

Passive Skills 58

Chapter 58 Successful taming

Forget it, let's not care about this unlucky fellow for now. I'll just focus on killing monsters and leveling up.

Now that Zhang Shan was one against four, his experience growth was extremely slow. There was no other way.

He couldn't just leave them alone. If he went further away to farm, he was afraid that Feng Yun realm and the others would be killed by the wild wolves.

Although Feng Yun realm and the others had good equipment, it was still too difficult for them to kill level 30 wolves.

It was almost the same as fighting a small BOSS, and killing each one was quite difficult.

This was also because they had wind chimes as a support. Otherwise, they could only watch the battle from the side.

Excluding the support role, the few of them added together would probably not be as useful as Zhang Shan's Panda baby.

Eh?

A ray of light rose from the wind Cloud Cannon. He had thought that he had successfully tamed it, but it had actually leveled up.

cannon, you're so shameless. You're leveling up while lying down. The Secretary complained.

"sigh, i don't want to either. besides, i didn't take advantage of you. brother divine artifact didn't even say anything, so what right do you have to speak? you're still a hooligan."

"f * ck, even people who level up while lying down are so confident."

brother cannon, hurry up. If I knew that you were so unlucky, I wouldn't have come with you.

Windling was also very depressed. He had been running for more than half an hour on the road, and taming the pet had taken more than an hour, and he had not succeeded.

Even as a bystander, he couldn't stand it.

"sister windcloud, don't worry. it'll be done soon."

could it be because of the level? in a monster map that is too much higher than the player's level, the pets that respawned are more difficult to tame.

it should be. Otherwise, the cannons wouldn't have taken so long.

"Yeah, no matter how bad his luck is, it shouldn't be that bad."

"Let's wait, we'll succeed."

After they farmed for another half an hour, the wind Cloud Cannon suddenly laughed.

“Wahahaha, I’ve finally succeeded. I’ve finally tamed the cute little wild wolf.”

what’s there to be proud of? it’s the record for the longest Taming time in history.

so what if it takes a long time? slow work produces fine work. Good things take more time.

“It’s a good thing. It can’t be a garbage pet, right?”

“Why don’t you post the little wild Wolf’s attributes for me to see?”

The wind and cloud Cannon displayed the attributes of the tamed little wild wolf.

Little wild wolf (wind Cloud Cannon’s pet, unnamed): Level 1, health points 880, attack 88, defense 20, skill: Wolf race talent (passive)

[werewolf talent: increases the critical hit rate of surrounding allies by 3% within a 50-yard radius.]

Zhang Shan was a little shocked by the attributes. It was a Halo Baby.

Although its attributes were much worse than Zhang Shan’s Panda baby, this Halo was very powerful.

When fighting a BOSS, as long as the little wild wolf was released, everyone’s critical hit rate would increase by 3%. This buff was really powerful.

“f * ck, halo baby, your dog sh * t luck is really good. “the little secretary is jealous. although he can’t bring babies with him, he’s still jealous.

“It’s just average. Its attributes are far worse than brother artifact’s Panda and it only has one pet skill.”

The wind and cloud Cannon was the typical kind of person who would buy a horse with his mouth and smile in his heart. He actually dared to say that it was not ideal. He was really shameless.

“F * ck, if you don’t want it, then let it go. What’s the point of showing off?”

“When it’s done, let’s read a teleport back to the city. We’ve already delayed the six-man squad’s leveling time.”

feng yun realm was a person who cared about his face and hated to take advantage of others. after following zhang shan for so long, he must be feeling uncomfortable.

“It’s fine, it won’t take much time. Leveling up to level 22 requires 1.5 million experience, so it’s not worth mentioning.”

“Hey, is it so difficult to level up to level 22? how are we going to be promoted in the future?”

“What’s the rush? you’d better get to level 20 first before you think about this problem.”

“Let’s go,” Feng Yun realm was the first to return to the city. The others followed him back.

Zhang Shan was once again the only person left on the entire wild wolf slope, quietly farming monsters.

Two days later, Zhang Shan had reached level 24. As for level 25, it was a little difficult. It actually required five million experience.

With Zhang Shan's leveling speed, it would take more than a day. If it was anyone else, it would take more than five to six days.

he was only level 20, and it was already so difficult to level up? The New World allowed players to level up to level 100.

The last few levels, it wouldn't take half a year to level up, right? just thinking about it was incredible.

It was indeed a game that required a long time to play.

Many players had already reached level 20, and most of the big shots in their guilds were already level 20.

After reaching level 20, they did not continue to farm monsters to level up. Instead, they searched for bosses all over the world to kill.

Zhang Shan did not follow them to fight the bosses. It was too time-consuming. Furthermore, they were basically only killing purple or orange bosses.

Even without Zhang Shan's intervention, these big bosses could be easily settled.

...

it was tuesday, and the demon-subduing platform's dungeon entries would be refreshed tomorrow.

Feng Yun realm and the others were planning to take advantage of the fact that they were still level 20 to clear the first floor of the dungeon.

As for the difficulty of the dungeon, it had not been decided yet. It would depend on the progress of their equipment in the next one or two days.

Zhang Shan's level had already exceeded them by too much, and he could not enter the instance dungeon by one level. Hence, they could only rely on themselves this time.

However, it shouldn't be a big problem.

After the Secretary reached level 20, she could exchange for a Red Shield, which greatly increased her HP and defense.

He might have almost reached 30000 HP. He was definitely a blood cow and much stronger than Zhang Shan.

The other bosses had also changed to level 20 equipment. They all had orange equipment, and a small number of them even had red equipment.

Clearing the first floor of the normal mode was not difficult for them at all.

as for the bosses in hard mode and extreme mode, they were still unsure of how strong they were, so they were still struggling.

All of this had nothing to do with Zhang Shan. Anyway, he could only enter the second level of the instance dungeon. After a few days, he would first level up.

...

At that time, he would go to the second floor alone and take it as leveling up and killing monsters. He would not think about the dungeon boss.

Leveling up was more important. The second place on the level leaderboard was almost level 22. He was really close.

I wonder what kind of equipment or skill that 'whatever you want' guy has gotten.

His leveling speed was actually not much slower than Zhang Shan's. One had to know that other than his God-level weapon, he also had a spiritual-level special item.

Their damage output was off the charts.

By right, his leveling speed should be at least two times faster than the others.

The world was really so big, and there were all kinds of lucky people.

Well, no, I didn't get lucky. I got the divine weapon with my own strength.

He couldn't scold himself as well.

during the normal time of farming monsters, zhang shan would go to the forum to browse. from time to time, he would also look at the equipment and level rankings.

in the top ten of the equipment list, other than the weapon in his hand, which was aglu's long-barreled hand cannon, the others were all red equipment.

There were more than 100 pieces of red equipment on the entire list.

Their wind and cloud Guild's luck was pretty good, but the others were not bad either. They had already obtained so many red equipment.