

Passive Skills 91

Chapter 91 The ant mountain help boss wu buy a game helmet and fill in his home address for the express delivery address.

He would go downstairs for dinner and then go online again.

Go to the auction house to check out the ax he was selling and see what the market was like. Don't let there be an awkward silence.

He couldn't bring himself to withdraw an auction item, even though he was just a loser who rented a small apartment in reality.

However, he was still a Big Shot in the New World, so he couldn't do anything that would damage his reputation.

Check the auction progress.

Not bad, it had already reached a price of 1.1 million gold coins, which was slightly higher than the average red equipment.

It was considered a normal price for a level 20 red axe, but the anticipated hot auction scene did not appear.

Similarly, there was no awkward silence.

It seemed like everyone was very rational. Was no one paying for the celebrity effect? This didn't make sense.

After all, it was a weapon dropped by the Guild leader of vertical and horizontal. Shouldn't they be fighting to bid for it?

'Forget it. It's an unexpected fortune anyway. I won't ask for too much since I've gotten more than a million gold coins for free.'

He decided to go to the ant mountain to take a look at the demonized army ants. He didn't know if he could farm them now.

the demonized army ants were level 40 monsters, while zhang shan was only level 25. a level 15 suppression was no joke. it would at least reduce his damage by half.

However, the passive skill was very alluring.

After all, the passive skills of the marching ants were so attractive. No matter how difficult it was, he had to try it out.

His current attack was almost 4000, and with the Panda baby's high HP and defense, he should still be able to farm it. It was just that his farming speed might be very slow.

He teleported to the city gate and headed in the direction of the ant Mountain Map.

First, he wanted to see if boss Wu had entered the game.

Add me as a friend, Daoist priest with a knife.

[system notification: there is no such player. Please enter the correct character name.]

It seemed that the gaming helmet had not been given to him yet. He would add it later.

A level 40 monster map, the distance was terrifying. Zhang Shan estimated that it would take at least 40 to 50 minutes to run.

Every time he had to run to a far map, he couldn't help but complain. Why did the new world's Mount system open so late?

Many of the players were level 20 now. Even if they ran to a level 20 map, it would take a long time.

Did the game producers not consider the players? Was there no mount in this game?

if they didn't have a mount in the future, they probably wouldn't even think about returning to the city when they reached the monster-farming map.

After all, Zhang Shan had to run for 45 minutes for a level 40 map. Those with weaker boots would have to run for an hour.

How long would he have to travel to higher level maps? who could stand this?

It's boring to just run around, so I'll take a look at the level rankings.

Heart moves with me is truly worthy of being called a great power ah, steadily occupying the second rank on the list, already already twenty three ranks.

His leveling speed was not any slower than Zhang Shan's. If he had not died once, he would have been level 24.

The top ten players on the level ranking board were all level 22. There were quite a number of powerful players. One must know that Feng Yun realm and the others were only level 21.

They had been online for quite a while, and their equipment had always been in the lead, but none of them had managed to get into the top ten of the level rankings.

There were hundreds of millions of players in the New World. There would definitely be some powerful people. There might even be some who had not gone offline since the start of the game.

In any case, they could stay in the game cabin for ten days without logging off. There must be some ruthless people like this. Otherwise, how could these people level up so quickly?

He couldn't be too complacent, so he had to continue farming and try to stay at the top of the level leaderboard for a long time.

He couldn't keep using the divine artifact sign forever, and someone else would get it sooner or later. However, he couldn't let someone else take the first place on the level ranking list.

He couldn't be the brother of divine weapons anymore, but he could be the brother of the leaderboard.

There was nothing much to look at on the equipment list. He still only had one divine weapon, and the ranking below it was all red equipment that took turns.

With a difference of a few points in attributes, it was possible to rush into the equipment ranking list.

He closed the ranking list and continued to add people as friends. Daoist priest with blade.

This time, the system didn't tell him that the character name was wrong. Boss Wu should have already entered the game.

"Haha, boss Zhang, I'm here. This novice village is really simple and crude."

"Who cares? you won't be there for long anyway."

that's hard to say. I still have to work during the day. I can only play for a few hours a day. I probably won't be able to leave the novice village for a while.

it's fine, take it slow. After you've spent some time in the game, you can quit your lousy job.

I still have to work. Otherwise, how can I have food to eat? my family depends on my salary for food.

come on, that lousy job of yours is only slightly better than my previous one. You'd better think of a way to make a living by playing games.

let's talk about this later. I can't run out of food now.

don't worry, when you reach level 10, I'll take you to the sky and kill some small bosses. It's not better than you going to work.

let's wait until I earn my first sum of money in the game. It's nonsense if I can't earn money. I can't compare with you. You're the only one who can feed your entire family.

...

"Alright, you're a Taoist priest, right? what's your talent?"

From boss Wu's name, Zhang Shan could guess that he was a Taoist.

Boss Wu liked to play the Taoist profession when he was in college.

a daoist could travel the world with a dog.

the taoist profession in the new world could not tame pets, but there were summoners. after wind chimes learned the skill of summoning a heavenly general, she could summon a heavenly general to help her kill monsters.

The attributes of the heavenly general summoned by the Taoist priest were not bad. It was only slightly inferior to a few top-grade pets, but it was much stronger than the pets of most hunters.

I'm playing as a Daoist priest. My talent is average, so my mana recovery is +5.

"It's alright. Remember not to randomly add skill points. When we leave the novice village, I'll get you a rejuvenation skill, mainly focusing on attack blessing and rejuvenation. The other skills are useless now, so don't learn them even if you get a skill book."

“I know, I’ll go kill some monsters and level up first.”

“go on, chicken-killing demon, hehe.”

After the call ended, Zhang Shan looked at the map.

...

It was really far, and he had only run a short distance.

After two or three days, boss Wu left the novice village. Zhang Shan had brought along a support, and all kinds of mini-bosses could be easily taken down.

Zhang Shan’s level had always been in the lead, and the maps where he farmed monsters were rarely visited by players, so the chances of encountering a boss were very high.

Farming more bosses and selling more purple and orange equipment could fill up his little vault and improve boss Wu’s life at the same time.

He could be considered to have made a name for himself, but the iron Brothers were still suffering, which was too unreasonable.

It wasn’t good to give him the money directly, so he had to give him some face.

After a long journey, Zhang Shan finally arrived at the map of ant mountain.

On the map, there were many small hills and groups of huge army ants moving back and forth.

There were too many army ants, and they were still at the entrance of the map. It was going to be difficult.

Let’s try using the Panda baby to lure a team of army ants.

Fortunately, the Panda baby had a lot of health and would not die so easily. Zhang Shan planned to farm it at the entrance of the map.

Level 40 monsters were too strong, and it would be easy to die if they went deep into the map.