

I'm A Quadrillionaire

Chapter 486

David was below the building, staring at the two people on the roof.

At this time, a large number of people came through the gates of the campus. "Make way! Sawyer's parents are here, let them go up to talk to him."

Everyone gave way as a few police officer hurried upstairs with Sawyer's parents.

David looked at the people who went up.

If Sawyer's parents went up at this time, they might trigger Sawyer even more because the people Sawyer did not want to see the most right now were his parents.

However, David did not stop them either. It would be better for them to jump down as soon as possible, so as not to waste his time here. After saving them, he would go to the hospital to see how the poisoned students were doing.

If it were not for the fact that there were too many people at the scene and he did not want to scare everyone, David would have flown up to save them.

Sure enough, after Sawyer's parents went upstairs, within a few minutes, Sawyer started to lose control of his emotions.

After only hesitating for more than ten seconds, he jumped down along with Zoey...

"Sawyer, no!" A middle-aged woman on the roof let out a distraught scream.

David was ready below the building.

He went to the place where the two were falling toward at the fastest speed.

Just when Sawyer and Zoey were about to hit the ground, they were caught in each of David's hands.

Although the two jumped from the roof dozens of meters high and the impact was great, for David, who was halfway to God Rank, it was nothing.

David was holding one person in each hand.

Zoey had fainted from fright.

Although Sawyer was still conscious, he did not react for a while.

All the onlookers were stunned when they saw this scene.

This was against everything they had ever known.

How could one person catch two adults who jumped from the top of the seventh floor?

They were all university students and teachers.

Although they were in a media university and they were not majoring in physics, fools could be admitted to the university.

How strong was the impact of an adult jumping from the seventh floor?

Who would dare to catch them with their bare hands?

There was a news report last time about a two or three-year-old baby falling from the fifth floor and being caught by an adult man downstairs. In the end, the man dislocated his hands catching the baby.

This was serious enough, let alone catching an adult.

Anyone who dared to catch an adult would definitely be crushed to death, and there was no possibility of an alternative outcome.

Despite this, David caught two adults in each of his hands, and from the looks of it, it seemed easy to him.

'Is that a normal f*cking person?

'How incredible!

"That is Superman!"

The police were the first to react. They hurriedly stepped forward and tackled Sawyer to the ground before putting him in handcuffs.

Sawyer was now the main suspect of a serious crime.

Poisoning hundreds of people on campus was a felony.

Sawyer did not resist at all.

He might not have come back to his senses yet or he could have felt like he had already died once.

After this, two medical staff stepped forward and took Zoey from David's hand before putting her on a stretcher and carrying her away.

"Thank you so much. Are you... Are you all right?" A police officer looked at David and asked.

It was the first time he had encountered such a thing after being a police officer for so many years.

Even so, obviously, his level of acceptance was much higher than these students.

"I'm fine. I work out a lot so I'm in good shape," David said with a smile.

At the same time, he moved his hands a few times to show him.

The police officer looked at David carefully and realized that he was indeed fine.

He patted David on the shoulder and said, "Young man, you're not bad. You're so talented, but next time, you should be mindful to your own safety and only help others while ensuring your own safety."

Chapter 487

"I understand. Officer, I want to ask what happened to the poisoned teachers and students? Are their lives in danger?" David asked.

What he was most worried about right now was these poisoned people.

"I'm not sure, but it seems they are in pretty serious condition. Many people were already in a coma when they were sent to the hospital. I don't know the specifics, so we have to wait for news from the hospital."

"Which hospital are they in?" David asked again.

"Since there are so many people, one hospital can't handle all of them so they are in Champion Hospital, Deux Hospital, and Tres Hospital."

"Thank you, Officer!"

"Kid, you haven't graduated yet, have you?"

"Yes, I'm going to be a senior soon."

"What are you going to do after graduation?"

"Uh... I haven't thought about it yet."

"If you want to work in my line of work after graduation, you can just come to me. You are very talented and I am very optimistic about you." The police officer patted David on the shoulder again.

He was very optimistic about David.

David's performance just now was that of a talented person. If he could get David to join him and cultivate him, David might have a promising future.

"Thank you, Officer, I'll come to you if I need it."

"Team, dismissed!" The police officer shouted.

Then, he left with his subordinates and Sawyer.

He was in a hurry to go back to interrogate Sawyer to see what kind of poison he used, where he got it from, and what was the motive for the poisoning.

However, no matter what the result was, Sawyer's life was doomed.

As for whether he would get life imprisonment or the death penalty, it depended on whether any of these victims died.

It would be great if they were rescued, but the moment someone died from the poisoning, Sawyer not dying from the fall would be considered a delay to his inevitable death.

As soon as the police left, the scene immediately became lively.

