

THE PRINCESS CONSORT HAS A LETHAL DESTINY

Chapter 751: I'll Wait for You to Die

Xie Pinggang had prepared a complete set. Beside the coffin that Xie Pinggang was lying in, there was an empty coffin.

The sudden death of the Xie family members had stunned the neighbors. However, the Xie family kept their mouths shut. They only heard that a son of the Xie family had died.

However, outsiders did not know who died.

Xie Pinggang sent the coffin out of the city.

He found a place and asked someone to dig a hole.

"Eldest Sister, have a safe journey." Xie Pinggang pretended to say something, "Let's bury her."

Xie Pinghuai's mind was a little muddled and he only felt that he was drifting.

He did not know where he was. After hearing his eldest brother's voice, he opened his mouth weakly and grabbed the inside of the coffin. He tried to speak but he could not make a sound.

He was so hungry and thirsty that he could not even open his eyes. He was definitely going to die.

He had let his eldest sister down. His eldest brother was a beast. He had clearly made a mistake, but he had gotten his eldest sister to die with him!

If he had known this would happen, he would have died first. He would not have implicated his eldest sister like this!

His eldest sister's health was lacking to begin with. She had been thrown out to be raised since she was young. It was not easy for her to come back, and now... she was killed by her own brother!

It was too pitiful, eldest sister was too pitiful!

Xie Pinghuai could not cry either. There was not even any saliva left. How would he have any tears?

He was in despair.

"Eldest Sister has been buried, then... let's bury this kid as well," Xie Pinggang said indifferently.

Everyone began to carry the coffin down.

Suddenly, the rope broke with a thump!

It was still quite a distance away from the hole. The entire coffin was smashed, and the lid of the coffin was blown away!

It was dusk, and the sky was filled with red clouds. Although the sunlight was not blinding, the light shone right in front of him. At that moment, Xie Pinghuai thought he saw heaven.

His whole body shook, and he fell to the ground in a daze. He squinted. A moment later, his vision became clearer.

Around him, there were shadows of trees, dust, the fragrance of plants, and... the faces of many members of the Xie family. They were all a little pale...

Xie Pinggang frowned. "This is really bad luck. Why is this coffin broken? Forget it, just fill it with soil. I don't want that lid anymore!"

Xie Pinggang gave the order and the servants began to dig into the coffin like puppets.

In an instant, Xie Pinghuai felt the earth-shattering soil crashing down on his head. He was filled with resentment, and with his last bit of strength, he stood up and said in a hoarse voice, "I-I'm not dead!"

Xie Pinggang looked down at the pit from above, "You're not dead? You should die soon, right? Look at your bloody clothes, and your pale face. I'm afraid that you won't be able to return to the city. You'll die by then. I'll have to come here again.

"How about... I wait outside. I'll wait for you to die, then I'll bury you. Is that alright? But hurry up, I have to go back before the city gates are closed." Xie Pinggang's face was emotionless.

Xie Pinghuai's heart was trembling.

He had no strength, but no one was helping him.

At this moment, everyone looked at him as if they were looking at a dead person...

"Where's Eldest Sister..." his voice sounded like that of an old man. It was weak.

Xie Pinggang pointed at a grave beside him. "She's over there. Before you die, you can get out and pay your respects to her. That's fine too."

Xie Pinghuai's pupils constricted, and he choked. He did not know where his strength came from, but he actually started to move. He stepped on the coffin and climbed up.. His body directly fell onto the soil, looking extremely pitiful.