

I'm A Quadrillionaire

Chapter 337 "Absolutely irreconcilable," Nilier replied through gritted teeth, "Tell me about it."

After David heard Killer's story, he could not help but look up to him slightly

He was a kid from a rich family who lived a good life since childhood, but because his parents were kidnapped and killed by Bloodthirsty Mercenaries, he came to Chaos Land alone in order to avenge his parents. Then, he spent more than a decade to grow to this stage.

Only Killer knew how many dangers and life and death he had experienced throughout this journey. Such a person was indeed worthy of his admiration.

It had nothing to do with strength, but instead, this was about his spirit.

"Sure," David said.

There was no need for him to refuse this kind of thing. As long as the result was the same, the process was not important,

He had no grievances with Tyrant, and he only wanted to kill Tyrant so that the Chasez family would not have him as their talisman anymore. By then, he could easily take action against the Chasez family.

Therefore, ultimately, it did not matter whose hands Tyrant died in.

Besides, Tyrant seemed to be a man of many evils.

In reality, not everyone in the mercenary world was a bad guy. Many of the tasks the mercenaries took on were jobs similar to what a bodyguard would do. They would just need to protect the safety of their employer. This was like the small team Paul and his men used to be in.

"Thank you, Captain!" Killer exclaimed excitedly.

Finally, there was hope for revenge and his parents would finally be able to rest in peace. He had waited too long for this day. "But I also have one condition," David said. "Please tell me, Captain." "I want you to join the Red Flame completely and become the deputy captain of Red Flame. With Paul's strength, he's destined not to be able to control Red Flame Mercenaries, and I can't stay here forever. So, I need a strong person who could hold the fort to lead Red Flame. What do you think?"

Killer thought about it and answered, "Alright, as long as you help me avenge my father, I will accept your order.

"A real man..."

"Never goes back on his words!" Killer went back to where he was staying.

Before David got here, he was indeed the strongest, so he managed to occupy a dilapidated building. The weaker ones could only build their own tents.

Fortunately, these mercenaries were cruel and merciless people, so they did not care so much. They could fall asleep even in the wilderness, let alone in tents.

As soon as Killer entered the building, someone asked, "Boss, how's it going? Are we leaving too? I think everyone has evacuated."

There were seven or eight people in the room at that moment. They were all fiddling with their weapons, some wiping their sniper rifles while others were toying with the dagger in their hands.

After Killer walked in, they all looked up at him. The one who just spoke was one of the women who was dressed enchantingly. Moreover, all of these seven or eight people were Tiger Rank masters. Some of them were even peak Tiger Rankers.

They were definitely a powerful force that could not be ignored. Obviously, Killer's team valued quality over quantity, preferring to recruit elites.

"I decided to disband our team and merge with the Red Flame Mercenaries," Killer said. "What? Boss, are you suffering from a fever?" "Why? Isn't it good for us to stay together? Our target is small and we have a lot of mobility. Even the big mercenaries can't do anything about us." "Yeah, I think we're fine like this. Why should we merge with Red Flame?" "Could it be that Red Flame is seriously attacking Dark Cape? Boss, we know you want to seek revenge, but you're courting death if you do this." Everyone stopped doing what they were doing as they waited for Killer's answer. They could not accept the team's disbandment nor their merger with Red Flame. They had been working for so many years and they had a strong mutual understanding when carrying out tasks. Plus, they had a close relationship with each other. They would be scattered if they were to join other mercenary units. Would they still be able to trust their teammates if they joined other teams?

Chapter 338 "I met the captain of the Red Flame Mercenaries today and he's very strong," Killer said.

"How strong?"

"I can offer no resistance in front of him. I suspect he has already reached the peak and taken that small step."

What?

Everyone looked at Killer in shock.

Naturally, they understood what Killer meant.

But how was this possible?

The captain of a newly formed mercenary group turned out to be a master above the peak! Who would believe this?

No one!

Although they had not reached that level, they had been with Killer for so many years and they knew how difficult it was to take that small step. There were not many people at the peak of Dragon Rank, but there were quite a number of them amongst the tens of billions of people in the world. However, those who took that small step were inconceivably rare.

This was because once someone took that step, it was only a matter of time for them to break through to that legendary realm.