"Damn, hero, you are too amazing. How did you do that? Can you teach me?"

"Hero, please allow me to worship you! You will be my master from today."

"Hero, I want you to be my master too!"

"Hero, I want you to be my master too!"

Countless students from the Multimedia University gathered around David and asked for David to be their master.

David was too amazing just now.

He just caught two adults who jumped off the seventh floor with his bare hands.

Even so, nothing happened to him.

Master!

He was definitely a master!

Luckily, the reporters from various media channels were stopped outside the gates.

If that scene was captured by them and was broadcasted or uploaded to the Internet, it would be hard for David to avoid going viral.

When he saw a lot of students surrounding him, David had no choice. He could only use some of his strength to flee quickly.

If not, it would be hard for him to escape if he was trapped.

"Where is the hero? Why is he missing?" The first student to get to the spot where David was previously standing asked.

The students that were crowding around started looking as well.

'Where is he?

'Damn, he's missing!

'How is that possible?

'So many eyes were on him!'

"Did we really come across a master? He's even more amazing than the characters in a martial arts novel. He suddenly disappeared when so many people were watching him."

"Go find where he is. I want him as my master. I want to be a master too. I want to be chivalrous!"

"I have to make him my master. I want to be a wandering hero!"

The scene was very chaotic and everyone was looking for David.

However, by now, David had already gotten into his car and was driving to Champion Hospital.

Chapter 488

David drove to the Capital City Champion Hospital.

The entrance of the hospital was also very lively now.

Countless reporters and onlookers crowded the door waiting for the result as dozens of security guards blocked them.

Hundreds of students from Multimedia University had been poisoned. This was a big event, hence everyone wanted to get first-hand information.

David once again found a hidden spot and went straight to the second floor.

After searching the hospital for a long time, he finally found the place where the poisoned students were located.

At this moment, the deans, professors, and experts of Capital City Champion Hospital were gathered for a meeting.

They were given a briefing by Otto Swanson, the deputy chief of the health department in Capital City. Hundreds of university students had been poisoned. If they failed to handle such a huge case properly, it would cause social unrest and these people would be held responsible.

“Dean Griffin, you have to guarantee the safety of the students. I don’t care what method you use.”

“Of course, Deputy Chief Swanson, please be rest assured, we will try our best,” Dean Griffin said, wiping the sweat from his forehead.

“Not try, you have to,” Otto said again in a more serious tone.

“Of course, we will.”

“Okay, let’s go see the students,” Otto said.

“Deputy Chief Swanson, have you caught the student who poisoned everyone?” Dean Griffin asked.

“I just got the news that he’s been caught,” Otto said.

“Ask him what kind of poison he used. We’ll be able to prescribe the right medicine if we know what poison he used.”

“They didn’t get anything from him. The perpetrator has lost his mind and he refuses to say anything. There is nothing we can do.”

“What... What should we do then? If we can’t determine the poison, we can only run through a checklist which will take up more time. The longer we take, the more dangerous it will be to the victims,” Dean Griffin said anxiously.

“Go through the checklist at once. I’ll urge them again to see if they can get anything,” Otto said.

“Yes!”

Dean Griffin and the rest of the professors and experts quickly left the meeting room.

After that, Otto paced back and forth in the meeting room.

At this time, he was more anxious than anyone else.

After some contemplation, he decided to go see the victims in person.

David spoke to many doctors and nurses at the scene, but they had not found out what the victims had been poisoned with.

So, they could only perform some conventional treatments.

Many people soon started to fall into a coma.

Hence, David hurriedly stepped forward to check on a student who was in a deep coma. Using his strong mind power, he could feel the student’s weak heartbeat. It felt like a candle in the wind and rain that might go out at any time.

“This is bad!

“Who are you? What are you doing here?” David turned his head, just in time to see Dean Griffin arriving with a group of experts and professors.

“I am their classmate. The chancellor asked me to check on everyone’s situation,” David replied.

“Nonsense, get out now. We’ll inform your university when the results come out. Your chancellor is also one to blame. It’s the holidays so why are the classes still ongoing? Great, everyone’s life is difficult now,” Dean Griffin complained.

“I’m a medical student so I can help,” David said.

“You’re studying medicine?”

“Well, I know traditional medicine that’s been handed down from generation to generation in my family.”

“Alright, you can stay and help out.”

“Thank you, Doctor!”

“That’s the dean,” someone next to him said.

“Thank you, Dean!”

Dean Griffin ignored David and started looking at everyone’s symptoms.

The professors and experts behind him also started to scatter and observe the symptoms of the victims.

“Dean, bad news! This victim’s heartbeat is very weak. I don’t think he will be able to hold on any longer!”

