

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 436

Gosh.

All the boys felt their hearts shattering.

Meanwhile, the moment the girls saw David, their eyes started twinkling.

He was so handsome and so charming!

David was handsome when he was in high school, but his body was a little thin. Plus, his melancholic eyes at that time also captured the hearts of many female classmates.

Although he was delivering food every day, female students in high school were not as realistic as the female students in the university.

At that time, there were still many girls who had crushes on David.

Clay widened his eyes as he stared at David and Celia.

He had made countless plans to get close to Celia during this class reunion.

It was his dream in high school and he had always been pursuing Celia.

Even though Celia never paid any attention to him, he had never been able to forget Celia after all these years.

Celia even appeared in his dreams countless times.

However, the moment David brought Celia in, all of his plans seemed meaningless.

Clay's eyes gradually turned blood red.

The goddess of his dreams was actually hand in hand with a former poor classmate.

He was on the verge of blowing up.

"Hello, everyone. It's been so long and I miss you all so much. I miss the times in high school a lot," David said while beaming.

"Hello, everyone," Celia greeted everyone too.

When the two of them spoke, they managed to pull the frozen classmates back to reality.

Clay came back to his senses too. He felt that he had embarrassed himself so he bowed his head quickly.

“David... You... You and Celia? You guys...” One of the male classmates stammered and asked.

“Celia is my girlfriend now,” David smiled and answered.

“Damn! David, you’re the man!” After a classmate said that, he lifted his thumb at David.

“David, you’re so amazing. You’re my idol. You even manage to take down Goddess Celia.” Another male classmate lifted his thumb at David too.

Another male classmate pretended to be sad and said, “David! Give Goddess Celia back to us!

“David, you shattered my dreams! I hate you!”

One female classmate said, “What are you all doing? I think David and Celia are perfect together.”

“Yeah, I think they’re perfect for each other too. They’re like a golden couple, a match made in heaven!”

“I agree!”

“Me too!”

The room became lively again, even becoming livelier than before.

Despite being jealous of David, Celia was not their cup of tea even if David were not in the picture. Thus, they recovered after a short while.

Clay was the only one who could not recover from this news. He was extremely jealous, but he still had to wear a smile on his face.

This forced smile look ugly, and not as natural as before.

After David and Celia greeted everyone, they found a place to sit.

David was chatting with a few male classmates that he was close to while Celia spoke to the female classmates next to her.

I’m A Quadrillionaire chapter 437

“Rice Cake, what are you doing now?” David asked a stocky classmate next to him.

Rice Cake's name was Colby Rice. He was one of David's best friends in high school. Since their families were poor, they would often work part-time jobs together.

Since Colby's last name was Rice, everyone gave him the nickname Rice Cake.

He was not angry about this, and he had a smile on his face every day.

Only David knew that this kid had even lower self-esteem than him.

What harm could a nickname do if he could please his classmates and get along with everyone?

"Dave, I'm working on the construction site in Shu City with my dad now. I can't compare with you since I'm not as smart as you. You got into the nationally renowned South River University even while you were working while studying," Colby said in envy.

He truly envied David.

Aside from getting into South River University, he was even dating Goddess Celia now.

Colby's father used to compare him with David, and he would ask Colby to learn more from David.

However, what could he do?

Talent was needed for studies. David was smart and he was stupid.

When the two worked part-time together, the boss would always compliment David while he never got any praise.

However, Colby had a very good advantage, which was that although others had always praised David and used him as a negative yardstick, he would only feel envious but never have the slightest bit of jealousy and hatred. Instead, he felt that it was his honor that someone like David could be his friend, which made him very happy..

That was why David had always had a good relationship with him.

Colby was not a sly individual, and he was sincere to his friends.

Plus, he would not feel jealousy or hatred just because his friends around him were doing better than him.

"Rice Cake, have you ever thought about going out there to see the world? It might be even more spectacular than you think," David asked.

“I want to, but my dad won’t let me. He said I don’t have education and skills so I can only be a rubbish collector if I go to a big city,” Colby said sadly.

“Rice Cake, if you want to get out of Shu City to experience a different life. Call me after the reunion and I’ll arrange something for you,” David said after thinking about it.

He felt that if he could help his classmates that were close to him, he should.

It only took a miniscule amount of effort for him.

