

Passive Skills 38

Chapter 38: Rebirth Passive 1

After dealing with the Captain of Sentinels, although the drops disappointed everyone, they still had to continue clearing the small monsters.

After spending nearly two hours, they finally cleared all the small monsters. Many of them had leveled up, and Zhang Shan's experience was already over 200,000.

"I'm so tired. This dungeon is mainly used to farm monsters to level up. Otherwise, why would there be so many small monsters?"

"Probably."

"Then we can only enter once a week. That's too little. How do we level up?"

"Maybe the small monsters in the dungeon are for entertainment players. The main target of professional players is the dungeon boss."

"That's right. Entertainment players still make up the majority in the game. We have to leave some room for them to survive."

"The problem is that dungeon bosses don't drop good things. They're all trash. They won't be of much use to us. If this continues, I'm afraid no one will be willing to come and clear the dungeon."

"The reason why the drops were so bad just now might be due to the difficulty of the dungeon. We had chosen the normal mode, so the drops were directly lowered by a few levels."

"Yeah, it should be."

"Haha, that's easy then. Next time, we'll choose the limit mode."

"Idiot, do you know how crazy the limit mode is?"

"How crazy can it be? Isn't it just clearing the small monsters to kill the boss? At most, the boss is hard to beat."

"You still want to fight the boss in the limit mode? You can't even defeat the monsters. I heard that the monsters in the limit mode are all berserk. Their attack power is very high, and they run very fast. They can kill people in one or two hits."

"Is that so? Is the limit mode so crazy? How can we pass it?"

"It doesn't want to let people pass it. Otherwise, why would it be called the limit mode?"

"F*ck, it's a pervert setting." 1

"Let's not talk about the mode for now. Where's our guardian boss? Why hasn't it appeared yet? It can't be that we have cleared the dungeon after clearing the small monsters, right?"

"Yeah, it's been a while. Why hasn't the boss appeared yet? Let's go look for it."

This was everyone's first time clearing a dungeon in the New World. Nobody knew how the setting was like. Maybe the boss would appear after clearing all the small monsters.

It was also possible that the boss was hiding somewhere. They did not see it just now, and they could just look for it.

As saying that they would clear the dungeon after clearing the monsters, that was just a joke. There would be a notification when they cleared the dungeon.

Everyone spread out and searched carefully.

The dungeon map was not considered small. With over 40 people spreading out, it would take at least a few minutes to search the entire map.

Zhang Shan randomly chose a direction. As he ran, he carefully looked for red dots on the small map.

In less than two minutes, he noticed a red dot on the left side of the map.

Could it be a boss? When he carefully walked over, he realized that it was just a small monster.

F*ck, who cleared the small monsters on this site just now? He left out one and did not even mention it.

After killing the small monster with two shots, a notification sounded.

System notification: Due to the massive loss of the demon militia, the demon tribe priest will lead the guards to descend and investigate the reason.

The system notification also gave a coordinate, which should be the location where the guardian boss had descended.

"The big boss has finally appeared. Isn't this setting making fun of us? We have waited for so long and in the end, our people are all scattered."

"What's that to do with the setting? There was a small monster that was left out and I killed it just now. The notification was only given after I killed it," Zhang Shan ridiculed.

"Who was blind just now, not even aware of the monster being left out?"

"Everyone, stop talking. Gather at the location given by the notification. Those who arrive first, don't make a move, stay far away. Don't die by accident." Storm of the World stopped everyone from discussing the problem of the left-out monsters.

The map was so big. It was normal for one not to see the monster by accident.

When Zhang Shan ran to the coordinates, almost everyone else in the guild was also there.

Not far away, an altar appeared out of thin air. The big boss, the Demon Tribe Priest, had brought four guards to stay on the altar. It was exactly the same situation that Zhang Shan had seen in Bo Wang Wasteland.

When everyone was present, Storm of the World said, "Everyone, stay far away, let Six Guan kill the guards first to level up. Do not split his experience."

Okay.

Zhang Shan slowly walked towards the altar. Now that he had learned Eagle Eye skill, increasing his attack range by 20%, it would be even easier to lure the guards down.

A shot would lure one away from the altar, and the baby panda would take it. He would then easily take one life, stand up and kill again. He gained 100,000 EXP for killing each of the guards.

As for the equipment, it was not worth mentioning. One was blue and the other was green. No one knew if anyone would want it even if it was put up for auction.

“F*ck, these guards have two lives?” Some people had logged off early yesterday and had not seen Zhang Shan’s previous fight. Thus they asked in surprise.

“Yeah, the guards have a passive skill called Rebirth. Two lives, what a bug! Fortunately, it is not very strong, or else it would not be easy to get it.”

“Brother Six Guan, if you can farm this passive skill, you’ll be a man with two lives,” Thousand Miles Riding Alone said jokingly.

“I don’t dare to think about it. Not every boss is as generous as the wild boar king, giving me a passive skill after killing it once.”

“You have to have a dream. Who knows, the dream might come true.”

“That’s not a dream, that’s dreaming.”

The guard’s Rebirth was passive. Of course, Zhang Shan was envious. Who wouldn’t like to have another life? However, this was really impossible to farm. There were only four monsters in total, and he could only enter the dungeon once a week.

The key was that he was about to reach level 20. If he entered the dungeon again, he would only be able to enter the second floor of the demon suppression platform. After these four monsters were killed, he might not be able to see them again.

He was destined to never have the chance to obtain Rebirth, the mysterious passive.

He did not want to talk about this sad topic, so he continued to lure another guard to level up to level 20. This was more reliable.

...

Very quickly, another guard lost two lives. The drops were still trash, but he had finally reached level 20.

System notification: Congratulations on reaching level 20.

System announcement: As the player, Six Guan Bodhisattva, has reached level 20, the demon siege system has been activated.

Every Saturday at 8 pm, the generals under the Demon God will lead their troops to attack all the secondary cities. Players can receive rewards through the defense of the cities. Everyone is welcome to participate.

The player, Six Guan Bodhisattva, was the first to reach level 20. The demon siege activity system has been activated. The rewards are skill points +1, merit points +100.

System notification: Your Talent Passive King has been triggered by killing the demon priest guards. You will automatically receive a Rebirth (passive) skill. 2

Not bad. The first to reach level 20 was able to activate the skill. It was a free skill point. He now had saved up five skill points.

Hmm? Something was not right. There seemed to be three notifications.

F*ck, did he really get a Rebirth passive skill?

His luck was heaven-defying. It could no longer be called luck. It could only be called extreme luck. 2

Could it be that the boss's passive skill was easier to farm? He had killed almost 10,000 monsters before he could farm the passive skill of rabbit. And that was considered he was very lucky.

...

He had also killed thousands to farm the normal demonkin's passive Magic Resistance, but there was nothing at all.

However, the boss was different. The wild boar king's Heavy Strike was farmed with one hit. The guard's Rebirth was also farmed by killing six monsters.

It seemed that the chance of triggering the boss's talent had greatly increased.

Maybe it is because the boss's passivity is easier to farm. It looked like he had to fight more bosses in the future and snatch the last kill.

He had to try more frequently in the future.