Dean Griffin, the experts, and the professors rushed over. David followed behind them too.

After some examination.

“Tell me what you think,” Dean Griffin said.

“Dean, we can’t confirm what poison is, so we can’t give our opinions.”

“Yeah, Dean. There is still no news from the laboratory. There are too many poisons that can cause this kind of symptom and we dare not give out opinions casually. If we make a mistake, it’ll be fatal.”

“What did the lab say?”

“Dean, it’s still not confirmed yet and they’re still investigating,” someone next to him replied.

“Everyone, you just heard what Deputy Chief Swanson said, right? We must guarantee the safety of the students, otherwise, everyone will have a difficult time in the future.”

‘Um...’

The experts and professors looked at each other, feeling a little helpless.

David watched from behind as the top professors in these hospitals struggled to come up with a solution. There was nothing they could do.

He could not just stand idly by and watch these students die!

He looked at the 8678 lavish points on his system pane before gritting his teeth and closing his eyes.

Then, he added Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine to the skills column.

Soon, a pop-up window appeared.

(Are you sure you want to learn Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine? This will consume 1000 lavish points.)

‘Confirm!’

David clicked without hesitation.

His lavish points dropped from 8678 to 7678.

After this, David felt a lot of knowledge regarding ancient traditional medicine fill his mind, as well as the identification methods and medicinal functions of countless herbs.

Furthermore, he also learned what kind of medicinal effects would be produced by the combination of various herbs.

Some were used for healing while some combinations were harmful. However, he seemed to not have clinical poison identification!

He only knew how to differentiate some simple symptoms.

‘What the f*ck is this?’

'Is the level of my skill not enough?'

– David glanced at the Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine skill in the system.

Sure enough, he was just entry-level at this skill.

'F*ck!'

David could not stop himself from cursing at this moment.

He spent 1000 lavish points just to get an entry-level skill.

David had no choice but to upgrade it.

[Are you sure you want to upgrade Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine? This upgrade will consume 1000 lavish points.]

'Another thousand lavish points.

'Why don't you just rob me?'

As David scolded, he clicked the button.

'Confirm!'

He consumed another 1000 lavish points.

His lavish points dropped from 7678 points down to 6678 points.

David's heart was in excruciating pain when he looked at the lavish points that he spent.

The skill Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine on the system panel had been upgraded from Entry-level to Expert.

David felt a lot of knowledge fill his mind again.

This time, he saw that there was finally a subject called clinical poison identification.

Chapter 489

All kinds of poisoning symptoms were imprinted in David's mind, and he finally knew how to go about this.

He parted the crowd and walked to the front.

"Dean, let me take a look," David said.

"You?"

Dean Griffin looked at David.

"My family has been practicing traditional medicine for generations, so maybe I can see what's wrong."

David said and began to examine the critically ill patient.

After examining the patient's entire body, David had an answer in his heart.

"Dean, these people are suffering from arsenic poisoning," David said confidently.

"Arsenic?"

"The scientific name is arsenic trioxide poisoning," David explained it in modern scientific terms.

"Arsenic poisoning? Tell the laboratory to check for arsenic poisoning," Dean Griffin said immediately.

"Yes, I'll notify them right away," someone replied.

"Dean Griffin, it should be arsenic poisoning. You can arrange for the treatment of this first, otherwise, the longer the delay, the more serious the poisoning will be."

"Immediately prepare all kinds of medicines and equipment for arsenic poisoning. Once the laboratory confirms that it is arsenic poisoning, treat it immediately. Also, tell the laboratory to immediately pass the news to Deux and Tres Hospital once it's confirmed."

"Right away, Dean!"

While everyone was waiting anxiously, news finally came from the laboratory.

It was indeed arsenic poisoning.

The dean finally breathed a sigh of relief.