Right now, a sentence from him would be enough to change the life of a normal person.

This was one of the reasons he came to the reunion.

He wanted to come here to reminisce about his high school life and also see some of his classmates with whom he was close to.

If he could help them, he would.

“Really? Thank you, Dave! If my dad learns I’m going with you, he’ll surely agree. Back then, my dad always said that you’d have a promising future and I should follow you,” Colby said happily.

As long as he went back and told his father that David was the one who invited him, his father would surely agree.

Back then, his father would tell him that he should follow in David’s footsteps.

“We’re all classmates so we should help each other. Right, where is King Kong? What’s he doing now?” David asked.

King Kong was also David’s good friend in high school.

Since he was tall and had long arms, his nickname was King Kong.

“He...” Colby wanted to say something, but he stopped himself.

David wanted to continue asking when someone walked into the room. It was their homeroom teacher from high school, Giselle.

I’m A Quadrillionaire chapter 438

“Is everyone here? I’m sorry, I was late because of something that came up at the last minute,” Giselle said apologetically as she entered through the door.

“Ms. Hans is here! Please take a seat.”

“You’re not late, it’s our greatest honor to have you here, Ms. Hans,” Clay said.

Giselle glanced at a few tables, and after seeing David and Celia, she went straight to David’s table.

Then, she sat next to Colby.

“Hello, Ms. Hans.”

“Hello, Ms. Hans.”

“Hello, Ms. Hans.”

Everyone at the table greeted Giselle.

“Hello everyone,” Giselle also responded with a smile.

Immediately afterward, she said to David and Celia, “David, Celia, hello. Thank you for your contribution to the school. All the teachers and students at Shu City High would like to thank you.”

She appreciated David and Celia a lot because David donated 200 million to Shu City High two days ago

She also felt proud because, after all, they had been her students.

Originally, it would have taken a year or two for her to be promoted to director, but no one knew what would have happened during that time.

However, just after David donated the money to the school, the higher-ups of the school spoke to her and asked her to get ready to accept the position as the new director.

Also, they asked her to keep in contact with David as he was a huge benefactor.

The money that escaped from the space between his fingers was enough for their school to go up a few levels.

All of this was because of David.

Moreover, the school was also preparing to give teachers a big bonus in the New Year, and various subsidies and benefits would also be greatly increased next year.

Not only did the teachers’ income increase, but the students also received grants and scholarships.

These were the benefits that David brought to them...

"Ms. Hans, you're welcome, I just did a trivial thing for the school. I graduated from Shu City High, and it is because of the nurturing of Shu City High that I am where I am today, so I am also very grateful to the teachers of Shu City High," David said politely.

More than 30 students in the private room looked at Ms. Hans and David inexplicably.

They did not understand what those two meant.

"David, what's going on? Why are you speaking so mysteriously about it? Let's hear it," Clay asked.

"Yeah, why are you being so mysterious? Tell us so we can be happy for you too," one of the classmates chimed in.

"It's nothing. I just donated some money that was within my power to the school. It's not a big deal," David said.

"Oh? David, you donated money to the school? You're not delivering food anymore? You even have money to donate to the school? Since you're so rich, you should pay for the bill today," Clay said sarcastically.

Back then, he had no grudges against David. He was a rich kid while David was a pauper, so they had no connections to each other.

However, the moment he saw David coming hand in hand with Celia, he felt that David looked extremely detestable.

"Sure," David said.

He knew that once his relationship with Celia was exposed, he would offend a lot of people. After all, Celia was too popular, and Clay was one of the people who used to pursue her.

He was fine with this. He just needed to pay the bill, and he did not lack money anyway.

"That's settled then. Mr. David Lidell will be paying for all of the expenses today. Everyone, say thank you to David," Clay was getting more and more excited as he said that.

However, only a few people in the room responded to him. These were people who were close to Clay.

Everyone could see the aggressiveness in Clay's attitude and how he was a little over the line.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 439

"Clay, what are you trying to do?" Giselle asked.

She also noticed that this kid was just looking for trouble.

As the former teacher of these students, she still held a certain authority over them even though they had graduated three years ago. She could make them obey her back then and she could still do the same now.

"Ms. Hans, I'm not trying to do anything. Isn't this what David wanted? I didn't force him," Clay said innocently.

