Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1453

“What else would it be?”

Heather's expression darkened as she snatched the report away from Jim. “Are you suggesting that Aura wasn't Mother and Father's daughter, and instead Luna is?

“It's already been confirmed that Aura was their daughter, so you're just making this DNA report up to mislead us! “

With that, she flipped the folder open.

As she had expected, the information within the file confirmed that she and Aura were blood-related, whereas neither of them was related to Charles or Rosalyn!

A glimmer of malice flashed through Heather's eyes. She extended her hands as though she were about to tear the papers apart. “Aura is already dead, so why are you choosing to insult her using this? Do you have no heart?”

Before she could rip the folder apart, Jim snatched it back from her and sneered, “Heather, you say that I faked this report, so why are you so desperate to destroy it? Are you afraid that Father and Mother will see its contents?”

As he said this, he handed the report to Charles and added, “It's okay; I understand how you'd think I'm trying to insult Aura. After all, you're her sister, and of course you'd protect her, just like how Luna and I are siblings, and I'll always protect her, too.”

With that, he took out a transparent resealable bag that contained a few strands of hair within it. “I pulled these hairs off Luna's head just now.

“Aura's body has already been burnt to ashes, so you can't tell me these belong to Aura, can you? If you don't believe me, then I'll go inside and pull a few more off Luna's head.”

With that, Jim reached up and plucked a strand of hair off his head, then Charles". He tossed all these hairs into the transparent bag and said, "With the advanced technology we have now, it'll take only a few hours to know the DNA comparison results. "Do you want to take this risk, Heather?"

The color drained from Heather's face when she heard this. Judging from the way Heather looked, as well as her anxiousness to destroy the DNA report...

Charles could put two and two together. After all, he was not an idiot. He furrowed his brows and flipped the folder open. As soon as he laid eyes on the text, he could feel the blood rise in his chest.

Jim quickly placed a few photos he had brought from Banyan City into Charles" hand and said, "These are the pictures of Luna before she underwent her plastic surgery. And this is one of her and Joshua Lynch. I'm sure it's convincing enough."

Charles" hands started to tremble as he gazed at the photos in front of him.

That face...was identical to how Rosalyn had looked when she was younger!

However, after getting married to him, Rosalyn had been preoccupied with taking care of both him and the Landry Group. On top of that, she even had to formulate drugs to suppress his uncontrollable emotions...

Because of this, she had been under so much stress that she aged quickly, so much so that he did not even realize it until it had happened.

Therefore, as soon as he saw these photos of Luna, Charles could not help but feel like crying.

He suppressed his emotions and lifted his head to glare at Heather. "Aura is your biological sister?"

Heather"s face was as pale as a ghost. At this point, she knew that she had no way of hiding the truth anymore, so she grabbed onto Charles's arm and started sobbing, "Father, I...I had no idea!

"I always thought that...Aura was you and Mother's daughter...and Luna is my biological sister...
"I...I had no idea about any of this..."
She bit her lip and added, "Maybe she had tricked me, just like how she had deceived you...
I believed her when she said she was your real daughter..."
With that, she lifted her head to stare at Charles pitifully. "But Father...you and Mother...didn't notice this either, did you?"
Charles felt as though someone had stabbed him in his heart.

Charles narrowed his eyes and pushed Heather's body away from the glass window.
Inside the room, Rosalyn smiled as she chatted with Luna.
Charles watched the weak smile on Rosalyn's face through the glass. It had been a long time since he last saw her smile.
Ever since she married him, she had been subjected to nothing but jeers and taunts.
People called her a mistress and accused her of breaking Charles and Lucy apart...
She was called plenty of insulting things, yet she had endured all of them through the years.
She would always tell her that everything was fine, but he had not seen her smile like this for a long time.
Charles could not stop himself from pushing the door open.
As soon as the door was swung open, Luna's voice rang out from within the room, "Nigel is a skilled hacker, Neil is a kind and loving boy, and Nellie is a talented designer.
"The three of them are extremely well-behaved children. If you... If you can survive this, you'll have a chance to meet them in the future..."