As long as the poisoning substance was identified, it would be easy to start treatment.
He immediately began to direct everyone to start treatment.
Modern medicine had already come up with a special drug for the treatment of arsenic poisoning.
Soon, several critically ill patients were treated, and their condition improved significantly.
Their vital signs also gradually stabilized.
David felt relieved after seeing that.
After that, he quietly left the hospital.
Since there were experts and professionals around, he was not needed here.
Although he also had a treatment plan in his mind, since that traditional medicine was in decline, the hospital probably did not have a lot of the medicine he needed.
Thus, he did not tell them his plan.
After the matter was dealt with, David finally relaxed.
However, he was frustrated that it cost him 2000 lavish points.
If the system was alive, he seriously wanted to scold it.
That was such a trap.
Learning a skill and upgrading it had cost him 2000 lavish points.
He was about to break through his status of being halfway to the God Rank and finally become a God Rank guardian.
At that time, he would be regarded as one of the top people in the world today.
Looking at his pitiful 6678 lavish points, David wanted to cry but no tears came out.
He was now more than 3000 points away from 10000, and it would take him at least 20 days to reach it.
'Ugh! I'm so sad!
David lamented how sad it was for him to spend 2000 lavish points.
Meanwhile, in Krum Mountain Range, one of the most mysterious mountain ranges in Somerland.
It was covered with magnetic fields more than centuries ago.
Neither planes nor satellites could detect this place.
In addition to that, a long-standing hidden sect-the Krums, was hiding here.
The Krums only accepted super talented people, and it was the elders in the sect who would often go out to find disciples.
Lorraine was a very talented disciple who was identified by the elders of the Krums when they had gone out in search of disciples.
Although Lorraine was frail and sickly since childhood, the elders of the Krums thought it was not because of a disease, but a unique physique.
Lorraine, who was brought back to Krum Mountain, fully recovered after more than ten years of cultivation in Krums Mountain. Gradually, she began to display the advantages of her unique physique.
Ten years ago, Lorraine went home.
This caused the competition between the first heirs of the two top elite aristocratic families in Capital City at that time, Stan of the Warners and Clinton of the Zimmerman family.
It caused the most dazzling duo of the younger generation in Capital City to turn against each other.
Lorraine was very patient, which was why she made a ten-year appointment with the two.
Although these two were the most dazzling among the younger generation in Capital City at that time, in Lorraine's opinion, they could only be considered alright within the city. Furthermore, they still had a long way to go when compared to the entire country.
There were at least a handful of members in the Krums who could brush them aside.

Not to mention other hidden sects and families.

If they were to just look at Somerland, these two were undoubtedly people of limited outlook and experience.

The reason why Lorraine made the ten-year appointment was that the Lovewoods would not have been able to stand the pressure of two elite aristocratic families.

Now, the ten-year appointment was approaching.

Lorraine needed another trip home to settle this so-called ten-year appointment.

Otherwise, the Lovewoods would be sandwiched between the two elite aristocratic families and life would definitely not be easy for them.

Although she grew up in Krum Mountain from a young age, her parents were still in the Lovewood Manor after all.

It was not that they did not love Lorraine, on the contrary, they treated Lorraine like a gem when she was born.

However, the elders of the Krums promised the Lovewoods that in twenty years, they would return them a healthy and active Lorraine.

If Lorraine continued to stay in the Lovewoods without systematic treatment, she might not have even lived to be twenty years old.

For the sake of Lorraine's body, the Lovewoods finally reluctantly decided to let the elders of the Krums take her back to Krum Mountain.

Lorraine was standing on a pavilion in Krum Mountain.

Her white outfit was fluttering in the wind like a fairy.

At the age of 30, she had the face of a 20-year-old as the years seem to have left no traces on her face. She had curves in all the right places, and her figure that fit the golden ratio completely displayed her maturity and plumpness to the extremes.

At the same time, one could feel the captivating etherealness that came from her.

Her skin was fair and supple.

If someone was watching her from a distance at this moment, they would surely exclaim, "She looks so much like a fairy who had walked out of a painting."

It was true that the denser the magnetic field, the more it could delay aging.

Lorraine looked at the wonderland-like Krum Mountain and felt a little lost.

She liked it here and she did not want to go back. However, she had no choice.

Her roots were with the Lovewoods, so she could not sit idly by. Plus, her master also said that the world was about to be in chaos, and all sects and families would come out of hiding.

The Krums were no exception.

She needed to go back to Capital City, join some families, and prepare for the Krums to come out of hiding.

This was the task given to her by the sect.

She also had to do it perfectly so she could live up to her teacher's cultivation after so many years.

While Lorraine was lost in thought, a voice sounded behind her.

"Lori, so you are here!"

Chapter 490

When Lorraine heard that voice, she knew who it was without turning around.

It was her senior, Fred East, a man that was loved by many.

Fred was different from her because he was not a disciple that was brought back by the elders of the Krums. Instead, he was born and grew up in Krum Mountain.

Not only did he look refined and elegant, but he was also extremely talented. Plus, he held a noble identity.

Only their senior, Grant, was superior to him in Krum Mountain.

“Freddy,” Lorraine called out softly, her voice mellow and melodious.

Fred stood behind Lorraine, his eyes infatuated as he looked at her back.

In his heart, this woman was the gift given to him by the heavens.

Even though this gift did not belong to him yet, he believed that sooner or later, he would completely have this gift to himself, and no one could stop him.

Not even Grant.

“Are you thinking about going home, Lori?” Fred walked up behind her and said.

“Yeah. I haven’t gone back in a decade, so I wonder about what had happened at home. I wonder if they still remember that I exist,” Lorraine said.