Tyrant, the number one of Dragon Rank, was only in the Dragon Rank. If the captain of Red Flame really took that step, he would no longer belong to the category of Dragon Rank. If that was the case, Tyrant was definitely no match for the captain of Red Flame.

Although the difference between the two was only a small step, the quality was completely different.

Killer went on to say, "The others did not leave, but instead, they went to complete the tasks assigned by the captain. We will also leave in a while to gather some strong people to join Red Flame. We will meet here in a week and wait for the captain's arrangement, and then we'll attack Dark Cape."

"Boss, have you made up your mind? You have to understand that once we join Red Flame, they won't let us form teams of our own. They will split us all up. We've formed such great mutual understanding and I don't want to be in a team with other people. I don't trust them." "Me too!" "Us too!"

The rest of them chimed in

*Don't worry about this, after taking down Dark Cape and destroying Bloodthirsty Mercenaries, the captain will leave. By then, I will be the first deputy leader of Red Flame and will assign you all to an elite team. After we take down Dark Cape, we'll be able to settle down and we won't have to live this kind of homeless and miserable life anymore"

Upon hearing Killer's words, they were all slightly moved, if their leader could become the first deputy captain of Red Flame, merging with Red Flame was no longer an unacceptable proposition.

Plus, with the wealth and extravagance that Red Flame had shown, they would enjoy a much better life in the future.

"Boss, are you sure that the captain is not lying to you? Will they really hand Red Flame to you after spending so much effort to form the Red Flame Mercenaries and taking control of Dark Cape? Moreover, he even intends to let you be the first deputy captain? What is the purpose of him doing this?"

"I don't know the purpose of the captain. Maybe he has the same hatred toward Bloodthirsty Mercenaries as me, or maybe he wants to take Dark Cape into his own hands, but I believe he won't lie to me. Besides, a strong man of this level would not even bother lying to me," Killer said seriously. Several people looked at each other and nodded. One of them stood up and said, "Okay! Since you said so, Boss, then we agree to merge with Red Flame, but our team can't be separated, otherwise, we will not be able to trust our teammates when we're on missions."

"Don't worry, you won't be separated. If the attack on Dark Cape is successful this time, this might just be our last mission, after which everyone can live in peace. Dark Cape is a treasured land that is blessed by heaven, and you won't run out of money if you're over there. The Bloodthirsty Mercenaries occupied Dark Cape for nearly ten years and they had never done a single mission," Killer said.

He and these people were brothers in life and death.

Even though Killer was in a much higher realm than them, he had never put on airs, and he had never taken arbitrary action. He would always discuss with everyone no matter what happened.

That was why so many strong people were willing to follow him. A peak Tiger Ranker had enough power to become a captain and lead their own small mercenary group to accept missions. However, they were all willing to follow Killer due to the latter's charm.

Chapter 339 He was strong and he did not put on airs. Aside from the fact that he was a little strict when they were on missions, he would usually be able to get along with everyone. Besides, they also understood by executing their mission strictly, they were being responsible for everyone's lives. After Killer convinced everyone, he left alongside them.

He was going to gather more men to attack Dark Cape. Although the captain could deal with Tyrant, there were still many masters in the Bloodthirsty Mercenaries and their current strength was far from enough.

Before he left, David told him that he could hire a few large mercenary groups to help at a large price. As long as Tyrant was taken care of, he believed they would not give up this good opportunity to make money and become famous.

He also felt that this method was very feasible. Thus, he was going to contact a few large mercenary groups to see if he could convince them. After Killer left, Paul and the gang walked in.

"Mr. Lidell!"

The three greeted at the same time. "Thanks for the hard work these past days, guys," David said.

"It's not that hard, but if you had not come, we really wouldn't have been able to control them anymore. These mercenaries are all full of experiences and we could not restrain them with our current strength at all. If it wasn't for Killer, they would have replaced me a long time ago." Paul smiled bitterly. "Is Killer the one who just stayed just now?" David asked.

"Yes, as far as I know, he really has a vendetta against Bloodthirsty Mercenaries," Paul replied. "Yeah, I got it. He will be the first deputy captain of Red Flame in the future. You don't have to overthink. I can only find a stronger person to control Red Flame since you won't be able to suppress them with your strength when I am not around. I hope you can understand that you also need to continue to train diligently and strive to break through to the Dragon Rank as soon as possible." "I understand, Mr. Lidell," Paul replied respectfully. He knew the mechanics of a mercenary group better than David. The person with the capability would go up in ranks while the person without would only go down.