"Hmph, listen, David is more enlightened than you. Now that he's made something for himself, he decided to do something for the school, but what about you?"

"Yeah, yeah, yeah, Ms. Hans, you're right. David has always been a good student in your heart and none of us can compare to him."

"When I taught your class, I didn't give David any special favors. I treat you all equally and it's your problem that you can't compare to him. When David was in high school, he was working while learning. Even so, I've never treated you badly as the class monitor."

Clay was speechless.

Giselle did treat him well at first.

Academically, he would never be able to get the position of the class monitor if his studies were bad either.

"It's so hard for all of us to finally hang out together so please don't fight. Ms. Hans, here, have some water. Clay, as the class monitor, this is not something you should say."

David finished and poured Giselle a glass of water.

After such a commotion, the atmosphere in the private room was also a little solemn and there was no longer any laughter like earlier.

Just when everyone was feeling dull and not speaking, the private room door was opened again.

Two girls came in.

One of them was David's ex-girlfriend Sarah, and the other girl looked familiar, but she was not from their class.

David was stunned when he saw Sarah. Did someone in the group not say that Sarah suffered a great shock last time? Why was she here at the reunion?

“Hello, everyone. Hello, Ms. Hans. I am Sarah’s neighbor and since she’s a little emotionally unstable nowadays, her mother asked me to bring her out to clear her head. Coincidentally, you’re having a class reunion so I signed up for her and brought her over to chat with everyone to see if it’ll do her any good,” the girl that came with Sarah said.

David felt a little depressed.

‘Aren’t you harming her with good intentions?’

Was she sure that Sarah would not be even more shocked when she saw him later?

When Celia saw Sarah, she grabbed David’s hand tightly under the table.

That girl brought Sarah to a table to sit down. Meanwhile, Sarah was not saying anything. It seemed that the rumors were true, and she had suffered a huge shock.

The arrival of Sarah and the girl dispelled the dull atmosphere in the room at the moment.

“What happened to Sarah?” a classmate asked.

“The doctor said that there is nothing wrong with her body, but she suffered a great shock which led her to becoming very reclused, so she needs someone familiar with her to bring her back to reality.”

At this time, most of the people looked at David again.

The person who was most familiar with Sarah should be David!

After all, they had been together for several years, but David pretended not to see that.

He did not want to have anything to do with Sarah since he already had Celia now. Clay started to attend to everyone again. After all, he was the class monitor and he was also the one who organized this event.

No matter what his opinion, they should just talk about it after the reunion.

He only asked David to pay because he was very pissed when he saw David coming in with Celia. That was why he decided to roast David for a bit- he did not truly want David to pay.

If David paid the bill for the party he organized, it would harm his reputation.

His classmates would definitely talk about him behind his back!

He could not afford to embarrass himself like this.

Clay counted the number of people and realized that everyone was there.

Hence, he called the waiter and asked them to start bringing out the food.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 440

David kept avoiding Sarah so that she would not see him.

However, since there was a table between them, and Sarah kept her head down the entire time and did not look around, she never noticed him.

Lunch was soon served, so everyone forgot the unpleasantness from earlier and began to liven up.

The ones who could drink would drink alcohol while the others would just have non-alcoholic beverages.

Some of the more active drinkers with a good alcohol tolerance began to toast each table.

Clay was also toasting.

When he was at David's table, Clay first toasted Giselle.

"Ms. Hans, it was my fault just now so I apologize. I shouldn't talk to you like that, as the saying goes, a teacher is as important and superior as one's own father. Although we've graduated, we will never forget your teachings."

"Clay, you are smart and if you focus on your studies, you may not be worse than David, but you are more interested in social aspects, so that's why I appointed you as the monitor. It was so that you could interact with your classmates in the class more often and organize activities together with other classes to train you. I'm also very optimistic about you," Giselle said while holding her drink.

"I understand. Thank you for the cultivation, Ms. Hans. I was very reckless just now and I apologize. I'm sorry," Clay said sincerely.

"It's okay, I won't take it to heart."

"Today is our first gathering after graduation. How about a toast to Ms. Hans? Let's wish Ms. Hans good health and smooth sailing at work."