“Don’t worry, Lori. They would not forget you, they might have even been waiting for you to go back. Don’t worry, I’ll always stay with you. I’ve already asked for permission to go down the mountain with you,” Fred said.

“You want to go down the mountain with me?” Lorraine turned her head and asked Fred.

“Yeah, my grandpa has agreed!” Fred looked at Lorraine’s beautiful face and said a little excitedly.

“Isn’t Grant going with me?” Lorraine asked curiously.

“Grant is still going, but I’m going too. Both of us are going down the mountain with you.”

“Oh!”

Lorraine did not speak after she replied. Then, she turned her head to continue to observe the scenery from far away that looked like a wonderland.

The mist was lingering around the towering mountains and precipitous ridges.

Fred did not speak anymore as he watched the scenery with Lorraine.

However, his mind was not on the scenery, but on the woman beside him.

No matter how breathtaking the scenery was, how could it compare to the woman beside him?

Originally, Fred was not the one who was supposed to go down the mountain with her, but when he learned that Grant would go, he went to his grandfather, Norman East.

He asked his grandfather for permission to accompany Lorraine down the mountain and said he wanted to see the outside world.

He could not leave Grant alone with Lorraine. Although there would be other elders following them, it would still be dangerous.

In his opinion, Grant was his biggest obstacle when it came to Lorraine..

He could never give them a chance to be alone.

Meanwhile, his grandfather, Norman, was the senior elder in the Krums that second only to the head.

After Fred’s endless pestering, his grandfather had no choice but to agree to let him go.

– Besides, in Norman’s opinion, the hidden sects and families were coming out of hiding soon and it would be better for Fred to go out early to see and experience it.

“Freddy, how many sects like ours are there in this world?” Lorraine asked.

“According to my grandfather, there are quite a few hidden sects and families like ours. He didn’t say how many, but the Krums are the top existence among the hidden sects,” Fred said.

“Then why did these sects and families hide from the world?”

“I heard that it was to avoid calamity. Some of them wanted to go out and occupy a place in this world, but they basically disappeared in the dust of history. Thus, it seems that staying hidden back then was indeed the best way to preserve strength.”

“I see, so when everyone comes out of hiding this time, will many hidden sects and families disappear into the annals of history?”

“Maybe, but don’t worry, Lori. The Krums have always been one of the top forces, and this has stayed true over time. We will only grow stronger and stronger. Those who disappear are the weak ones.”

“Just like how the weak are prey to the strong, right?” Lorraine murmured.

“Exactly, just like how the weak are prey to the strong. This will always be the unchanging truth, just like how the Krums will always be the strongest party,” Fred said confidently.

At this time, a voice sounded from below.

“Freddy, Lori, the head of the sect is summoning us!”

“Freddy, let’s go!”

Chapter 491

After Lorraine finished speaking, she jumped lightly, her body floating down the pavilion like a piece of cotton

Fred also jumped down.

The pavilion where the two were located was at least six or seven stories above the ground.

However, when the two landed, they did not even make a sound, which was enough to prove their strength.

“Freddy, Lori.”

When he saw the two come down from the pavilion, the 20-year-old cloaked young man on the ground bowed and greeted respectfully.

At the same time, his eyes were full of envy.

“Come on,” Fred said.

“After you, Freddy, Lori,” the cloaked young man bowed and said respectfully.

The status of these two was abnormally high within the Krums.

One was the grandson of the senior elder, while one was the direct disciple of the third elder.

They were both top-notch talents in their generation.

When Fred and Lorraine walked in front of the cloaked young man, he eventually straightened up and followed behind them.

As he looked at Lorraine’s back, the cloaked young man’s face was full of admiration.

There was no one in this generation of the Krums who did not admire Lorraine.

Of course, they had another senior, Jacinta Baker, as well, and she was not bad either.

They walked all the way to Krum Hall.

The cloaked young man who followed behind them stopped outside long ago. It was because he could not go in without the head of the sect summoning him.

In the spacious and quaint hall, there was an old man with a youthful appearance and white hair on the main seat.

Below him was a man in his thirties.

This man is wearing a green shirt and was carrying a sword on his back.

When he heard Fred and Lorraine’s footsteps, he turned around.

Beauty in the high places was unparalleled indeed. The beauty of this man was unmatched in the world.

This man was not inferior to Fred in any aspect.

He was the senior of the Krums-Grant Stone.

In addition, he was also the direct disciple of the head of the Krums. At the same time, he was also the most powerful person in their generation.

Of course, Fred always refused to accept this. It was because he was a few years younger than Grant and he thought that he would definitely be stronger than Grant when he reached his age.