Strength was the foundation of all things.

With his current strength, he would be more suitable to being the leader of a small team. He was still not qualified to be the deputy captain.

“But you are still the deputy captain. You should take charge of the daily operations of Red Flame.”

“Thank you, Mr. Lidell.” “By the way, what happened to the order I gave you?” “Mr. Lidell, it has been done. The most advanced weapons in the world will arrive within three days.” “That’s good. We will set off to attack Dark Cape a week later no matter the circumstances. You should go and make preparations.” “Alright, Mr. Lidell.” With that, Paul and the gang left. Meanwhile, David was a little absent-minded as he sat on his chair. He would need to attack Dark Cape in a week His strength had reached a double limit again. According to his last experience, if he wanted to continue upgrading, he might need to have about 10 thousand lavish points. Which meant he would need to spend one trillion dollars. There were two categories, namely his body and mind. If he needed 10 thousand lavish points for each one, then he would need 20 thousand for both. This did not include the points needed continue upgrading each trait. If his lavish points continued its current pace and increased by a little more than ten points a day, he did not know when he would be able to reach that goal. It would be great if the earth had an owner, as he would seriously go and ask them whether they were selling the planet.

Chapter 340

Chaos Land used to be a very powerful country. Although it was not comparable to the two empires of Somerland and Falconia, it was still much stronger than some other countries.

Since this country was extremely rich in natural resources, Falconia had been eyeing at it for a long time, but due to the pressure exerted by Somerland, Falconia did not dare to do anything too brazen, Hence, they could only start from within. After years of infiltration by Falconia, the country was now divided from within. Just as Falconia intended to seize the country’s resources, it was stopped by Somerland.

Naturally, Somerland would not allow Falconia to continue to strengthen itself. The two empires would restrict each other, which then gave the mercenary groups huge opportunities to expand

After all the shenanigans, the place had developed to become a heaven for mercenaries while even the surrounding small countries would send people disguised as mercenaries to snatch resources for themselves. With that, Chaos Land became the most chaotic place in the world. It was similar to tribal hegemony. Large mercenary groups were equivalent to large tribes and would occupy places with rich resources, while small mercenary groups were equivalent to small tribes who would occupy places with relatively fewer resources. Once the resources in the occupied territory were depleted, they would either look for new land with untapped resources or conquer resource-rich land that were previously occupied by other mercenary groups. When this happened, it would trigger a battle. Therefore, the natives here hated the Falconians very much, but they also slowly accepted reality. They would group to combine their strength and then move around under the name of the mercenary groups.

The largest mercenary group in the global underground world, the Holy Light Mercenaries, was composed of masters left behind from the former country. They were still occupying the most prosperous place in the Chaos Land. The reason why they were named Holy Light was that they wanted to purify all darkness in the world. On the other hand, there was one kind of entity in the Chaos Land that was protected by all mercenary groups, that was, the professional resource collection team. The mercenary group occupied the land with resources. Naturally, they needed to collect resources and exchange them for money. However, as many did not know how to collect these resources, a new professional group was born, which was now known as the resource collection team.

They would charge a certain commission to help the mercenary group gather resources. Even if the mercenary group they were helping got destroyed, they would not be harmed. They would just change to another employer and continue doing their job. This was because they would not work unless their safety could be guaranteed. If they refused to come, it would be useless even if the mercenary group occupied the areas in question,

Therefore, within Chaos Land, whenever there was a war between mercenary groups to snatch resources, the resource collection workers would never be implicated. Even if they were accidentally injured, they would be compensated with a lot of money.

The resources collected by the major mercenary groups also had to be sold, which then formed a trading area in the Chaos Land that was called the Peace Area.

This place was also protected by all mercenaries as the resources that everyone collected would be shipped here to exchange for money and traded for daily necessities and food,

The Peace Area also gathered merchants from various countries around the world. After they had shipped the resources out and sold them, they would bring in all kinds of food.

Many resource collection workers would also rest in the Peace Area when they did not have tasks at hand. At the same time, they would wait for their next task to arrive.

The Peace Area was actually a bustling city that was located in Chaos Land. It was safe, lively, and prosperous. Of course, safety was also relative. There was no absolute safety in Chaos Land. The temporary gathering place of Red Flame that Paul chose was very close to the Peace Area, which made it convenient for him to issue recruitment tasks and buy supplies.