As soon as Clay finished speaking, everyone stood up and said in unison, "Alright, we wish Ms. Hans good health and smooth sailing at work." Giselle also said, "Thank you for your blessings. I am also honored that your class is the most promising class among all the homerooms I have taught. Not only was there Celia, the leading light in the college entrance examination in South River Province, but also David, who is a business genius who has become a big boss when he has not even graduated yet."

After Giselle finished speaking, everyone in the room looked at David together.

They knew about Celia being the leading light of South River Province in the college entrance exam.

However, when did David become a big boss?

Why did they have no idea about this?

They were all very confused.

A student who was delivering food while he was studying in high school was now a big boss three years after graduating from high school. Moreover, he had not even graduated from university yet!

Who would believe this?

The ones in the room who did not understand the situation would not believe this.

Giselle did not believe this at first too.

However, this was not the time to ask questions. Everyone was waiting for the toast.

With that, everyone suppressed the question in their hearts.

They were thinking that he needed to ask what was going on later.

When Sarah heard David's name, the expression on her face changed noticeably.

It was obvious that this name sparked something within her.

After everyone toasted Giselle, they sat down.

Then, Clay toasted everyone one by one.

When it was David and Celia's turn, Clay said, "David, Celia, let me give you a toast. I utterly embarrassed myself just now, so please forgive me."

"It's fine, we're all classmates. I won't take such a small matter to heart. Since I have to drive, I won't be drinking. Sorry," David said.

"I can't drink either, sorry," Celia said.

"It's okay, you can just drink some non-alcoholic beverages," Clay forced a smile on his face and said.

The toast was over soon. Everyone was eating while chatting right now.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 441

Just as everyone was about to ask David what Ms. Hans meant by 'big boss'.

Sarah stood up suddenly.

"Sarah, what's wrong?" The girl sitting next to Sarah asked.

All eyes were on Sarah.

"Candy, thank you," Sarah said.

"Sarah, have you recovered? That is great, the doctor was right. I made the right decision to bring you to your class reunion. Your parents will be so happy when they hear about this," the girl named Candy said in delight.

"Thank you, thank you!"

After Sarah finished speaking, she left her seat and walked straight to David.

David was a little helpless.

Sarah had spotted her.

"David, can you forgive me? I know I was wrong. I should have listened to you in the first place," Sarah said in a choked voice.

"In truth, I don't blame you. Everyone has the right to pursue their own happiness," David said seriously.

"But my happiness is with you. Is there any hope for us? Could you please give me another chance?"

"Sorry, I have Celia now. Celia is currently my girlfriend, but I hope you can find your own happiness too," David held Celia's hand and said.

Sarah looked at Celia while Celia looked back at Sarah too.

“Celia, I know you liked David when you were in high school, so after I started dating David, I deliberately kept him away from you because I was jealous of you. You are beautiful, you are good at school, and your family background is good too, but I didn’t expect that, in the end, I would push David to you myself. I hope you will treat David well in the future, as he is a great person. I guess I’m just not meant for this, and I wish you two happiness in the future.”

Sarah finished speaking while sobbing. Then, she covered her mouth with her right hand and ran out of the private room in tears.

She knew that seeking David’s forgiveness would be an extravagant request and she was mentally prepared when she walked over to David.

However, she was unwilling to give up even the slightest glimmer of hope.

After going through so many things, she knew that David was the best person for her.

When David only had 100 dollars on him, he would spend 90 dollars on her, leaving himself only 10 dollars to fill his stomach.

In this life, she might never find another person who would treat her like this. She had buried her happiness with her own two hands.

She did not blame others.

She could only blame herself for being vain.

During this period, she had always been aware of what was happening around her, but she had been in a daze and was reluctant to speak.

It was not until she heard David’s name that she came back to her senses and wanted to fight for the last glimmer of hope. In the end, as expected, this was the result.

“Sarah!”

The girl named Candy rushed out.

The room was quiet again and everyone was staring at David.

“Why are you all staring at me? Eat! It’s not my fault, I only recently got together with Celia after she dumped me,” David said with a wry smile.

“David, we didn’t want to ask about this, we wanted to ask what’s going on with you and why are you suddenly a big boss?” One of the classmates asked.

“Yeah, Ms. Hans said that you are now a big boss and you donated money to the school. How much did you donate that can make Ms. Hans specially thank you?”

“Not much,” David replied vaguely.

“How much is not much?”

“Yeah, you have to give a number even if it’s not much, right?”