“Disciple Fred is here to see you, Head! Greetings, Grant,” Fred said respectfully while bending his waist. Even though his status was pretty high in the Krums, he still had to bow and greet these two when he met them.

“Disciple Lorraine is here to see you, head! Greetings, Grant,” Lorraine bowed and said in an equally respectful manner.

“The reason I summoned the three of you is to tell you that it’s time for Lovewood to go home. Coincidentally, our sect has decided to come out of hiding too. So, you two should go back with Lovewood and make preparations for us to resurface,” said the head of the sect.

“Yes, Head!”

“Yes, Head!”

“Yes, Teacher!”

The three replied at the same time.

“Alright, go back and make preparations. You’ll leave in three days. The seventh elder and ! ninth elder will also go with you. The purpose of your trip this time is to make the name of the Krums well-known to the others.”

“Yes, Head!”

“Yes, Head!”

“Yes, Teacher!” After the three finished talking, they left the hall.

Chapter 492

David was looking at his lavish points every day.

He finally accumulated enough lavish points to break through and then it dropped by another 2000 points, so one could only imagine his mood at this moment.

After three days, his lavish points finally broke through the 7000 mark, reaching more than 7100. This could be regarded as some relief for his depressed mood.

At this time David received a call from Julia.

“David, my great-grandpa wants to see you!” Julia cried on the phone.

David was stunned for a moment, he felt that this matter might be a little serious. Thus, he quickly replied, “Alright, I’ll be there right away.”

David was surprised when he saw Mason again because Mason looked even older now.

The inevitable aura of death was becoming increasingly obvious.

At first, David wondered if it was because he had learned Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine.

However, as soon as Mason opened his mouth, he disregarded that thought.

Mason was indeed reaching his limit because he evidently could not speak with the strength he once had.

“David, cough... I might not be able to make it to the one-year deadline I told you last time. I need you to take care of Somerland for me next, but I don’t think they will take action for the time being,” Mason said weakly.

Last time, he told David that he had one more year to live and that he could help him hold on for another year. However, from the looks of it, it now seemed impossible.

“What happened? It’s only been a few days. Why did this happen all of a sudden? Wasn’t he fine last time?” David asked Julia.

Julia said through tears, “Grandpa fought with some people a few days ago. He fought nine God Rank guardians headed by Falconia all by himself. Four of them were seriously injured, four were slightly injured, and one of them died.”

“What?”

David shuddered and looked at Mason blankly.

He fought nine God Rank guardians all by himself?

Four were seriously injured, four were slightly injured, and one even died?

T-This result was going to go against the laws of nature!

He originally thought that when he reached the level of God Rank guardian, everyone would be about the same.

However, Julia’s words just now subverted his imagination.

Mason fought nine God Rank guardians alone and was even able to kill one person, seriously injure four people, and injure the remaining four.

This showed that even if they were all God Rank guardians, the gap between them would still be huge.

He thought that once he broke through to become a God Rank guardian, he could rest easy.

However, it seemed he was still miles away.

At the very least, he had to upgrade his physique and mind power to the limit of God Rank just to have peace of mind.

At this moment, David felt a strong sense of urgency.

At the same time, he had a question in his heart.

“Where do so many God Rank guardians come from? Aren’t there only five of them in Falconia?” David asked in confusion after he recovered from the shock.

“Let me answer this question for you,” Mason said.

“Although there are only five God Rank guardians in Falconia, there are three ancient families behind Falconia. These three families are very mysterious and have existed for hundreds of thousands of years. We know very little about them, and this time, it is not only Falconia, several other forces are taking action. The Haran family, who I banished from Somerland decades ago is also taking action now.

“The three masked peak Dragon Rankers you brought back are from the Haran family. They were one of the oldest families in Somerland. However, when Somerland was in chaos decades ago, they wanted to take over Somerland and make ordinary people their slaves. Thus, I banished them from Solerland. I didn’t think my compassion back then was returned with hatred. Now, they are helping our sworn enemy, Falconia, to attack Somerland. When Dirk was fighting Blaze, a God Rank guardian from Falconia, he was nearly critically injured because he was ambushed by people from the Haran Family.”

‘Dirk, the God of Military, was nearly critically injured because he was ambushed.

“The people from the Haram family are everywhere!’

Chapter 493

Not only did they unite with the people of Falconia to attack old Master Stefani, but they also went after Dirk, the God of Military. Furthermore, the people from the Haran family had killed more than a dozen Somerland elites before David found them.

‘How many grievances were there?’

David did not understand.

After saying so much in one breath, Mason felt a little tired and started gasping violently.

Julia quickly took out the oxygen tube and let Mason have a few breaths.

“Great-grandpa, stop speaking,” Julia said with tears in her eyes.

David also felt a weight on his chest.