As for why they did not set up a temporary gathering place for Red Flame Mercenaries in the Peace Area itself, it was not because they did not want to spend money, but it was because they also had to buy a large number of advanced weapons. Unfortunately, weapons were not allowed in the Peace Area.

Thus, they could only find a temporary lodging outside the Peace Area.

At this moment, David was walking on the bustling streets of the Peace Area. The liveliness here made him feel like he was back in Somerland.

However, the difference was that there were no high-rise buildings here. The tallest building was a small building consisting of several floors. There were many people selling things on the street, including food, clothing, and daily necessities. There were all kinds of items being sold here, but the prices were often super expensive, often costing at least five times the price back in Somerland. Occasionally, some items were even ten times the price back home.

After all, doing business here would carry a certain amount of risk. Who would come here if there were no huge benefits tempting them? Moreover, the people here, whether they were mercenaries or workers from the resources collection team, would be able to earn a lot of money. They would then spend money recklessly. This was especially true for the mercenaries. They would live precariously every day and they did not adopt the concept of saving money. Thus, they would be happiest spending money in the Peace Area pursuing enjoyment.

Chapter 341 David found a well-decorated hotel to live in. There was still a week left so he was going to live here. After all, he was not a mercenary and he was not used to their way of life.

The condition of the hotel was alright, but the price was a bit outrageous. Of course, David did not care since money was just a number to him.

Those who could live in this type of hotel were generally high-level executives of medium sized mercenary groups or powerful people who earned a lot of money. That was why they could afford to spend money here.

Knock knock knock!

Not long after entering the hotel room, there was a knock on the door.

David opened the door and saw a scantily clad blonde woman standing in front of the door. "Sir, do you need any services?" The woman was obviously not from Somerland. She should have been from one of the small countries around the country, but was speaking in fluent Somerish. As an adult, David naturally knew what this service was, but he was not interested. He was even able to hold himself back in front of Amelia, so of course, he would be able to hold himself back from an escort. He did not want to give this kind of woman his first time. "No, thanks," David replied. After he said that, he was about to close the door.

However, the woman stopped him from doing so.

"Sir, we have women from every country. What type do you want? We can satisfy your every need," the woman asked, unwilling to give up. "I really don't need it. Thanks, I'm going to rest." David tried to close the door, but the door was still stuck. "Get lost!" David spat out those two words, displaying some of his prestige. The woman was stunned. It was obvious that she was scared. David quickly shut the door when she removed her foot from the door. The woman came back to her senses and stomped her feet in anger. Then, she turned around to leave. When she was at the corner of the corridor, she met up with her partner.

"Lina, how's it?" A rough voice asked.

"I failed. That kid is not interested in women at all," Lina answered. "According to my observation, that kid is loaded. You have to find a way to trap him. We'll be able to live carefreely for a few years if we succeed."

Scanned with CamScanner

"Yeah, we'll think of a plan when he comes out at night." Obviously, the free service Lina offered to David was as simple as it appeared. Once David let her into the room, nothing would be straightforward. of course, it was fortunate that David did not let her in. If not, he would have been murdered without even knowing the reason.

Even though there were rules in the Peace Area, the rules were set by the strong. Plus, with David's strength, he was already at the stage where he had the power to change the rules.

The hotel did not prepare food for its guests

The mests would need to take care of their meals themselves.

David found a restaurant at random street and when he was about to go back to the hotel after pating, he saw a bar next to the hotel named Rock Bar,

He felt that it would be fine to go in, so he did just that.

The bar was huge and noisy.

A few scantily clad girls led the dance on the stage while countless people roared and shouted from below

David went to the second floor to find a seat and sat down, watching the crowd moving their bodies frantically on the dance floor downstairs. They seemed to be releasing their pent-up energy

Soon a walter came over.

"Sir, what would you like to order?". "What specialty do you have? Give me two glasses of that," David said. "Okay, please wait a moment, sir."

Not long after, two glasses of colorful alcohol were brought to him. David was drinking and watching the crowd downstairs as they vented their frustrations through dancing. He was enjoying himself.

Time passed slowly. There were more and more people in the bar now. The second floor, which was empty just now, was already full of people at that moment. Only David's table had an empty seat. Because people paid by the table here, so many people wanted to come over to share a table with David, many of whom were seductive beauties, but David rejected them all. He did not like to share a space with strangers.