“I just donated 200 million,” David answered.

“H-How much?” One classmate asked, stammering.

“200 million,” David repeated.

“200 m-million? Damn, David! Are you loaded now?” One classmate exclaimed loudly.

Everyone was looking at David with a blank stare, including Clay.

Even though his family was pretty well-off in Shu City, that was 200 million!

Even if he combined all of his assets, it might not even reach 10% of 200 million.

Even so, David just donated the 200 million to the school?

I’m A Quadrillionaire chapter 442

‘How much money does he have?’

Ten billion?

‘Or 20 billion?’

“U-Um... David, you... you’re not kidding, are you?” Another classmate asked.

“Why would I joke about that? Isn’t Ms. Hans here? How would I dare to spout nonsense?” David said helplessly.

All eyes were on Giselle again.

“It’s true. David still cares about his alma mater after he has made something for himself. I am thanking David on behalf of the entire school! Everyone should learn from David,” Giselle said.

Boom!

The whole room exploded.

Everyone was shocked.

David actually donated 200 million to the school.

Was this still David who had been delivering food three years ago?

It only took him three years to achieve this.

“David, how did you do it?” A classmate asked.

This was the question on everyone’s mind.

How could a poor boy who was delivering food three years ago donate 200 million to the school in just three years?

Besides this, he might still have a lot of money.

How unbelievable!

How incredible!

How incomprehensible!

How outrageous!

Countless words popped up in everyone’s mind.

“Actually, it’s very simple. As long as you study hard, get involved in society, and understand the needs of the community, you may be able to do it soon too. I started working part-time very early and I have been learning the needs of society and people since way back then. After that, I started to slowly achieve this,” David said calmly

He could only say this. What else could he say?

He could not say that he was the chosen one and he was selected by the system, right?

“Damn, Boss, you’re too amazing! I’ve decided to work for you.”

“Me too, Boss! Please guide me!”

“Boss, I’ll kneel for you!”

“Boss, you’re my idol! Please be my sugar daddy!”

The entire room was in an uproar.

Everyone was fawning over David.

They could not help it. This was reality.

They must be the luckiest people on earth to have a classmate like David who was a boss.

Whoever did not seize this opportunity would definitely be a f*cking fool

David was also answering their questions one by one.

They were all pretty close to each other in high school and whenever they needed takeout, they would contact David.

Clay was also the same.

Aside from the small conflict just now, they never had any beef before.

Moreover, Clay was the one who supported his business in the form of ordering takeouts the most.

This was why David was willing to come to the reunion and expose his identity.

As for Clay, after discovering that David did indeed donate 200 million to the school, the hatred and jealousy in his heart were now replaced with envy.

When someone was miles ahead of him such that he could not see any chance of overtaking them, he would not have any other thoughts anymore.

Right now, Clay even felt that only someone as excellent as David would be an appropriate match for Celia.

I’m A Quadrillionaire chapter 443

Then, the class reunion became David’s one-man show.

All the classmates came to curry favor with David, they were trying to get close to him so that they would have plans for the future.

If they could curry favor with David, would they still have to worry about their future?

This was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

Everyone was in their twenties, so no one was so stupid to care about their dignity at this time.

Since everyone was doing this, you would be the odd one out if you did not. The others would not think that you were aloof from politics and material pursuits, but rather, they would think that you were an idiot. Would you not be an idiot for not seizing such a good opportunity?

Even Clay put his ego aside and admired David.

Yes, his family had a little bit of wealth, but who would not want to climb higher up the social ladder when this opportunity was presented to them?

Could you imagine how rich a person would be if they could just casually donate 200 million?

Besides, he figured that he treated David fairly well in high school, and whenever he or his friends needed takeout, he would ask David to deliver them.

Even though he was showing off a little, David also benefitted from it. Furthermore, he had never said anything insulting to David.

Everyone's enthusiasm overwhelmed David a little, so he just told them directly to privately message or call him if they ever needed him. He would try his best to help as long as it was within his power.

Only then did everyone return to their seats to continue eating.

After lunch, it was time for chatting. The boys would circle David while the girls circled Celia.

David finally got rid of everyone's pestering and pulled Rice Cake aside. He wanted to ask about Jonah 'King Kong' Murs' situation.

Judging from Colby's tone just now, something must have happened to King Kong.