The legendary old man who once ruled the world and had fought nine God Rank guardians by himself not long ago was speaking with so much difficulty now.

“I’m fine.” Mason calmed down after taking a few breaths of oxygen.

“David, this battle was actually provoked by myself. The purpose was to send a message at the last moment to shock everyone who wants to attack Somerland. If it happened a year later, I estimate that I wouldn’t even have the energy to take action. Even if I die now, as long as we keep things quiet, they would not dare to strike again in such a short time.”

“Great-grandpa! You won’t die, you won’t!” Julia cried at one side.

Ever since David came in, Julia’s tears never stopped.

It could be seen that Julia had deep feelings for her great-grandfather.

“Old Master Stefani, is there really no way to save you? Isn’t the magnetic field able to delay aging now? Is it not working for you now?” David asked.

“If it didn’t work, I’d already be buried in the ground. How can a normal person have a chance to live till my age? I’m not afraid of death, but right now, Somerland has both internal and external troubles, and Dirk and you still need time to grow. If I die and you have no other way, just stick to one side. Give up other parts of Somerland and leave some hope for the nation,” Mason said with a sigh.

David was observing Mason using the Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine he had just learned. He thought that he had seen something, but it was a little vague and not very clear.

“David, I’ll leave Julia to you from now on, I hope you treat her well.”

“Huh?”

David was busy observing Mason, so he was a little confused when he was interrupted by this statement.

“This is my only request as an old man who is about to die. I hope you can agree,” Mason said solemnly.

David looked at Mason inexplicably.

‘What does it mean?’

‘Is he asking me to marry Julia?’

‘What the hell is this?’

He had a girlfriend and he still had not figured out what to do with Pearl.

Would it not be even messier if Julia was added into the mix?

“Old Master Stefani, um... I actually have a girlfriend,” David said.

Although he did not want to disappoint this old man who had dedicated his life to Somerland, but he had no other choice.

Otherwise, it was going to get messy.

Right now, two women were enough to give him a headache, so wouldn’t it be worse if Julia was also involved?

“It’s okay if you have a girlfriend. I’m not close-minded. Which of the capable people in ancient Somerland didn’t have multiple wives and mistresses? I just need you to promise me that you will treat Julia well in the future,” Mason said with a grin.

David had no idea what to say at this moment.

If everyone was as open-minded as he said, David would not have to struggle so much.

“Old Master Stefani, it’s not that I don’t want to promise you this, but I’m afraid that I won’t be able to handle the relationship between them,” David said with a wry smile.

“Don’t worry, Julia is not that kind of ignorant girl. As long as you agree, she will definitely handle the relationship with your girlfriend properly. Can’t you agree to the last request of a dying person?”
‘Um...’ David was speechless for a moment.

Chapter 494

David looked at the 7153 lavish points on his system panel with a wry smile.

He did not want to use it.

He wanted to accumulate it and break through to the God Rank as soon as possible to become a guardian.

That way, he would have some ability to defend himself.

Today’s society was too dangerous, so even a God Rank guardian was not invincible.

Mason killed one of them only a few days ago.

However, if he did not use it, his current knowledge level of Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine would not be enough to determine Mason’s physical condition. He only had a vague idea of what was going on, but not the whole picture.

It was fine if he did not learn Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine because he would not understand either way.

However, he now held half of the knowledge, so everything still appeared ambiguous to him. This was such a horrible feeling.

Moreover, Mason dedicated his life to Somerland, so even if there was only a slim chance, David would not stand idly by and watch this old man die. Not to mention Mason also wanted to entrust Julia to him.

If Mason was really dying, could he refuse the old man’s only request?

Afraid not!

David felt a headache coming when he thought about being entangled with three women at the time.

Therefore, it was best to upgrade Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine to try to save Mason.

Not only could it continue to protect the stability of Somerland but he could also flee from Mason’s last request.

It would be the best of both worlds.

However, he would need to consume his poor lavish points again.

David made up his mind that when he went back, he would directly give the heads of East League Capitals a death order. Everyone had to help him spend 200 billion within half a month, if they could not, they would be sacked.

He had to spend money wildly to get lavish points without caring about the cost now.

He could not worry about so many things now.

He would not care if he was exposed as long as he could become a God Rank guardian in a short period.

If he could upgrade his physique and mind power to the limit of God Rank, even Mason not even be his opponent.

At that time, even if ten or twenty God Rank guardians came at him, they would only end up being tortured by him.

‘F*ck, I’ll just do this!

David gritted his teeth and continued to upgrade Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine.

He spent 1000 lavish points again.

It dropped from 7153 points to 6153 points.

David was so heartbroken.

Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine had been improved from expert to perfection.

Once again, David received countless pieces of knowledge about Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine in a flash.