David just looked downstairs quietly. Not long after, a figure stumbled over and sat opposite David. "I said I don't want to share a table with others. Please leave, thank you," David said. However, he did not turn his head to look at the person, his eyes still glued to what was

What caught his eyes was ahead of blue hair David could not be the other paran's twe because she was lying on the table,

Just as David was about to speak and call the other party town up, a deep and resounding vota came from downstairs,

"The Black Water Mercenaries are on duty, plene cooperate. Don't run around, otherwise don't blame us for being rude. We're just here to arrest someone"

The originally noisy bar suddenly became quiet, Black Water Mercenaries was a large-scale mercenary group located nearby. They had thousands of members and were very powerful. Ordinary people would not be able to afford to provoke them Hundreds of people soon poured in and began to search the people on the dance floor one by one.

Some of them went directly to the second floor,

The person who came up saw the person lying opposite David at a glance. Her blue hair was very conspicuous and the mercenaries immediately shouted, "Captain, over here!" A ferocious-looking man took more than a dozen people to the second floor. He was Black Water, the captain of Black Water Mercenaries,

After spotting the woman lying opposite David, Black Water stretched out his hand to grab her blue hair and pull. The woman was then pulled to the ground, lying on her back.

However, the woman did not wake up after she was grabbed with such great force before being thrown to the ground. She should have been drugged by something, leading her to fall unconscious.

"Damn, it's this filthy b*tch! She even wanted to kill me, but fortunately, I was prepared," Black Water cursed after seeing the woman's face. Then he said, "Somebody, take her away. I'll decide how I'll torture her after she wakes up. When I'm satisfied with her, you all will get a turn too." "Thank you, Captain! Haha, this chick has such soft and supple skin. I'm sure she's of the highest quality."

Chapter

343 Immediately, several people stepped forward to take the woman anal David did not plan to get involved in this mess. It was a dop, wat dow, staat ton in the Chaos Land so who could be sure that the woman lying on the ground was a wood peyns! However, when this group of people was about to leave, Binck Water suddenly turned to a t David. When he saw that David was not only sitting on the VIP floor but was also donlang the best alcohol and wearing fancy clothes, he asked. "Are you her nccomplice" David did not bother to talk to him.

Seeing that David was not answering him, he said again, "Take him too. *F*ck, you're very ballsy* for trying to kill me. Are you so desperate to die?"

The other guests on the second floor looked at David like they were feeling pity for him.

They saw David sitting there when they came up and just now and noticed how the woman ran over directly to sit opposite him. Aside from David asking the other party to leave, there had been no further communication between them,

They were definitely not working together, and it was obvious that the captain of the Black Water Mercenaries saw that David looked rich and wanted to blackmail him. This situation was not uncommon in the Peace Area, and it would usually be settled with some money.

However, with the notoriety of Black Water Mercenaries, David might not be able to get out of this by just spending some money. They predicted that David would have to bankrupt himself if he wanted to save himself.

At this time, a person from Black Water Mercenaries walked up to David and was about to take him away, but before his hand touched David, his body flew away.

Bang!

“Ah!”

A loud sound was followed by a scream. The man who had just tried to take action flew back and hit the wall on the second floor. Right now, he had already passed out. Everyone on the second floor looked at David in surprise.

He looked fragile and weak, but he was a master!

However, they did not think that there was anything special about this. There were too many masters in the Chaos Land and it was normal to occasionally run into one or two hidden ones.

It was just that David had completely offended the Black Water Mercenaries and he might not be able to get out of this anymore even with money. Black Water came over, narrowed his eyes at David, and grinned sinisterly. “I was only going to collect some money, but now, I not only want money, but I also want your life!”

He was about to show his murderous intent, but David had already moved. Before everyone, including Black Water, could react, David had grabbed his neck with one hand, pushed him to the wall, and lifted him with his back against the wall. Now, his feet were hanging off the ground

*You’re going to kill me?”

David’s voice sounded like it was something straight out of the deepest level of hell. Everyone felt chills all over their bodies when it rang in their ears.

Black Water stared at David in horror and opened his mouth to say something, but because David was grabbing his neck, he could not speak at all. He could not understand how a person who did not even appear to be strong could be so powerful.

