"

"Hm."

"Do you want me to take you to the bathroom?"

Ceres pushed Johny into the bathroom, but Johny was not very relieved. After all, his legs and feet were uncomfortable, and he was drinking wine.

When she was at a loss, she suddenly heard Johny say, "You help me take a bath."

"Huh?" Ceres just felt his head "buzzing" like it was about to explode!

Was she going to help him with a bath?

"This should not be good."

Although when Johny was still a vegetable, she scrubbed his body. She saw everything except for the most critical part, but...

"What's wrong? I am a little drunk and uncomfortable," Johny said, directly taking off his top shirt.

"Oh..." Ceres had to bite the bullet and rolled up her sleeve.

Johny seemed drunk. He could not lift his head, and his face was red. Ceres pulled off his trousers.

When there were a few pants left, Ceres went to take a shower.

"Are you going to let me shower in my pants?" Johnny asked.

Ceres bit her lip, then hesitated, walking over and slowly pulling his pants down.

Her face suddenly turned red, and this was the first time she had ever seen a man's body!

She can feel the blood rushing to her head!

She tried to control herself not to see but she had to wash in the bathroom too!

Ceres helped Johnny wash his body, and the temperature in the bathroom slowly got warmer from the steam, making Ceres' face redder.

Johnny looked at Ceres, turned his face, and suddenly smiled. "If you do not look, how do you know it's clean or not?"

"I ... that...." Ceres smiled awkwardly.

"I will allow you to see it."

Ceres was speechless, she was so embarrassed.

At that moment, Ceres slipped under his feet, and the shower suddenly fell to the floor. Luckily, Johnny held her at that moment.

"So careless?"

At that moment, Ceres felt the change in his body part.

Their eyes met in the steaming heat.

Johnny lowered his head and pressed a kiss on her lips.

Chapter 75 A Friend

Although it wasn't the first time they'd kissed, Ceres was still as perplexed as if it were the first time.

She knew Johnny was drunk. Would he...?

Because Johnny was wet and the water vapor was wrapping him, Ceres was soon completely soaked, and her body clung tightly to Johnny, and she felt like her whole body was going to catch fire!

"Don't. You mustn't..." Ceres pushed Johnny away.

She didn't know how to get her to accept Johnny, and her thoughts were still chaotic.

What Johnny and Jack Winsor had said that day was still running through her mind.

Now she was giving him her body and after that?

If she had no more value, he might abandon her.

Johnny seemed very unhappy, he held Ceres' arm so she couldn't move and she pursed her lips again.

He seemed unable to be satisfied, he felt as if his body had caught fire, and only the small woman in front of him could put the fire out.

Just when Ceres thought Johnny would take him down today, Johnny suddenly stopped.

He hugged her, panting, and Ceres' breathing was heavy. Her heart was beating to its limit, and she seemed to hear Johnny's heartbeat beating strong and fast!

"I promise you that I'll never have sex with you until we register our marriage."

Ceres looked at Johnny in consternation, so that's his promise?

"I asked Mike to get your account. He said he'd send it to me when he used up his account. If that's the case, we'll get the certificate. I hope you don't refuse again!"

With the last sentence, Johnny restored his former majesty.

Get a license?

Ceres had been completely wrong!

Was he planning to get married? Had he listened to what he'd said that day?

What the hell was going on here?

Johnny kissed Ceres' lips again, and Ceres backed away. "You just said you wouldn't touch me! Are you so quick to go back on your word?"

"I only said I didn't want your body, but I didn't say I wouldn't kiss you." Said Johny, pressing his large palm to the back of Ceres' head, and their lips met again.

This time Johny became more and more greedy.

Ceres felt more uncomfortable!

Johny didn't stop until he was about to lose his mind. "Damn it!"

He cursed, "Why do you want to abuse yourself? I'd just promised not to touch her, isn't that eating his words?"

"You're all wet. Take a bath."

Johny picked up a bath towel and handed it to Ceres. He dried his body and put his wheelchair down.

Ceres just opened the shower and the whole person was in the water, her head was still empty. She reached out and touched her lips, which were numb.

It seemed like you can still smell Johny's clear taste.

Was she really going to marry Johny?

That night, the two still love each other, but the fire isn't yet completely extinguished, so they dared not expect it. Far away from Ceres, Ceres naturally understood that and she slept with his back against Johny.

But Ceres couldn't sleep. Finally, she turned around and looked at Johny. "Johny, is it true what you said? Do you want to marry me? Get me a marriage certificate and we became legal husband and wife?"

Johny gave her a wry look. "Do you think I'd have time for such jokes with you otherwise?"

That question gave Ceres just the right answer.

"But ..."

Ceres paused before she spoke, there were too many buts, but they'd only known each other for two months. She was just a simple girl with no identity background.

"Don't worry, you have me." Johny heaved a sigh of relief.

That sentence killed all her "buts" in the cradle.

Ceres didn't know what to say anymore. "I've one more thing to discuss with you."

"Say it."

"I want to go back to the dorm and come back here on the weekends. I've been out of school for half a semester and skipped a lot of classes. I want to make up for that. It's too much of a hassle to run back and forth, plus it delays the time." Ceres finished his words in one breath, afraid of being retorted by Johny.

Johny's face darkened so that he could only see her on weekends. Was this woman still trying to run away from him?

Or did she not believe he'd marry her at all?

"Good."

He'd be overworked because he'd taken over the Winsor Group so quickly. He'd to run the Eagle Group. You can imagine how much work the two groups have together.

And for Ceres, the school was safe, and Henry was not brave enough to catch Ceres in the school.

So, he agreed.

Ceres hadn't expected Johny to agree so quickly. She suddenly smiled. "Johny, you're a good man, good night!"

With those words, Ceres turned around and closed her eyes happily.

Johny was unhappy. He remembered Bill said to Jaden that a woman saying that you were a good man meant she was rejecting you!

But he immediately picked it up and asked her what it meant. Wasn't that very demeaning?

Forget it. Was he almost ten years older than her? Let her go.

Ceres got up extra early and made breakfast for Johny. After breakfast, Johny went to the company, and Ceres went to school.

When she got back to school, Ceres went to Alice first. When Alice saw Ceres, her tears rolled down and she fell over.

"Ceres, where have you been? Do you know I've been looking everywhere for you? I wrote many letters to the principal, but the letters have all disappeared. How can a student's status be invalid all of a sudden!"

Alice cried and laughed with snot and tears, which made Ceres laugh.

Ceres told Alice exactly what had happened during that time. She'd visited Alice only as a friend and had never kept anything from her.

Alice gritted her teeth when she heard that the Morris family had forced Ceres to marry a vegetative human. When she heard that Johnny loved her, Alice finally relaxed a little.

"Ceres, will you be with Johnny?"

Ceres shook her head. "I don't know."

She knew that Johnny was really a good person and loved her very much. She was probably the best person in the world, aside from her father, but she still wasn't sure.

"By the way, Ceres, do you know that Kirs didn't go to England?"

"What, he didn't go to England?!" Ceres looked at Alice in consternation.

"He applied to study in England just because of you. He couldn't find you. He felt there was no reason to go there, so he gave the quota to others."