When she heard the sound of the door creaking behind her, Luna let go of Rosalyn's hand and stood up, gently wiping away her tears. Then, she let out an exhale and said, "Mrs.

Landry, it's getting late now, so I'd better go home and rest. The children will be worried about me if I sleep too late.

"We'll meet again in the future! "

With that, she gave Rosalyn a small bow and turned to leave.

"Luna...Luna! " Seeing that she was about to leave, Rosalyn quickly got out of her bed to grab hold of her.

All the IV drips and electrodes attached to her body were pulled apart, causing the machines and medical equipment to clatter onto the floor.

The IV drip bottle crashed onto the floor and broke into smithereens.

However, Rosalyn, who had always been gentle and cautious, took no notice of this at all and sprinted toward the door to grab hold of Luna's arm.

Luna turned around when she heard the crash behind her.

The first thing she saw was Rosalyn's injured feet as she stepped onto the shards of glass, causing blood to seep out across the floor.

However, Rosalyn stared at Luna's face as though she could not feel any pain at all. "You...

Please remember to come back and visit me.

"I'll hold on. No matter what you choose... I still hope that you'll come back to visit me! "

Luna clenched her teeth. Even though she was feeling all sorts of emotions in her mind, she did not show them on her face. Instead, she stared at Rosalyn's bare, bloody feet and replied, "I will. You should get some rest, Mrs. Landry."

With that, she turned and left.

"Mother! " Jim stormed into the room, picked Rosalyn up, and placed her back onto her

Charles glanced first at Jim, then at Heather, who was standing expressionless at the door.

Finally, he could not help chasing after Luna and stopping her as she waited for the elevator.

“Luna! Dad wants to have a chat with you.”

Luna turned to glance at him impassively. “Dad? I didn’t know you were a comedian, Mr.

A twinge of pain shot through Charles’s heart when he heard this. He let go of Luna’s arm and said in a low voice, “I know...I don’t deserve to be your father...

“In the past...I shouldn’t have sent you to the orphanage...just because I was unwilling to admit my relationship with Rosalyn and admit that I had betrayed Lucy...”

Luna closed her eyes and let out a bitter chuckle.

When she was in the ward with Rosalyn, she pitied her because she knew that, like herself, Rosalyn was a woman who would sacrifice everything for the man she loved.

Maybe she had inherited Rosalyn’s loyalty.

After Lucy died, Rosalyn knew fully well that Charles’s heart did not belong to her, yet she willingly looked after him and helped him take care of the Landry Group as a friend.

This went on for three years until, one day, Charles had too much to drink and mistook her for Lucy.

The two of them slept together, which led to Luna’s birth.

However...

Charles was unwilling to admit that he had slept with Rosalyn since this was a betrayal of his promise to Lucy. Therefore, he sent Luna, who was so young that she could not even remember anything yet, to an orphanage in Sea City.

When Rosalyn found out, she quickly rushed to the orphanage to search for her. Joseph, who had been working at the orphanage at that time, saw this and switched out his daughter Heather with Luna.

This was how Heather had become the heiress of the Landry family, while Luna was raised by the Gibsons, who had never treated her as their own, no matter how outstanding she was. All of this was Charles' fault.

However, Rosalyn had told Luna not to blame Charles for this.

"It was all my fault. I shouldn't have given birth to you without letting Charles know, and I shouldn't have told your grandfather about this. If your grandfather hadn't forced Charles to marry me, he wouldn't have abandoned you out of desperation..."

As soon as Luna recalled what Rosalyn had told her with her barely audible voice in the ward, she felt as though someone was pricking her heart.

She stared at the man before her and could not understand why someone as kind and gentle as Rosalyn would sacrifice so much for him.

Charles felt his heart leap into his chest when he saw the cold look in Luna's eyes. He could not help recalling what had happened when he had abandoned Luna at the orphanage...