In high school, the three of them were very close. So how could he sit idly by when his former friend was in trouble?

With David's current status, as long as he wanted to, there was no problem that he could not solve in Somerland.

However, it also depended on what happened to King Kong.

If it was his fault, as long as the punishment that he should received was within the acceptable range, David would not interfere.

This was not because he was heartless, but it was because he had principles and limits.

If someone else wanted to bully his good friend, then sorry, no matter who that person was, they would have to suffer the same treatment ten times worse.

From what David knew about King Kong, he would definitely not take the initiative to provoke others.

What David was afraid of now was King Kong making a mistake because he was impulsive. If this was the case, it would be very troublesome.

“Rice Cake, tell me, what happened? What’s wrong with King Kong?” David asked.

“Dave, you are a big boss now, so you must save King Kong,” Colby said emotionally as if he had found a lifesaver.

“How will I save him if you don’t tell me what happened? Tell me what happened in detail.”

“Alright...”

Colby told David what happened in detail.

After graduating from high school, King Kong did not go to university. He worked on the construction site with Colby because his family was poor.

Although the work on the construction site was very tiring and he had to be exposed to the sun and rain, the salary was higher than that of working in the factory.

This was already good enough for those who had just graduated from high school.

Moreover, King Kong was big and tall, so the foreman asked him to guard the construction site at night. This would be another source of income for him.

Therefore, King Kong would work at the construction site during the day and sleep at the construction site at night.

Not only did King Kong save money on rent, but he also got a sum of money for guarding the construction site. Hence, he was naturally very happy about this.

King Kong and Rice Cake had also saved a lot of money over the past two years. After working for a few more years, they would have even been able to afford to get married.

I’m A Quadrillionaire chapter 444

However, half a year ago, when King Kong was guarding the construction site at night, he heard a scream for help not far away.

Hence, he went to have a look.

It turned out that three youngsters who had been drinking were harassing a woman in her twenties and had dragged her to the construction site. Thus, the woman was struggling and screaming for help

Not only did King Kong know this woman, but he was also very familiar with her. She was the waitress of a nearby restaurant and her name was Faye Chester.

King Kong had a crush on Faye, and he would often eat in that restaurant so that he could see her more.

Now that she was being harassed, King Kong felt that even God was helping her.

Without hesitating, he picked up a steel bar on the construction site and rushed over.

He wanted to be the hero who saved the damsel in distress. If he saved Faye, he would have the perfect chance interact with her.

It was possible Faye would even agree to be his girlfriend.

King Kong was tall and strong, and the three youngsters had drunk some alcohol, so how would they be a match for King Kong? Hence, they were defeated in just two or three strikes.

King Kong knew the power of the steel bar, so he did not dare to hit the youngsters on the head. Instead, he just hit them on their legs and backs a few times.

King Kong, who had just successfully rescued Faye, was very excited, and Faye was very grateful to him. The two exchanged contacts because of this.

King Kong originally thought that this would be the beginning of his happiness, but he did not expect it to be the beginning of his nightmare.

The next day, King Kong was in a state of excitement the whole day. He had a smile on the corner of his mouth the entire day.

Colby also asked him if he was in a relationship, but he just smiled and said he would tell Colby when they had made it official.

However, on the third day, while King Kong was working on the construction site, a few police officers came to find him and asked him to follow them back to the station to investigate what happened the night before. King Kong followed without much thought.

He did not notice anything strange and only thought that Faye had reported the incident to the police.

After arriving at the place, King Kong was directly locked up while no one else came to ask him anything.

King Kong was then charged with rape and grievous bodily harm.

The most unacceptable and incomprehensible thing for King Kong was that the woman he rescued even gave false testimony for the other party. She said that it was King Kong who saw her walking past alone and wanted to harass her.

The three people who were beaten by King Kong instead became the heroes who saved her.

With all the evidence, King Kong was sentenced to fifteen years in prison.

Colby had been running around for a very long time trying to help King Kong, and finally, he found out that the three people who were beaten by King Kong were famous hedonists in Shu City.

Their families had very strong connections in both the underworld and law enforcement.

Meanwhile, the woman was no longer working at the restaurant. Colby had no idea where she went, and he could not find her no matter how hard he looked.

Colby ran out of options. Although he knew that King Kong was framed, he could not find a place to appeal for justice.

