

Passive Skills 30

Chapter 30: Demon Tribe Priest

Zhang Shan was happily chatting and farming monsters while calculating his current leveling speed.

A level 15 monster could be killed in three hits at most. With his attack speed, he would only need less than four seconds. In addition to the time he had to move around and shift his attacks, he could kill one monster every five to six seconds on average.

One monster gave about 150 EXP. In other words, Zhang Shan could farm over 100,000 EXP in an hour. 1

Leveling up to level 12 required EXP. He could level up in less than two hours. After equipping the divine artifacts, his leveling speed was skyrocketed. 1

Looking at the level ranking board, Zhang Shan discovered that My Heart Follows Me was ranked first. He was almost level 14, how fast!

However, this person didn't seem to be from any of the large guilds. His character name didn't have the names of the various guilds in it. He might be a wild lone ranger.

This was normal, just like Zhang Shan. If Wind Chimes did not invite him, he would be a loner, too.

Leveling up alone was not necessarily slow. There were so many players in the game, and they would always be lucky enough to get good equipment or skills suitable for farming monsters and leveling up. It was not strange for them to level up faster.

Zhang Shan was farming faster and faster, and he was slowly getting further and further away from the other players in the team. The density of the monsters around him became greater and greater.

Occasionally, small monsters would respawn beside him, causing him to be a little flustered.

Zhang Shan summoned his baby again, setting it to follow the Guardian mode. This way, as long as monsters were attacking him, the baby would go up and attack. It would first pull the monsters and wait for Zhang Shan to recover before dealing with them.

When it was almost 11 o'clock at night, Zhang Shan had reached level 12.

His attribute points were all added to his agility, so he kept his skill points for now. He had kept four skill points, but there was still no sign of the skill book.

Perhaps his luck had run out after he obtained the divine artifact. Till now, he had already killed nearly 2,000 monsters. But he had only dropped some white-tier equipment and a few miscellaneous items. 1

Not to mention the skill book, he had not even seen a piece of green equipment. Perhaps his luck had been too heaven-defying before, and now this was the normal drop rate? Zhang Shan was not sure.

It looked like it would be difficult to get good items if he did not fight the boss.

Forget it, let's not talk about these things. He did not have any need for equipment now. His attack power was sufficient, and his HP was not bad. With this state, he would not be considered outdated even if he reached level 2.

As for the skill book, it was up to fate.

“Did you guys find a boss?” Zhang Shan asked the team.

“No, we didn’t even see the shadow of the boss. By the way, Brother Six Guan, why did you run so far away?”

“I was not paying attention and went far away while farming.”

“It’s so boring to fight without a boss.”

“How long would it take for that Captain of Sentinels to respawn? It’s been a long time since we killed the boss.”

“Even if it respawns, we can’t find it. That kind of patrolling monster doesn’t respawn at a fixed time. Even if it respawns, we don’t know where it will go.”

“Sigh, this map is too big. With so few people, it’s too difficult to find a boss. It all depends on luck.”

“Not necessarily. The big bosses usually stay in the places where the monsters are densest or they stay alone in the open space.”

“There are enough monsters here. But still, we haven’t seen a boss yet.”

Speaking of this, Zhang Shan suddenly realized that the monsters in his current place were indeed dense. There were many times more monsters than the places they had killed together. Could there be a big boss here?

He looked further in.

After confirming the direction, he would farm wherever there were more monsters. There were more and more monsters, just like the level 1 chick map in the novice village. He felt like he would never be able to finish farming them all.

Zhang Shan moved forward with difficulty. The surrounding small monsters became denser and denser. The moment he finished farming the monsters in the front, there would be a pile of monsters at the back.

If he stopped for a short while, he was afraid that he would soon be surrounded and attacked by the small monsters. He could only rely on his constant DPS to clear out the small space in front of him and slowly move forward.

After an unknown period of time, Zhang Shan suddenly noticed that there seemed to be a building in front of him.

Previously, after farming for a long time, he did not see any buildings in the vast Bo Wang Wasteland. He had thought that the demon race monsters did not rely on buildings to survive.

Although he was a little far away, and he could not see the full picture of the building clearly, it seemed like an altar-type building looking from its outline.

Haha, it seemed like he had some gains.

In the game, the altar was either guarded by a boss, or it was related to a quest. Some of the altars would have treasures or something like that. In short, he was the first to discover this altar, so he would probably gain something.

He quickly pushed forward to take a look.

When he pushed forward to a place not far from the altar and looked over again, he couldn't help but be shocked.

Was this a boss? Wasn't this too huge? Could a humanoid boss be this big? Wasn't this a giant?

On the altar, there was a huge humanoid boss. It was waving its staff and chanting or praying. It was really too huge.

This was a red name boss. It was a demon tribe priest. It should be a Mage. As for attributes, forget about them. Although Zhang Shan was holding a divine artifact, he definitely could not afford to provoke such a boss.

Just by looking at the huge body of the boss, one could imagine how powerful it would be. Even if the entire guild attacked at the same time, they probably would not be able to defeat this boss.

"I've found a wild red boss."

Zhang Shan shared his vision with the team so that the others could see what was happening on his side.

"No way, is the boss that Big? Can we defeat it?"

"Beat the boss? You're thinking too much. Look at the small monsters around Six Guan. There are as many as rice. With our small bodies, I'm afraid we'll all fall before we even see the boss."

"D*mn it! I was just looking at the boss and I didn't notice."

"Six Guan, you're too powerful. There are so many small monsters, but you can still stand. You're so powerful"

"Hehe, it's not that bad. As long as you keep attacking, you can still stand."

"What about this boss? Are we done just taking a look at it? Who knows, maybe someone should go up and fight for the boss's attributes. Maybe it just looks scary but is actually a weakling."

"Who's going to try? Other than Six Guan, no one else is qualified. If Six Guan dares to fight the boss, he'll definitely die and be back in the city. We can't even save him."

Zhang Shan was also envious of the boss, but he had no idea where to start.

...

It would be great if he could think of a way to try. Even if he couldn't fight it, he could at least get closer to take a look.

Huh? It seemed that the closer he got to the altar, the fewer monsters there were. Could it be that there were no monsters at the altar?

Zhang Shan sped up and rushed to the altar, slowly realizing that there were indeed not many monsters there. Could it be that they were already close to the boss's aggro range?

Zhang Shan was a little flustered.

After getting away from the small monsters, Zhang Shan carefully approached the altar, afraid that the boss would hit him directly.

He was overthinking. The boss did not even look at him. The area outside the altar should not have entered the aggro range yet.

After going around the altar, Zhang Shan realized that other than the demon tribe priests, four purple bosses were standing on the four outer corners of the altar.

Since he could not defeat the red boss, he wondered if he could try out the four purple bosses?

Zhang Shan was a little uncertain. It was not that he was afraid that he could not defeat the purple boss, but he was mainly afraid that if he fought one, the other bosses on the altar would swarm over him. If that happened, he would have to lie down.

"There are four more purple bosses on the altar. Can I fight them? Will I be alarmed if I fight one?" Zhang Shan asked on the team channel.

"It's hard to say. Who knows what the mechanism is for a BOSS that no one has fought before."

...

"Why don't you give it a try? At most, you'll die once. Anyway, you're leveling up fast. What's there to be afraid of?" 1

Zhang Shan...

Wasn't this answer so irresponsible?

But it was also true. No one knew what the mechanism was for a boss that no one had tried before. Perhaps it was meant to be fought one by one, or maybe it was meant to be fought together. Without trying, everything was unknown.

Let's observe it for a while. If not would just give it a try.