David made him powerless to fight back He wanted to talk so he could beg for mercy.

However, the other party was grabbing his neck and did not give him the chance at all. “Everyone who wants to kill me has only one place to go, and it’s hell!” After David said that, he exerted some force in his hand.

Crack!

David snapped Black Water's neck under everyone on the second floor's horrified gaze. David let go of his hand and walked back to where he was. Then, Black Water's corpse slid down to the floor.

What?

Everyone was in disbelief!

The captain of Black Water Mercenaries who was also a mid-Dragon Rank expert was dead just like that?

Everyone in Black Water Mercenaries was looking at each other. They were shivering in fright, and right now, they were not thinking about how to avenge Black Water, but instead, they were thinking about how to calm this guy down so that he would not vent his anger on them. If that happened, none of them could get away. Their captain, who was a mid-Dragon Ranker, could not even endure one round by the hands of the other party, so how strong was this person? If he wanted to kill them, it would be as easy as chopping vegetables!

Chapter 344 In a secluded room in the bar, everything that was happening on the won flow

when a big screen A lazy, enchanting figure was reclining on the sofa with a glass of red wine was watching the surveillance video. She was Tulip, the owner of Rock Bar,

A woman who could open a bar in the Chaos Land would not be someone single, When she saw that Black Water was going to take David away, she was ready to dipada someone to stop them.

Who would dare to come to her bar to spend money after Black Water did this kind of tawag sa her bar? Wouldn't he be cutting off her wealth and ruining her reputation? Even though this bar was small and other aspects of this place might be average at best in the Chaos Land, it was a cash cow. It could make her a lot of money every day, Safety was the most important aspect in a bar located in such a place. If the guests' stay could not be guaranteed after they came in, who could dare to come to spend money been the future?

Therefore, she could not let Black Water break the rules of her bar,

Although Black Water had informed her earlier, she would not care if he wanted to capture and kill his enemy. However, he should not even think about capturing her guest.

As for whether they were accomplices, the people on the Killer Rank had always worked alone, much less Blue Enchantress, who was ranked ninth.

Blue Enchantress suddenly rose from 30th place to 9th place half a year ago. It was said that she successfully assassinated someone who was in the beginner stage of the Dragon Rank Plus, the first deputy captain of the Black Water Mercenaries died suddenly half a year ago

Now, she was here to assassinate Black Water again. Did this mean that the first deputy captain of Black Water Mercenaries died at the hands of Blue Enchantress half a

It seemed that there was indeed a big feud between them. Black Water Mercenaries were notorious in Chaos Land and it was normal for them to offend others.

See? The other party had nothing to do with what was happening but since they looked rich, Black Water Mercenaries would want to make a fortune off of them. Sooner or later, they would fail and then get the opposite of what they wanted. However, this had nothing to do with her. She only needed to run her bar well and that would be enough for her. Looking at Blue Enchantress who was lying on the ground, Tulip kind of wanted to take her in. However, after thinking of Black Water's recent breakthrough to become a mid-Dragon Ranker, she was a little troubled. It was not wise to offend Black Water for this matter.

Therefore, she should just forget it.

Just as Tulip was about to pick up the walkie-talkie and notify the bar manager to stop the Black Water mercenaries...

Suddenly, she stared at the big screen with wide eyes.

At this time, there was a scene on the big screen that horrified her.

David grabbed Black Water's neck with one hand and lifted him against the wall, and Black Water, a mid-Dragon Ranker, was powerless to fight back!

He could only widen his eyes and stare at the person in front of him in horror.

In less than a second, Black Water's neck was snapped, and his body slid limply down the corner of the wall.

Black Water, the captain of the dignified Black Water Mercenaries and a mid-Dragon Ranker, had just died?

He did not even have a chance to resist!

When did this character appear in the Peace Area?

Who was this man?

What was the purpose of him coming here? Tulip quickly took out her walkie-talkie and said, "Mr. Larson." "M-Ma'am?"

"Did you see the surveillance video?"

"Y-Yes!"

Mr. Larson was obviously shaken to his core. A mid-Dragon Ranker was already someone that was unfathomable to him. This kind of person was killed before he could even fight back. There was such a powerful person sitting in the bar, and as the manager, he had been completely unaware. This was a failure on his part to carry out his duty.

"When did the man with the half silver mask come in? Has he been here before?"

