

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 2824

Chapter 2824

When Thomas and Yannie arrived at Hughes Residence, the whole place seemed to be in chaos.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes could not seem to get in touch with Steven at all, nor could they find Denise anywhere. The two of them were absolutely sick with worry.

At this moment, Kate was sitting elegantly on the sofa, consoling Mrs. Hughes as best as she could while ordering her men to go in search of the missing siblings. "Mrs. Hughes, please don't overthink this. Steven and Denise are grown-ups now, so I'm sure they're fine.

"Perhaps they've found a private place to catch up as brother and sister."

"Catch up?" Mrs. Hughes furrowed her brow. "What do they have to catch up on when they see each other every day? Besides-

She took out her phone and showed Kate the video that was taken at the entrance of Howard Group. "Look at this! Steven was at Howard Group this morning, and he even stood up for that bitch, Gwen!

"Since Denise didn't leave the house with him, they're probably not together at this moment!"

The more she thought about this, the more upset Mrs. Hughes became. "Steven must be with that bitch right now. We must find them immediately and bring Steven home as soon as possible!"

"She's right." Mr. Hughes sighed. "Steven is a kind soul, and that Gwen certainly is a looker. If Steven can't resist her deceit and end up agreeing to help her recover Luke's memories...that would be a disaster."

Mrs. Hughes burst into tears when she heard this. "That's right. That body belongs to Luke, but we forcefully erased all his memories and consciousness to replace them with Steven's. If they somehow find a way to recover Luke's consciousness...all our efforts would've been for nothing!"

With that, she turned to stare at Kate longingly as though seeking an answer from her. "Katie, tell me, will it be hard for them to find a way to retrieve Luke's memories?"

"Yes, it will." Kate nodded when she saw the concern in Mrs. Hughes' eyes. "Don't worry. We've spent a lot of time and effort erasing Luke's memories in the first place, so it definitely won't be easy trying to retrieve it. However..."

She furrowed her brow. "We still have to find them as soon as we can. Steven is too unsuspecting. The longer he stays in Gwen's company, the higher the probability of something bad happening."

Kate was not stupid; she had seen the way Steven looked at Gwen.

Whether it was Luke in the past or Steven in the present, both of them seemed to have fallen for Gwen.

Kate was not worried about Steven regaining Luke's memories; the doctor who had been in charge of Steven's case was one of the most outstanding in this field—not even Dr. Liddell could compare.

Therefore, even if they wanted to, Kate knew that it would take them years before they could restore Luke's memories and consciousness.

However, she was worried about the possibility of Steven falling for Gwen.

This was the most fatal flaw in their plan.

Just as the three of them were pondering over Steven and Denise's whereabouts, someone kicked the front door down.

Thomas, Yannie, and their group of bodyguards stormed through the door.

"Mr. and Mrs. Hughes." Thomas strode into the living room. "May I ask, where is your precious and beloved daughter hiding?"

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes exchanged a nervous glance.

A split second later, Mr. Hughes stood up. "Mr. Howard, may I ask what is the reason you're looking for Denise?"

Thomas could not be bothered to entertain him at all. "My daughter has gone missing, and Denise is the prime suspect. Now tell me, where the hell is she?"