At that time, Luna had just learned to walk and talk. When he turned and left, he could hear her high-pitched wails. "Daddy!"

At that time, the sound of her voice pained him so much that he could barely breathe, but...he still chose to leave her.

He had even thought that without this child, he would not have to marry Rosalyn anymore and that he would be able to keep his promise to Lucy.

More than 20 years passed...

Luna's eyes were still as clear as he remembered, but she would never call him Daddy again.

At this moment, the look in Luna's eyes was so murderous that it was as though she were looking at her mortal enemy.

Charles' heart sank, and he got onto his knees with a thud. He reached out to grab hold of Luna's hands. "My daughter... I will never be able to make this up to you..."

Luna was shocked by Charles' sudden action. She quickly flung his hands away and exclaimed, "Mr. Landry! Please get up! I don't need you to kneel for me, and I'm not your daughter either! "

Heather, who had been watching all of this unfold from a distance, curled her lips into a sneer and said, "Luna, can't you forgive Father, knowing how guilty he's feeling?

"Father is getting old now, and his knees are brittle, so why are you letting him kneel for you?"

Luna bit her lip and glared at Heather, then lowered her head. "Mr. Landry! Please get up! I have nothing to do with you at all!

"I was no longer your daughter nor a member of the Landry family ever since you abandoned me at the orphanage. Please let go of me! "

However, Charles gripped Luna's hand with all his might, determined not to let go of her.

"Luna, " he bleated in a low, hoarse voice. "You saw how your mother looked. If you hadn't shown up, she wouldn't have survived past today at all. Please, I beg you...

"Please don't go. Stay with us, will you?

"I admit all the mistakes I had committed in the past, and I promise I'll make it up to you in the future "She doesn't need you to make it up to her, nor will she stay." Before Charles could finish his sentence, a cold voice rang out from the direction of the stairwell.

Both Luna and Charles froze, then glanced in the direction of the voice.

Joshua, dressed entirely in black, was standing at the stairwell, his lips curled into a cold sneer.

It seemed that he had been here for a while.

Seeing that the two of them were staring at him, Joshua smirked and strode over to them.

Then, he flung Charles' hand away from Luna and pulled her into his arms.

Charles was enraged by this, and he clenched his fists in fury. "Joshua Lynch! "

How dare this man appear before him?

He still had not gotten over what Joshua had done to Landry Group, which had almost rendered them bankrupt! How dare this man appeared before him and even put his hands around his daughter?

"Yes, that's me." Joshua curled his lips into a smirk and pulled Luna's body closer. "Let me introduce you, Mr. Landry. This is Luna.

"She's my wife. She was in the past, and she'll continue to be my wife in the future.

"The Landry and Lynch families have been nemeses for many years, and for my wife to visit

Mrs. Landry while she's gravely ill is already a generous favor. Please don't overstep your boundaries, Mr. Landry.

"She'll never return to the Landry family, nor will she need you to make up for your mistakes."

With that, Joshua and Luna disappeared into the elevator.

However, as soon as they entered, Charles grabbed hold of Joshua's arm and shouted with bloodshot eyes, "You let go of my daughter! "

"Your daughter?" Joshua snickered as though he had heard the world's most hilarious joke.

"Did your family ever raise her, even if just for a day? Not only did you not, but you even took in Aura, the woman who had been targeting Luna all these years, as your Own.

"If it weren't for you, Aura wouldn't have made my son lose his memories, nor would he hurt Luna and me!

"If it weren't for you, my daughter wouldn't have gotten poisoned, and Granny Lynch wouldn't have died just to give the antidote to my daughter."

As he said this, Joshua flung Charles' hand away. "Mr. Landry, my sons and daughter are also Luna's sons and daughter.

"You abandoned Luna in Sea City and helped other people harm her, so what right do you have to ask Luna to return to your side?"

With that, Joshua pressed the close button. The elevator doors slid close.

Joshua pulled Luna into his arms and held her tightly. "Luna. "Please come home with me, okay?"
