Pursuing My Ex-Wife Is not Easy chapter 2923–The scenery outside the window was a blur.

Startled, Luna looked at Joshua in confusion, and her lips stretched unnaturally. “Joshua, what are you talking about? How is it possible that you’d do anything I can’t forgive?”

Seven years ago, she mistakenly thought he had wronged her, something she just could not forgive.

After seven years, she finally knew the truth and that it was just a misunderstanding. The man she was looking at never did anything that would truly hurt her. Even if he did, it was not his intention.

Thus, Luna found it hard to imagine what Joshua could do to result in her not forgiving him.

Joshua paused when he saw Luna’s confused eyes. In the end, he could bear to tell Luna the truth and sighed. “What I mean is...we have a whole lifetime ahead of us. During these periods, would you forgive me... if I did something you deem unforgivable?”

Luna stopped. She took a deep breath and started to give Joshua’s question some serious thinking.

“Joshua.” She gave him a serious look. “If it is like what you said, you did something that I was unable to forgive you. Undoubtedly, I won’t be able to forgive you. It is undebatable.”

She curled her lips into a smile and extended her hand out to grab Joshua’s hand, “But...I’m not a fussy one, small matters won’t bother me. You haven’t done anything that I don’t think I can’t forgive you for now. I trust that it’ll never happen in the future too.”

Joshua was stunned. He sighed and pulled her into his arms to embrace her tightly.

While she was enjoying the warm temperature of Joshua’s body, she lamented, “Joshua, I hope after tonight, our lives will return to normalcy just peace. I envy Anne and John a lot, you know? The three of them live together peacefully without any turbulence going on in their lives. What a wonderful and happy way to live.

“Anne told me that John’s business is getting better. Perhaps a year or two from now, she’ll open a small plastic surgery hospital when Sammie goes to kindergarten. She wants to make girls like me, who were disfigured, pretty again... Oh, how I envy them.

“This year alone, you’ve expanded your business while many things happened in my family. But...I really envy when people can live their lives peacefully and quietly. I don’t want to be constantly worrying about any more ups and downs in my life.”

Her words pricked Joshua’s heart like needles, and his heart ached agonizingly.

He hugged his wife tightly and closed his eyes.

Luna truly treasured having Anne as her friend. Anne and John’s happy married life was something she looked up to.

What if she knew their happiness was ruined? How would she react?

What if she found out Anne’s death was related to her? What sort of reaction would she have?

Joshua sighed. He did not dare to think of the possibility.

Soon, the car arrived at the evening gown shop.

Joshua adjusted his emotion and brought Luna into the shop. When they were in the shop, Luna started to pick the gown she liked.

As she usually would, she would take a selfie in front of the mirror and send it into the chat after changing into every evening gown choice.

Bonnie was the first to reply.

[So pretty! It shows off your curve.]

[I’m not interested in these,] replied Rachel.

Yannie also joined the conversation.

[Wow! Luna looks good in everything!]

Luna tried on a few gowns and everyone was complimenting her for looking so beautiful in those evening gowns.

Suddenly, Bonnie felt something was wrong.

[Why is Anne so quiet today?]
