

THE PRINCESS CONSORT HAS A LETHAL DESTINY

Chapter 66: Lonely Destiny

Xie Pinggang's earlobes were a little red. He seemed a little pissed too.

He was in his 20s and should be at his peak. How was it possible that he did not want a wife!?

However, he could not just marry anyone. He was not in the mountain stronghold now. In order to really get rid of the name of being a family of bandits, the Xie family had to follow the rules.

They had to follow the rules even more than others!

His and Pinghuai's generation was hopeless. After all, their fame had been etched. There was no way for them to change it.

Nonetheless, the next generation must be obedient and sensible!

The thing was that he did not even have a wife to bear a sensible child for him. He was thinking of marrying an official's daughter, who was knowledgeable and smart. The appearance was not important while having good behavior was the most important thing.

A lady like this... Even a low-ranking official's daughter would have many men waiting to marry her.

Moreover, the outsiders thought that he was a demon who would beat up his wife. They were worried that he would kill their daughter with a slap, so nobody would consider marrying him.

He felt helpless about that!

If he was still single a few years later, he would be left with no choice. He would have to marry anyone just to pass the bloodline.

Forget that he was considering doing that—Xie Qiao thought he had an unlucky face.

The other aspects of his life were fine, but when it came to marriage... The chance was slim.

As Xie Qiao thought about it, she suddenly came to a realization. She held her head low and began to tell Xie Pinggang's fortune by analyzing his birth information.

He was her biological brother after all, so she knew about his birth information.

She was stunned as she analyzed.

He was born between 9 p.m. and 3 a.m. Solitary and lonely, so Xie Pinggang had a lonely destiny?

The Loneliness Star was the Star of Solitude, and there was the Star of Widow as well. His fate even intersected with the Tianxu Star and the Tianku Star. It made the terrible destiny worse.

Men were worried about loneliness, while being widows was taboo for women. If one had such destiny, the former would be incomprehensible, while the latter would be unromantic!

People with lonely destiny were independent, strong, but a little stubborn. They were lone wolves, so all possible romance would stay far away from them!

Moreover...

Now it seemed their mother, Ms. Peng, was pretty unfortunate.

Forget that her daughter had a lethal destiny, now her son, Xie Pinggang, had a lonely destiny. As soon the Loneliness Star entered one's Self Palace, they would definitely harm one of their six family members in life!

It also meant that apart from Xie Qiao, the other reason her mother had a difficult delivery might be caused by...

Xie Pinggang's destiny.

"What are you mumbling?" Xie Pinggang was starving.

"Eldest Brother, would you consider becoming a Taoist master or a monk? If you do either, you'll definitely be successful tens of years later," Xie Qiao said while smiling.

It was futile to rush.

There was a way to break everything. Her eldest brother's issue could be considered difficult, but it could be considered simple too.

Every misfortune was related to the five elements. One could solve their bad luck by using the five elements and the benefit of Yin and Yang.

However, nothing could be changed immediately. One would have to cultivate their destiny.

Did he want to get married? He would have to wait!

However, everything had its cause and effect. There was a big possibility that their ancestors had caused the Xie family's grandchildren to have terrible destinies.

Perhaps, the Xie family's ancestral grave had been placed somewhere unsuitable, or their ancestors had done something evil back then. It made sense that the karma was passed down to the bloodline.

Xie Pinggang tossed the tools in his hands. He was pissed.

He walked over in big steps, sat on the stone bench, and downed a cup of tea quickly. "What nonsense are you talking about? Me being a monk? Aren't you worried that the temple would be destroyed!?"

"I'm being serious. Eldest Brother, you're destined to be lonely. It's rather difficult for you to marry a wife," Xie Qiao said slowly.

"Nonsense!" Xie Pinggang was furious upon hearing that, but he suddenly came to a realization. "Did that bloody old Taoist master teach you that!?"