“Ma’am, this person came in the evening and has been sitting there for a long time. It should be his first time today. I have never seen him before. Do you want me to send someone to follow him after he leaves?” Mr. Larson asked. “Follow him? Don’t drag me into this if you want to die. Go get those two bottles of collector’s edition red wine right now, I’ll be there later,” Tulip said.

“Yes, Ma’am.”

Tulip got up quickly, walked to the mirror, and reapplied her makeup. Then, she took in her mature yet alluring figure and face before leaving the room with a smile.

David returned to his seat and sat down. He had just finished the first glass of alcohol and was taking a sip from the second glass. Then, he said, “Those who have nothing to do with this matter can leave now.”

The guests on the second floor began to walk downstairs one after another.

None of the Black Water mercenaries dared to move.

When everyone was gone, David said, “Tell me, what’s going on?”

One of the Black Water mercenaries stood up and said respectfully, “Sir, we are from Black Water Mercenaries. The blue-haired woman lying on the ground is the Blue Enchantress who’s ranked ninth in the Killer Rank. The first deputy captain of Black Water Mercenaries died at her hands half a year ago. Today, she came to assassinate our captain again. The captain saw through her and she escaped after taking a secret drug. We chased her all here while the person you just killed was our captain, who was known as Black Water.”

“Don’t people on the Killer Rank usually work alone? Why did your captain claim that I’m her accomplice?” David asked.

“Uh... It might be because you look like a rich man and he wanted to extort money from you.” “So, does Black Water Mercenaries do this a lot?” The man was so frightened that he immediately knelt on the ground. He replied while kowtowing furiously, “Sir, we are just his subordinates and we can only do what the captain says. Otherwise, we will be courting death. Please be the bigger person and spare us.” The others knelt immediately. “Sir, please spare us.” “Tell me the size of Black Water Mercenaries,” David said.

“Sir, there are more than 1300 people in the Black Water Mercenaries. Our leader was a mid Dragon Ranker and the first deputy captain was in the beginner stage of the Dragon Rank, but they are all dead and now there are sixteen Tiger Rankers, and 54 first-class. We never counted how many of the rest of the men are below first-class.” David thought contemplated for a while and decided that their size was pretty good. They would be a powerful force if they joined Red Flame, which would be very helpful for their attack on Dark Cape in a week. Plus, they had just seen his strength so they should not dare to have any other thoughts. “You are now the acting captain of the team for the time being. Go back and sort out Black Water Mercenaries. Then, gather five kilometers west of the Peace Area in a week You will be working for me from now on. If you don’t come, you will know the consequences,” David said. “Yes, of course! We will definitely be there! Thank you for your kindness in not killing us. It is our honor to be able to work for a big shot like you.” “Okay, you can leave now. Take the body away too.” “Yes, Sir, we will leave now.”

Two people came out from the group of a dozen people and carried Black Water’s corpse away. They went downstairs and left the bar along with the hundred or so people downstairs.

Chapter 345 The entire second floor of the bar was quiet, leaving only David and the woman lying on the ground David glanced at the woman. “Number nine on the Killer Rank? ‘Blue Enchantress?’ “This woman should not be too old, right? “But she’s already so powerful?”

The music downstairs continued and the people on the dance floor started moving their bodies frantically again.

This situation was very common in the Peace Area and nobody found it strange. For most people, the level of the captain of Black Water Mercenaries was still too out of reach for them.

They did not know Black Water and they did not know what happened on the second floor. They thought the Black Water mercenaries had caught the person they were after and had left, so they started to have fun again.

However, two security guards at Rock Bar stood at the stairs to the second floor restricted everyone else from going up.

David poured the colorful alcohol from his glass onto Blue Enchantress’s face.

He did not know when this woman would wake up and he did not have time to wait for her. Plus, he forgot to ask the people from Black Water Mercenaries for an antidote, so he directly used the simplest and rudest method.

Sure enough, this method was quite effective and it did not take long for Blue Enchantress to wake up slowly. She opened her eyes and quickly got up from the ground. Then, she wiped the alcohol off her face with her hands before observing the surrounding environment vigilantly. When she saw that David was the only one around, she asked in a hoarse voice, “Who are you?” “You don’t need to know who I am. Now, please give me a reason not to kill you, Miss Blue Enchantress, number nine on the Killer List,” David said lightly. He disliked these killers who would accept money to get rid of their employer’s problems for them regardless of the target’s identities, about disregarding whether the target was good or bad. As long as the employer paid them, they would take action, while he himself was nearly assassinated. If he was not strong enough, he would have already been killed. Therefore, he would not be merciful when encountering this kind of killer who could not distinguish between good and evil. If he was sure that the person in front of him was also like that, he would not hesitate to kill her to prevent her from assassinating others in the future.