The other party also sent someone to find him. Not only did they beat Colby up, but they also warned him that if he was stuck his nose into it again, they would send him to prison alongside King Kong.

After Colby's father heard about this, he asked him to stop caring about this. If not, his whole family would be dragged into it.

Colby was also worried that he would implicate his family.

It would be useless if he kept investigating because, in the end, he would also get dragged down.

Now, half a year had gone by.

When Colby went to visit King Kong, not only was King Kong covered in bruises, but he was also very skinny now.

Today, when Colby saw that David was now a big boss, he finally dared to tell David everything. He wanted to see if David had any way to help get King Kong out of prison.

After all, they were best friends in high school.

If David refused to help King Kong, then King Kong's entire life would be destroyed.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 445

"Are you telling the truth?" David asked in a deep voice.

"Dave, don't you believe me? When did I lie to you? Plus, we've been friends for so long, so don't you know what King Kong is like? How could he do something like that?" Colby said.

"Alright, I got it," David replied.

"Dave, you must find a way to save King Kong. He gets beaten every day in there and I'm worried he won't be able to hold on much longer."

David did not speak. At this moment, his heart seemed to be surging with lava and it was about to erupt like a volcano at any time.

He stood up and said, "Everyone, since something came up at the last minute, I won't be able to stay here with you all tonight. I will pay for today's bill so don't fight me for it, Clay. Just treat it as me apologizing. If you ever need me in the future, you can private message me or give me a call, and I, David, will try to help everyone as long as it's within my power."

After he finished speaking, David said to Celia again, "Celia, why don't you stay here with them? Colby and I will go out to handle some business. I'll pick you up at night."

"I'm going with you." Celia got up and walked to David's side before hugging his arm.

"Well then, enjoy everyone and have fun. Just call me if you need anything. I'm sorry, everyone. Goodbye!"

After David finished speaking, he left the private room along with Celia and Colby.

While David was speaking in the private room, no one dared to speak or object.

Since David's mood was fluctuating, he could not keep his aura under control.

Everyone in the private room was shocked by his aura, including their teacher, Giselle.

She did not expect David, who usually looked so polite and amiable, to release such a great aura. She did not even feel such huge pressure when she faced the head of the education department.

After David left, everyone came back to their senses.

“He’s a big boss indeed. The grandeur he had in that speech is incomparable to ordinary people.”

“Yeah, at that moment, I felt as if David was suddenly another person and he became so scary. My heart is still racing now.”

“Only someone in a leading position can have such grandeur, for example, some bosses or big shots. Everyone, let’s continue. David might really have something that he needs to attend to, big bosses are usually very busy,” Clay said.

David took Celia and Colby directly to the place where King Kong was being held.

Since only one person was allowed to visit the inmate, Celia and Colby waited for David outside.

When David saw King Kong, he could not believe his eyes. The man who used to be tall and weighed 180 pounds had now lost so much weight that he now only weighed 120 or 130 pounds.

He looked a little weak when he was walking, and it seemed as if even a gust of wind could blow him over.

“Dave, why are you here? Did Rice Cake tell you?” King Kong asked.

“King Kong, are you okay?” David asked, suppressing the anger in his heart.

“I’m fine, I won’t die so soon. But if you didn’t come, I don’t know how long I would have been able to last. Thank you for letting me see you one last time,” King Kong said with tears in the corners of his eyes.

David did not know what kind of experience could make a dignified and macho man cry.

One had to know that King Kong was notoriously tough in high school.

“Don’t worry, you’ll be fine as long as I am here,” David comforted.

“Dave, if I’m gone, please tell my parents that I’ve let them down and I can’t care for them when they’re old. They have no idea what happened to me, and I don’t dare to let Rice Cake tell them. I’m worried that they won’t be able to take it.”

“You should tell them once you get out of here. Hold on and I’ll be able to get you out very soon.”

“Don’t! Dave, don’t get involved in this. I know they’re very powerful and they must have forced Faye to do that. I don’t want anything to happen to you,” King Kong stopped David.

After walking out of the visitation room, David suppressed his urge to find the perpetrator and avenge King Kong.

Right now, with his identity, he did not need to do this himself anymore.

As long as he said the word, other people would automatically come to him.

“So? How’s King Kong?” Colby asked.