When he used the technique of Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine again and looked at Mason, what he saw was completely different.

He could see Mason's physical condition clearly at just a glance, and it was no longer vague and ambiguous as before.

Mason had indeed reached his limit, and the functions of various organs in his body had begun to seriously decline.

Within a month, Mason would pass away.

Now there was only one way to save Mason, and that was to combine the medicinal powers of more than ten kinds of treasures of heaven and earth to rejuvenate Mason's decayed organs, thereby having the effect of prolonging his lifespan.

However, it would be extremely difficult to combine the medicinal power of several kinds of treasures of heaven and earth.

If it was not for David, who upgraded his knowledge of Somerland Ancient Traditional Medicine to perfection, no one in this world would have been able to do it.

The combination of drug effects was too complicated, and accurate to the unit of micrograms.

If there was even a little imbalance, all the medicinal effects would be disrupted and the effect would be greatly reduced.

By then, it would not have the effect of rejuvenating the various functions of the body, instead, it would only be regarded as a supplement at most.

David could do it now, but it still depended on whether he could find the dozens of these treasures of heaven and earth.

Chapter 495

If he could find them, Mason would have at least another five to ten years to live.

If he could not, then he would not be able to do anything.

It could only be said that Mason's life was destined to end here.

He had done his best and the system was not omnipotent, so it could not pull the treasures of heaven and earth out of thin air.

"David, what do you think? Have you not figured it out yet? Can't you agree to the last little request of a dying man? In truth, I can't help it either, the world is about to be chaotic, so I just want to find a safe haven for Julia to spend the rest of her life in peace.

This is the only thing I, her great-grandpa, can do for her," Mason said, looking a little desolate.

"Great-grandpa, I don't want to leave you," Julia cried.

"You silly girl, I can no longer protect you, so David is the best final destination for you."

"Old Master Stefani, what if I said I could save you, but I still need something?" David asked suddenly.

Upon hearing what David said, Mason and Julia were taken aback.

"David, stop joking with an old fart like me. If you really don't want to, I can't force you. I can only blame Julia for not being blessed that way. I know my body best. I'm not injured or sick, I've just reached the end of my life so no one can treat this,"

Mason said with a sigh.

He knew his situation well.

Many experts in the medical field had come to examine him, but no one could cure death and no one could escape from it.

Everyone would experience birth, old age, sickness, and death.

He could feel that he had less than a month left.

Mason did not believe what David said, but Julia next to him seemed to have grabbed ahold of this final straw.

“David, are you serious? Can you really save my great-grandpa?” Julia asked nervously.

She was afraid that it was just a hallucination and David would say no.

“Of course. I can save Old Master Stefani, but I still need some items,” David answered.

“What do you need? As long as they exist, I’ll definitely get them for you,” Julia asked.

“Thousand-year-old ginseng, thousand-year-old knotweed, thousand-year-old bracket fungus, snow lotus...” David listed out more than ten herbs.

Then, he said, “If they are all a thousand years old, then we can extend Old Master Stefani’s life by ten years. If you can’t find thousand-year-old herbs, 500 years is fine too, but it’ll only extend Old Master Stefani’s life by 5 years.”

“Okay, I’m going to look for it, I will definitely find the ones that are thousand years old, I will definitely be able to!” Julia said. When she was about to go out, Mason stopped her.

“Julia, wait a minute!”

“Great-grandpa, I’m going to find the herbs for you, I’ll definitely find them,” Julia said.

“You have nowhere to look now. Plus, these medicinal materials will not be sold on the market at all.”

“Then... What should I do?” Julia asked a little unwillingly.

“Wait until I make everything clear.”

Mason looked at David after he said that.

“David, can you really save me?” Mason asked seriously.

If he could continue to live, of course, he would be more than willing to.

It was not that he was afraid of death, on the contrary, it was because he wanted to continue to protect the land of Somerland.

If he could live another ten years...

By then, Dirk and David would be able to take the lead and Somerland would no longer be afraid of prying eyes from all sides.

“Yes, but I need the herbs I just mentioned,” David said.

“The herbs won’t be a problem. Are you confident in this?"

"I am," David answered firmly.

"Alright, I believe you. I hope you won't disappoint me."

"Don't worry, Old Master Stefani. I would never joke about this kind of thing. However, I have to have all of the herbs. Just like you said, they might not be sold in the marketplace."

"Even if they're not sold on the market, I think some hidden sects and families should have them. Since they want to resurface, it's normal to ask something from them as the official authority in Somerland," Mason said confidently.

As the supreme ruler of Somerland, his confidence in this showcased his strength.

Moreover, he just fought nine God Rank guardians not long ago. With this result, no one would dare to cross him during this period.