

Passive Skills 57

Chapter 57 Taming the small wild wolf

To help the wind Cloud Cannon keep an eye on the little wild wolf, Zhang Shan could not go too far away to farm monsters.

Fortunately, the wild wolves respawned quickly, so it didn't take up much of his time.

After the wind and cloud Cannon set off, he pulled Zhang Shan into the team. Other than bringing Feng Yun realm, he also brought Feng Ling and his little Secretary along.

Perhaps it was because he had heard Zhang Shan say that there were many monsters on the road, and it was safer to pull a few more people, so he had specially brought wind chimes. If he died, he could revive the person.

In order to tame a pet, he was really putting in a lot of effort.

He checked the team's progress through the team information. They were not bad, although they were a little slower than him.

However, they should be able to make it here in half an hour. He hoped that they would not have any accidents.

"damn, where did all these monsters come from?"

not only are there a lot of monsters, but they're also very difficult to deal with. I'm dizzy.

don't get entangled. Find a way to detour when you see monsters.

They were only level 16 or 17, and the monsters they encountered on the way were all over level 20. There was a bit of level suppression, so it was difficult for them to kill them.

however, the safety of the road was not a problem, it just needed to take a little time.

It was better to focus on farming monsters first and wait for them to come over. He couldn't go over to pick them up anyway.

if he left, what if a thief with bad hands came and killed the little wild wolf? wouldn't that be a waste of time?

Yup, another piece of equipment dropped, a trashy blue equipment.

That's good. Although no players would want level 30 blue equipment, it would still be worth some money if he sold it to the store.

Not only did the wolves have a frighteningly high critical hit rate, but their drop rate was also pretty good. There were even a few pieces of trash equipment.

Zhang Shan estimated that if he farmed for a day, he would have about 200 gold coins in total.

In addition to the trash equipment that dropped, he could probably get 300 gold coins a day. According to the current exchange rate, if it was converted to blue coins, it would be about 600 dollars.

Thirty days a month, a monthly income of over ten thousand, even if there was no unexpected fortune, it was still much better than working.

It was great to have a divine weapon. With the attack speed boost from hand of maedas, his farming speed was faster than five or six people, so of course, he would earn more.

Zhang Shan was glad for his choice. Life was like that. When faced with choices, he would be happy if he made the right choice, but he would have to accept his fate if he made the wrong choice.

Just as Zhang Shan was lamenting about his life, the wind and cloud Cannon and the others were finally arriving.

“Divine artifact boss, we’re almost there.”

“yeah, i’m looking after the little wild wolf for you. don’t worry, no one usually comes to level 30 maps, so it won’t be killed.”

” that’s true, but i’m just afraid of what if. in order to get a pet, i’ve spent so much effort. now that i finally see hope, how can i not be worried? ” don’t worry, i’ll be on guard. Thieves won’t be able to get close. I have the level 10 Eagle Eye skill.

f * ck! The more skill points you have, the more awesome you are.

haha, we’re finally at the wild wolf slope. Little wild wolf, i’m here. Your attributes must be good.

Oh my God, the entire map is filled with wolves. How are we going to get there? ” then what should I do? i’m only going to pull more and more monsters. i’ll die sooner or later.

“Little Secretary, draw the monsters away. We’ll rush over.”

the little secretary was a little sad. the sadness of being a human shield was that they had to do some physical work, and the ones with the highest risks.

don’t be afraid. If you die, just lie on the ground. When godly equipment bro comes over and clears the nearby monsters, i’ll be able to pull you up.

“are you saying that i’m dead?”

No one paid any more attention to him. Taking advantage of the gap when the wild wolves were lured away, the other three people quickly ran over to Zhang Shan.

wow, this little wild wolf is quite cute. If I had known earlier, I would have played as a Hunter. The little dough was taken away by brother divine weapon, and this little wild wolf has to go to the cannon. I can only summon an ugly heavenly general.

when windling saw the hunter’s tamed pet compared to the taoist’s summoned creature, she was a little indignant.

She was also a little beauty who was obsessed with looks.

“Come on, the heavenly general is so powerful and domineering, and you actually despise him?”

"i won't talk to you guys anymore, i'll tame the little wild wolves first."

the game had been open for a few days, and everyone had some understanding of how to tame pets. they just kept on using the taming skill on the taming target until the taming was successful.

Some people could succeed in taming on their first try, such as Zhang Shan, who had succeeded on his first try. Some unlucky ones had to keep on throwing out skills, and after half an hour, they kept failing.

fortunately, taming was not risky. as long as the skill's cooldown was over, he could continue to cast it.

Zhang Shan was clearing the newly spawned wild wolves around him while watching the wind Cloud Cannon tame the small wild wolves.

[taming in progress: 1%, 2%, taming failed.]

"It's done. It's only 2% and it's already a failure. Can it still succeed?"

"Impetuous, take it slowly. Feng Ling's face was full of disdain.

the taming skill's cooldown time was not too long either. it only took half a minute, and he could quickly cast it again.

When the wind Cloud Cannon's cooldown time was over, he continued to tame it. 1%, taming failed.

"What's going on? is it that difficult?"

Zhang Shan was also a little puzzled. Back then, he had succeeded in one try. Why was he so unlucky when he exchanged for the wind Cloud Cannon?

...

could it have something to do with your luck? your luck is only at four points, pitifully weak.

The wind and cloud Cannon was helpless. Four points of luck was really pathetic.

"Continue trying, I don't believe I can't tame it."

"Hmm, if there's no hint that it can't be tamed, it means it can be tamed. Try a few more times."

[taming in progress: 1%, 2%, 3%, 60%, taming failed.]

It looked like he was going to have a long battle.

"I'll go pick up the little Secretary first. You guys help him clear the wild wolves nearby. Pay attention to maintain health, the wild wolves are almost all critical hits."

alright, hurry up. The two of us can't clear the monsters as fast as the respawn rate.

well, I don't have to be there for long. A few minutes.

zhang shan spent a few minutes to get the secretary out, and the four of them went to farm monsters near the little wild wolf.

As for the wind Cloud Cannon, he could only rely on his pitiful luck to occasionally burst it.

...

level 30 monsters, the experience is really high. It's almost double that of the demon militia.

what's the use of being high? we can't even fight. In the time it takes to kill a wild wolf, we can kill five or six demon militia.

the level suppression is too strong. Our damage is at least halved.

even six-barreled's damage has been significantly suppressed, let alone us. Otherwise, he could've killed one with two shots. He wouldn't even need three shots.

with brother divine equipment's output, it doesn't matter if he suppresses it a little. His output is explosive anyway.

They chatted casually and enjoyed the water. Almost an hour had passed, but the wind Cloud Cannon had not been tamed successfully.

what an unlucky child.

"Fired? you still haven't succeeded?"

no, I failed once when I reached 99%. The wind Cloud Cannon was also depressed. Was it so difficult to get a pet?