

THE PRINCESS CONSORT HAS A LETHAL DESTINY

Chapter 765: Do You Think I'm Blind

Xie Pinggang was definitely going to save her.

He immediately rode his horse and chased after the carriage!

There were not many commoners on this street of the criminal division, and it was not a busy city either. It would not crash into the innocents, but this horse actually rushed into the streets at an extremely fast speed!

When he looked again, he saw that its tail was actually on fire!

Not only that, the flames also landed on the curtain of the carriage. In a short while, the carriage was on fire.

Dong Yiyun was trapped in the carriage. The wooden carriage coupled with the strong wind caused the flames to burn extremely quickly!

Dong Yiyun was scared silly. The flames spread to her body in just a short while and swept over her dress.

Slam!

Xie Pinggang raised his blade and split the roof of the carriage open. The burning carriage was fragile and the wooden planks were scattered all over the ground. Xie Pinggang bent down and reached out to grab her. He pulled her onto his horse and looked at the flames on her dress, he even swiftly pulled it open, and the initially thin dress was instantly torn open.

Dong Yiyun was completely stunned.

She only felt that her entire body was in pain from being roasted by the flames. Just when she thought that she would definitely die, her body flew into the sky...

Then...

She felt a broad chest on her back, as well as...

A cold touch on her legs.

Her clothes were ruined...

Her expression changed drastically.

The horse was burned to death in a short while. Due to the shock, although there were not many commoners, there were still some imperial court offices nearby. There were many people inside, and they saw what happened...

Dong Yiyun really felt that her time was coming. These things that happened to her were enough to kill her.

“Ha, you’re really unlucky.” Xie Pinggang was actually gloating. After saying this, he glanced at her legs. They were quite fair. Then, he tore off his outer garment and wrapped it around her body. “This is great. I have to marry you even if I don’t want to. Did you do this on purpose?”

Dong Yiyun shook her head with a bitter face.

She really did not. She just thought that she was going to leave soon and wanted to take a peek.

However, when she saw him, she could not help but want an answer.

Her eyes were full of tears. After Xie Pinggang put her down, he despised her even more. "What are you crying for? Is such a trivial matter worth your tears? Besides, didn't I say that I would marry you? Go home and tell your father that we're engaged."

"Don't be angry..." Dong Yiyun looked at him nervously.

"I'm not angry at all! I'm not angry. Why should I be?" Xie Pinggang was really not angry. He chopped some wood earlier. His imposing manner was more compelling since he was in the state of war...

What was there to be upset about getting a wife for nothing?

However, he knew that he was not suitable for marriage. He would go back and ask Master Mo or the grand preceptor. He would get engaged first and see when it was appropriate for the wedding to happen.

He had carelessly touched this lady's fair legs just now. With so many people watching, it was unknown how many people had caught a glimpse of her. If he did not propose marriage, this young lady would really seek death.

Dong Yiyun's mind was in a mess.

The coachman rushed over. "Second Young Lady! It's all my fault! But I don't know how this horse got caught on fire..."

Dong Yiyun did not blame the coachman. After all, no one wanted this to happen.

However, Xie Pinggang snickered and placed the big blade on the coachman's neck. "Do you think I'm blind? Did you throw something aside after I got on the horse?"

He heard that clear and crisp sound!

After Xie Pinggang finished speaking, he strode toward the spot where he was. When he reached that spot, he really saw broken glass tiles on the ground.

"I know that this thing can start a fire. In the cases that I had worked earlier, there were quite a few people who used this to harm others.. Since you dare to commit a crime in front of me, I think you must have a death wish! Tell me! Who ordered you to do this?!"
