

THE PRINCESS CONSORT HAS A LETHAL DESTINY

Chapter 1007 Animal

At that time, Liuming had a vague feeling that the gift his master had asked him to give him was not anything good, so he was quite nervous and afraid.

He also knew that his master seemed to hate the owner of the Fortune Pavilion. He wanted to contribute and ask his master to teach him more, so he had dressed himself up carefully, changed into a gray robe, and even made a fake eye, sticking it on his eyelids...

He just thought that the owner of the Fortune Pavilion was a woman, and he was so scary, so the other party would definitely feel uneasy. In that case, he could complete the task his master had given him better.

"H-How did you know... it was me...?" Taoist Master Liuming could not help but ask.

"I guessed." Xie Qiao gave him a disdainful look. "What does your master usually do at home?"

"No, I don't know..."

"Then where would he go if he went out?" Xie Qiao asked again.

Taoist Master Liuming still shook his head. "I really don't know anything..."

Xie Qiao thought for a moment, she looked at the guards and asked, "Did you search the house they lived in?"

“We did. As the young Taoist had run away, we only took out the things in the young Taoist’s house,” the guard replied respectfully.

“That’s perfect.” Xie Qiao pursed her lips into a smile. “Bring them up and let me take a look.”

Soon, the things were brought up. There were not many. Other than the bedding, there were a few ordinary books and some daily necessities.

e was

Xie Qiao took a look at the bedding and found that it was clean. There was not a single strand of hair on it. It could be seen that Wan Jiulei was indeed a very smart and careful enemy. He knew that she was very capable, so he did not leave any evidence on his bed. Hair and blood were very important.

However...

It was okay if there was no hair.

Xie Qiao walked to the side of the row of cabinets and found a small bottle at the bottom.

She let out the ghouls inside.

It was a dog.

The ghouls of animals were weak. Many animals went down directly after they died. There were also some that were reluctant to leave the human world. However, they were not as powerful as humans, so most of the ghouls were not formed, just like the ethereal fog in this world, they floated around and disappeared as they floated.

However, there were very few that could maintain their appearance when they were alive.

This was the case for the soul of this dog.

She had received it when she was at the Water Moon Temple.

The reason why she did not send it down to reincarnation was that this dog had a lot of resentment.

This dog was too miserable when it was alive. It was initially kept by a profligate son and was used to scare people. It was born with a good sense of smell and was fierce enough to listen to its master. When its master told it to bite someone, it would recklessly rush over and only know how to complete its master's orders.

However, after it listened to his last order, it bit a person to death. In order to repay the deceased, its master just casually tortured it to death and threw it to the family of the deceased.

When it was alive, it committed evil, and it was unwilling to accept it. Its resentment condensed, allowing its spirit to maintain its form like a human.

However, it had resentment, and it was an animal. After death, it would always bite people.

That person's family often heard dogs barking, and they thought it was a ghoul, so they asked her to collect it.

This dog was hateful, but also pitiful. It was plagued by resentment and had a muddle-headed life, so she collected it and kept it by her side. She wanted to resolve all of its resentment before sending it down.

However, animals were all stubborn, so the resentment was not easy to resolve. So until now, it still stayed by her side.

“Da Fu,” Xie Qiao shouted into the air.

The dog was much better now. The resentment on its body was still there, but it was also relatively faint.

It was very big. Its entire body was covered in black hair, and only there was a wisp of white on its forehead. It looked awe-inspiring. After hearing her voice, its voice sounded like it was choked with sobs as it wagged its tail.