When she heard him calling her name, Blue Enchantress knew that he had recognized her and quickly got into a defensive stance. Then, a dagger appeared in her hand, “Who the hell are you? I don’t think I know you, right? Why do you want to kill me?” Blue Enchantress asked,

“Oh, how ridiculous! You’re an assassin, do you think you haven’t killed enough people who you don’t know? What if I’ve also been entrusted to do this by others?” David replied,

“Did Black Water send you? Where is he?” Blue Enchantress asked angrily,

“What if I said I was sent by those innocent people whom you killed before?”

“Innocent? None of the people I killed are innocent. They’re all scum who destroyed my home. Unfortunately, I still can’t kill all of them to avenge my family,” Blue Enchantress said emotionally,

When David heard what Blue Enchantress said, he asked in shock, “Aren’t you an assassin? You’re even number nine on the Killer Rank. Have you never killed an Innocent person before?”

“I only kill those who deserve to be killed, They destroyed my home and killed my family, but unfortunately, I’m not strong enough so I can’t kill all of them!”

Chapter 346

“So Black Water Mercenaries were the ones who destroyed your home’

Not exactly, but their captain and first deputy captain were the ones who did that. However, I could only kill their first deputy captain and not their captain, Black Water le plotted against me during this assassination attempt so that’s why I fled here.”

“Tell me about your situation. If you can convince me, I won’t kill you and I will even give you a surprise,” David said.

He wanted to hear the story of Blue Enchantress.

If she had never killed an innocent person just as she claimed, he felt that it would be good to bring this person under his command.

He needed more talents for his force anyway, but of course, he needed her character to be acceptable too.

Blue Enchantress began to tell David about her past.

She knew that she was not David’s opponent at all. After all, she could sense that David was like an ocean while she was just a small boat.

This was her talent. Not only could she hide her own aura, but she could also detect the strength of others. She relied on this to catch the first deputy captain of Black Water Mercenaries off guard and kill him. He was at the beginning stage of Dragon Rank while she was halfway through Dragon Rank. Although they seemed to be half a step apart, there was a huge gap between them.

If Black Water was a pond to her, David was the sea and there was absolutely no comparison between the two. So, she could only do as David said because she did not want to die and she also had not killed everyone who destroyed her home.

Blue Enchantress was originally the princess of a small country on the edge of the Chaos Land who lived a carefree and happy life.

Even though it was called a small country, it was actually equivalent to the area of a small county in Somerland. However, these small countries were much richer in resources than the small counties in Somerland. Ten years ago, the resources of this small country were coveted by a large mercenary group. Then, they came up with a random excuse and started attacking the small country.

Although Blue Enchantress' country resisted with all its might, it was still defeated in the face of the enemy's well-prepared invasion. Everyone in the country was killed or captured. With the help of her master, she escaped. In the end, her master also died tragically at the hands of the enemy in order to cover for her.

Then, she started her plan to seek revenge, but the mercenary group disbanded after completely seizing her country's resources. Many high-level mercenaries returned to their own countries to live a luxurious life because Houruer, Heard to an end late. She did not expect Black Water to have reached mid-Dragon Rank yet fall into the trap and after, she was drugged, she fled here. She thought she would surely be dead but when she woke up, to her surprise, she discovered that she had not fallen into the hands of Black Water. This was the summary of her history. This kind of thing has happened in Chaos Land. However, it was not for someone to have the power to seek revenge like she Enchantress. The ones who managed to survive would only drag out an ignoble existence. Over the past years, she relied on killing these people to climb up the rank of the Killer Rank. She even more straight to number nine of the Killer Rank after she successfully killed the first deputy captain of the Sack Water Mercenaries, a master in the beginner stage of the Dragon Rank, half a year ago. Even though she gave all she had back then and was severely injured, only recovering after recuperating for three months, this did not diminish the fact that she had indeed kill a master in the beginner stage of the Dragon Rank.
